TRAIN KILLS TWO WORKMEN

Today

Good News of Henry Ford.
Two Chinese Bosses.
Useful Lady Astor.
Perfect Venus Wanted.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

REASSURING news concerning Henry Ford was received direct from his family yesterday, yesterday afternoon. There is said to be no doubt as to his ultimate recovery, although his injuries are serious.

THERE is no further confirmation of the supposition, widely circulated, that Mr. Ford's car was deliberately crowded from the road and down a steep embankment by occupants of another, bigger car seeking to injure Mr. Ford. Further information as to that may come from Mr. Ford upon his complete recovery.

THOSE familiar with the scene of the accident, right off the highway from Detroit to Chicago, feel that Mr. Ford's escape was almost miraculous. A man in less perfect physical condition could not have escaped alive, at Mr. Ford's age.

THE two big men in the Chinese revolution already disagree. One will not go where the other is, thinking it might not be safe. Two governments may be set up in China, dividing the territory between them. That will mean more fighting, each great ruler will want to be the only one. This country, if wise, will get out of China, taking out missionaries and fighting men, and watch the Chinese work out their own salvation, or the reverse. What they decide to do is not our business.

BRITAIN may thank this country for producing and sending to London Lady Astor from Virginia, to say nothing of the great Astor fortune. First Lady Astor showed British women the way to parliament. Now she helps to defeat an effort to legalize British race track gambling. She knows that betting on races enriches in Britain, as it does here, an utterly worthless tribe of race track touts, gamblers and horse owners, whose "sport" makes thieves of other men's employes.

AN AUSTRALIAN wants to locate the ideal "Venus" and requests information. He has measured thousands of female beauties and finds the average waist 27 inches. That Australian can find his perfect Venus in a handsome room, all by herself, in the Louvre, in Paris. The Venus de Milo is the perfect woman. The perfect female figure is the one best fitted for motherhood, not for walking the tight rope or turning somersaults.

JOSEPH MURPHY, 45, New Waterford.

ALBERT SEIDEL, 23, New Waterford.

London Cabinet Decides to Reinforce Shanghai Defense as Situation Becomes More Alarming.

15,000 BRITISH TROOPS ON JOB

Eugene Chen Accuses Reactionaries and Ruffians of Responsibility for Outrages Against Foreigners.

LONDON, April 2.—Great Britain has decided to send additional troops to China, it was learned today.

The cabinet has reached a decision to reinforce the Shanghai defense forces, which already number more than 15,000 men.

The reinforcements will consist of some 5,000 additional troops, include a brigade of infantry, artillery units and a guards battalion.

The admiralty was advised that the nationalists have mounted 10-inch guns on Lion hill near Nanking.

Squabble Over Policy.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The U. S. gunboat Asheville has been sent from Shanghai to Tsien-Tsin, in the Pekin area, for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the Asiatic squadron, advised the navy today. Minister MacMurray, at Pekin, requested the vessel.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The British and American governments are distinctly at loggerheads today over the question of a joint policy in dealing with the critical Chinese situation.

Officials of both governments may endeavor to minimize the differences, but the divergence of views between Washington and London are well known in diplomatic quarters—and quite possibly to the Cantonese nationalists as well.

American opposition to any theatrical fist brandishing in China has already resulted in the British note to the Cantonese being toned down considerably, probably to the point where the American government can support it. A copy of it is now enroute to Washington. It differs materially from that originally drafted by the British cabinet, according to London advices.

Common Front Urged.

The differences between Downing street and Pennsylvania avenue might be described as the difference between firmness and belligerency. Great Britain, with a much greater stake in China, as well as in nearby India, is for an ultimatum to the Cantonese, based on the Nanking outrages, and backed up by the threat

POLICEMAN WILL CHECK LICENSE NUMBERS OF CARS IN CHARGE OF CAREFUL DRIVERS NEXT WEEK

In a movement to decrease automobile accidents, the Review-Tribune, co-operating with the Columbiana County Motor club, police department and Ceramic theatre, on Monday will launch a week's Safe Driving compaign.

Ten pairs of Ceramic theatre tickets will be distributed each day to automobile owners whose license numbers are checked by a police officer. The license numbers will be published each day and tickets will be distributed from Motor Club headquarters in the Marfourth building.

Points at which the check will be made will vary from day to day in order that the survey may be as comprehensive as possible. Drivers will not be forewarned. As a result, motorists, anxious to appear on the honor roll with consequent rewards of free theatre tickets, will drive carefully at all times, which is the object of the campaign.

The mayor, safety director and police department will co-operate in the campaign to encourage automobile drivers to be careful, observing traffic light signals, parking regulations, speed limits and other traffic laws.

Car numbers will be noted by patrolmen not only in the business district but also in the residential sections. First list of license numbers will be published Tuesday evening. Names of the honor roll drivers will also be published each day, starting Wednesday, after the theatre tickets have been claimed.

Automobile owners watch for the numbers to appear daily. If yours appears go to the motor club headquarters in the Marfourth building for the theatre tickets. The license certificate or other conclusive proof as to the identity of the driver must be furnished when the tickets are claimed. Tickets will be good for any photoplay except an extraordinary attraction.

POLICEMAN WILL CHECK LICENSE NUMBERS OF CARS IN CHARGE OF CAREFUL DRIVERS NEXT WEEK

In a movement to decrease automobile accidents, the Review-Tribune, co-operating with the Columbiana County Motor club, police department and Ceramic theatre, on Monday will launch a week's Safe Driving compaign.

Ten pairs of Ceramic theatre tickets will be distributed each day to automobile owners whose license numbers are checked by a police officer. The license numbers will be published each day and tickets will be distributed from Motor Club headquarters in the Marfourth building.

Points at which the check will be made will vary from day to day in order that the survey may be as comprehensive as possible. Drivers will not be forewarned. As a result, motorists, anxious to appear on the honor roll with consequent rewards of free theatre tickets, will drive carefully at all times, which is the object of the campaign.

The mayor, safety director and police department will co-operate in the campaign to encourage autombile drivers to be careful, observing traffic light signals, parking regulations, speed limits and other traffic laws.

Car numbers will be noted by patrolmen not only in the business district but also in the residential sections. First list of license numbers will be published Tuesday evening. Names of the honor roll drivers will also be published each day, starting Wednesday, after the theatre tickets have been claimed.

Automobile owners watch for the numbers to appear daily. If yours appears go to the motor club headquarters in the Marfourth building for the theatre tickets. The license certificate or other conclusive proof as to the identity of the driver must be furnished when the tickets are claimed. Tickets will be good for any photoplay except an extraordinary attraction.

Drive carefully and watch for your number in the Review-Tribune!

Super Six Principle Placing Hudson Among Front Rank Cars

Lisbon Hill and St. Clair Avenue are Taken in High; Big Car Easily Attains Speed Mark of 75 Miles an Hour Here.

Imagine a speed almost like that of the wind, unfettered, sweeping, magnificent; a tremendous power, never, apparently, fully unleashed, that would level ordinary hills as if by the wave of a magic wand; and in the "pinches," the stubborn, "hanging on" grip of an infuriated bulldog; the agility of a mountain lion; and with it all—quietness, ease and a performance with the smooth, velvety touch of the first warm zephyr of spring.

That is the Hudson—the new Hudson—with the famous super six principle released to the limit.

East Liverpool's two noted hills, testing grounds for any and all makes of automobiles, St. Clair avenue from the Horn switch at the bottom to a point at the top a short distance south of the cemetery, and Lisbon Hill crumbled away as sand hills might beneath the foot of a giant as the Hudson super six was turned loose on them yesterday afternoon.

Ray T. Birch, East Liverpool's Hudson-Essex dealer, who next week will stage a "show me" week for those with Missourian instincts, through the medium of a Hudson demonstration campaign, knew undoubtedly what he was talking about when he waxed enthusiastic over the achievement of the new Hudson, but we had never ridden in the new car, and were inclined to adopt the grain of salt theory.

After a couple of hours of amazement behind the Hudson's long, lavish hood, we knew what Birch and the Hudson Motor company meant by "the super six principle, released to the limit," although at no time during our automotive gyrations up and down the hills and over the highways of the city and contiguous territory was that big, black motor under the hood released to the limit.

At no time during the trip was the motor "favored." It had to come clean, or admit failure and the latter certainly was never the case.

Starting up St. Clair avenue, the first big hurdle, we were forced to throttle down to between 8 and 10 miles an our as a result of a slight traffic congestion at the traffic light in the Broadway-St. Clair avenue intersection. Ordinarily it might have been good policy to back up and try it again, but our demonstrator thought nothing of the situation and tramped on the accelerator.

And there was no jerk—but down there somewhere under the foot-board could be faintly heard a low, angry rumble, and with a movement as inexorable as fate itself, the big car began to gather up speed—actually increased speed. It swept up around the sharp corner at the Gaston place, with no slackening of speed. It was making close to 38 in the stretch directly beyond and then it hit the "pinch." We held our breath as the big machine's gait slackened just a little. But that was all. It took hold of the job without complaint and walked up over the crest. It was picking up again as we reached Young's alley and then went into "the rough" as the golfer might say, but the change had little or no effect on the momentum despite the absence of smooth, steady traction. On up to the Northside fire station and then we took the hump past Skinnell's store like an Olympic hurdle champion. At the extreme top the speedometer showed 45 and the driver was not applying the whip.

Later, in secluded thoroughfares, out of the way of traffic, we rode at a gait of 75 miles an hour, lack of sufficient uninterrupted straightaway preventing us from pushing the indicator hand over any further.

And probably the most noticeable thing was the absence of strain on the driver's hands and wrists. Apparently it was all taken out in the ball bearing steering gear beneath. No leaping of the car, nor sidesways. A steady flow of power impulse, always.

Performance was just as perfect at four or five miles an hour as it was at 75. Throttled down, the big motor spun as smoothing as an electric motor. No jump, no push and pull, no vibration, as a result of perfect carburization and—the counterbalanced crankshaft, counterbalanced clutch, gearset, driving universals and driving shaft of the Hudson which carried the super-six principal throught the differential.

Actual performance on the road shows that teh new Hudson can do

5 to 25 miles hour in 7 seconds.
5 to 35 miles in 10 seconds.
5 to 50 miles in 18 seconds.
5 to 75 miles and beyond almost before you can think about it.

Lisbon hill and its tortuous curves provided another test and despite lumbering trucks, teamsters and other impediments at various spots up the hill, Hudson went over the top with four passengers, averaging 165 pounds apiece. She finished at approximately 26 after we had come almost to a dead stop on the last turn going up. We continued on in high, no gear change, and picked up before the crest.

To the motor enthusiast—Do you want bullet-like velocity, locomotive power, electric motor movement, pullman car comfort, and Rock of Gibralter dependability? They are all there, and more, says Ray Birch, in the Hudson super six.

East Liverpool's two noted hills, testing grounds for any and all makes of automobiles, St. Clair avenue from the Horn switch at the bottom to a point at the top a short distance south of the cemetery, and Lisbon Hill crumbled away as sand hills might beneath the foot of a giant as the Hudson super six was turned loose on them yesterday afternoon.

Ray T. Birch, East Liverpool's Hudson-Essex dealer, who next week will stage a "show me" week for those with Missourian instincts, through the medium of a Hudson demonstration campaign, knew undoubtedly what he was talking about when he waxed enthusiastic over the achievement of the new Hudson, but we had never ridden in the new car, and were inclined to adopt the grain of salt theory.

After a couple of hours of amazement behind the Hudson's long, ankish hood, we knew what Birch and the Hudson Motor company meant by "the super six principle, released to the limit," although at no time during our automotive gyrations up and down the hills and over the highways of the city and contiguous territory was that big, black motor under the hood released to the limit.

At no time during the trip was the motor "favored." It had to come clean, or admit failure and the latter certainly was never the case.

Starting up St. Clair avenue, the first big hurdle, we were forced to throttle down to between 8 and 10 miles an our as a result of a slight traffic congestion at the traffic light in the Broadway-St. Clair avenue intersection. Ordinarily it might have been good policy to back up and try it again, but our demonstrator thought nothing of the situation and tramped on the accelerator.

And there was no jerk—but down there somewhere under the foot-board could be faintly heard a low, angry rumble, and with a movement as inexorable as fate itself, the big car began to gather up speed—actually increased speed. It swept up around the sharp corner at the Gaston place, with no slackening of speed. It was making close to 38 in the stretch directly beyond and then it hit the "pinch." We held our breath as the big machine's gait slackened just a little. But that was all. It took hold of the job without complaint and walked up over the crest. It was picking up again as we reached Young's alley and then went into "the rough" as the golfer might say, but the change had little or no effect on the momentum despite the absence of smooth, steady traction. On up to the Northside fire station and then we took the hump past Skinnell's store like an Olympic hurdle champion. At the extreme top the speedometer showed 45 and the driver was not applying the whip.

Later, in secluded thoroughfares, out of the way of traffic, we rode at a gait of 75 miles an hour, lack of sufficient uninterrupted straightaway preventing us from pushing the indicator hand over any further.

And probably the most noticeable thing was the absence of strain on the driver's hands and wrists. Apparently it was all taken out in the ball bearing steering gear beneath. No leaping of the car, nor sideways. A steady flow of power impulse, always.

Performance was just as perfect at four or five miles an hour as it was at 75. Throttled down, the big motor spun as smoothing as an electric motor. No jump, no push and pull, no vibration, as a result of perfect carburization and—the counterbalanced crankshaft, counterbalanced clutch, gearset, driving universals and driving shaft of the Hudson which carried the super-six principal throught the differential.

5 to 25 miles hour in 7 seconds.

5 to 35 miles in 10 seconds.

5 to 50 miles in 18 seconds.

5 to 75 miles and beyond almost before you can think about it.

Lisbon hill and its tortuous curves provided another test and despite lumbering trucks, teamsters and other impediments at various spots up the hill, Hudson went over the top with four passengers, averaging 165 pounds apiece. She finished at approximately 26 after we had come almost to a dead stop on the last turn going up. We continued on in high, no gear change, and picked up before the crest.

To the motor enthusiast—Do you want bullet-like velocity, locomotive power, electric motor movement, pullman car comfort, and Rock of Gibralter dependability? They are all there, and more, says Ray Birch, in the Hudson super six.

Q. What is Leptis Magna? G. T.

A. This is the old Roman name of the modern Lebda, in Tripolitania, an Italian possession on the Mediterranean coast of Africa. It was so-called to distinguish it from a smaller Semitic settlement near the Carthaginian frontier—Leptis Parva. Leptis Magna was the chief city of the ancient Tripolitis, the other two being Oea (the present Tripoli) and Sabrata (the modern Zuaska).

Q. When was the Bunker Mill Monument begun and finished? M. McL.

A. Subscriptions were taken as early as 1824 for the Bunker Hill Monument, by an association called the Bunker Mill Monument association, the membership of which was $5; an engraved diploma was their certificate; their names were engraved on the parchment records deposited in the corner stone. The corner stone was laid by Lafayette on June 17th, 1825. The last stone was raised during the morning of July 23rd, 1842, in the presence of the officers of the Bunker Hill Monument association and a few other spectators. The work had to be stopped several times on the structure because of the lack of funds. The approximate cost was around $120,000.

Q. How often should cellars be whitewashed? J. T. L.

A. Cellar walls should be whitewashed once or twice a year. Whitewash is a disinfectant. If the cellar walls admit moisture, it is recommended to wash them with a dilute solution of hydrochloric acid (one part acid and five parts water), and then apply a plaster of oil-mixed mortar.

MIDGETS HEAD CERAMIC BILL

Famous Midgets Act Offered With "Children of Divorce."

Williams' Midgets, offering a high class novelty in song, dance and acrobatics, will appear in conjunction with the screen feature, "Children of Divorce," at the Ceramic theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Children of Divorce" brings Clara Bow and Esther Ralston together for the first time. Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are the three leading men who head the stars' supporting cast.

Safe Driver Honor Roll

Who are East Liverpool's careful motorists?

Seeking the answer to the question, The Review-Tribune, with the co-operation of the Columbiana County Automobile Club, police department and Ceramic theatre management, will launch a one-week Safe Driving campaign on Monday.

Traffic policemen will check license numbers of motor car operators whose "good behavior" has been noted, and the numbers will be publish. Two tickets to the current attraction at the Ceramic theatre will be given each person whose license tags win a place on the honor roll.

Observations will be made at various street intersections. Traffic patrolmen will be urged to be especially alert at so-called dangerous crossings. Special attention will be given the "behavior" of drivers in the Diamond and on Broadway, Washington, Walnut, Market, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Eighth, Lisbon, Jefferson, Monroe and Mulberry streets, St. Clair, Dresden, Bradshaw and Pennsylvania avenues and River road.

The campaign not only will reveal the identity of the man who complies with traffic regulations, but will make known the names of violators of the law, for traffic officers will make arrests when circumstances warrant.

Let's co-operate next week in a drive to curtail the appalling automobile accident toll.

Little Boys Bigger

Doctors have been telling us for several years that the modern girl is taller and healthier than girls of 50 years ago. Physical examination records kept over a long period of years in colleges give particularly striking proof of this. It has generally been attributed to the fact that girls and women in recent years have entered more into sport and outdoor life than they did two or three generations ago.

Now the institute of juvenile research reports that school boys, too, are taller than the school boy 50 years ago. Several thousand school boys were examined. Their average height is found to be three and one-tenth inches ahead of the earlier average.

Since boys always have had considerable outdoor life, a different explanation is sought and readily found. Dr. Horace Gray of Chicago suggests that the extra height has resulted from increased knowledge of vitamins and general hygiene, and from medical progress in the control of infantile diseases that retard growth.

This explanation carries praise for the modern mother as well as the medical profession. Because of her interest in scientific care of her children, she takes pains to learn what is needed for their best development, and then she has the spunk to carry out the prescribed program of proper food, regular est and so on.

Paying For Past Vacations

It is reported that some of the touring agencies are offering European trips for next summer on the installment plan. The traveler pays half the cost of his trip at the start and the other half in ten monthly payments after his return.

It is possible that the agencies will make money on the system and that many of the installment plan tourists will eventually pay in full for their trips. But one wonders how the agencies will get back their tours in case of defaulted payments.

Paying for one's vacation after it is all over, however pleasant memories of it may be, certainly looks like the last word in installment folly. It would be much more practical to make these monthly payments into a Thrift Fund or a savings account for ten months in advance of the trip than to the agency for ten months after it's over.

The country has gone rather wild on this method of buying. If American prosperity, which has every reason to be enduring, is wrecked in the near future, immediate insstallment buying will have contributed a generous share to the catastrophe.

Less Broadcasting

The radio division of the American Engineering Council tells the Federal Radio Commission that more than half of the 733 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States should be eliminated by consolidation or banishment.

That sounds harsh, but is probably true. The democratic ideal of business freedom which encourages unlimited competition in other lines does not hold in the radio field. The "wave band" is limited. It does not do to assign too many stations to one wavelength, or to crowd the wave-lengths too closely together. After a certain point is reached in multiplication of broadcasting stations—and that point was passed long ago—the increase of stations actually decreases the effectiveness and value of broadcasting, to broadcasters and to the public.

There is no question that most of the 6,000,000 or more owners of radio sets would rather have a few good stations in operation than many poor ones.

Come to think of it, when our own North and South were engaged in a civil war, we weren't exactly eager to have outsiders around telling us what to do.

A BORN DIPLOMAT

Here a few months ago the story which I am now about to tell was freely circulated in certain circles where whimsical yarns are appreciated. So far as I know, though, it never found its way into the public prints. It is high time this error of omission was rectified.

In a Southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell-captain, who also was colored, for final examination before assigning him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must re respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate, "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace Hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up and knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. Eo I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an dere's a strange lady settin' in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, SUH!' and backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'suh' part—dat was tact!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Manhattan has a display window life which gives it an artificiality so pleasing to sneerers. It is not more indicative of the real New York than the drug store smart alecs along Main Street mirror the small town spirit.

As a matter of fact the temporary visitor heightens this artificiality. As a rule he flocks to the cafes, theaters and night clubs when the flash and tinsel stick out and rarely sees the dignity of the artistic and social side.

The world of Broadway is chiefly interested in high kicks, quick acting gin, flapper bobs and saxophone whines. That's the New York for out of town's consumption. There is not one visitor in a hundred who seeks a view of the other and finer side.

This is not criticism of the visitor. Only fact. A visit to New York is largely a pleasure spree—a chance to cut away from conventions, stay up all night, sleep half the day, see the girl and leg shows, watch the night club didoes and such.

The peace and beauties of Gotham are not on display. They are off beaten paths. Even mid-town architecture is more often than not hideous. There is no more beautiful spot than Riverside Drive at sunrise with the Hudson rippling at one's feet and the purpling Palisades in the background.

Nor Central Park when a gray dusk is sifting through spreading trees and wisteria bowers and the sun hangs a sullen red in the west. Or the view of the craft in the harbor. The ribbon like roads of Westchester. The breathless vista at Inspiration Point. And so on.

In contrast to Broadway and the few streets of the Roaring Forties, there are scores of peaceful streets where knitting ladies are at windows. There are cathedrals rivaling those of the old world and art treasures that are unrivaled.

A certain New Yorker gave his wife permission to purchase a traveling set for an European journey. When he received the bill he found it so expensive he had to give up the trip. Fifth Avenue displays them from $300 up to $3,500. Train porters refuse to carry them. They feel the risk is too great.

There is no legal redress for night club owners who are given bouncing checks in payment for illicit liquor. They must accept the loss. But they have inaugurated a scheme that may affect a cure. All checks returned "N. S. F." are put on display in a well lighted glass cabinet in the entrance hall.

HASKIN'S LETTER

A Whippet Derby.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2. — In May, Washington is to be the scene of the first national whippet derby ever held in the United States. Whippet races have been held within the last few years in various sections of the country but this is the first time that there has been a national derby. It is to be held under the auspices of the Whippet Club of America and it is hoped by enthusiasts that it will be the forerunner of an annual event.

Whippets have been called the "poor man's racehorse" and have justified this name in England where whippet racing originated. In this country, however, this sport is largely in the hands of a few wealthy dog fanciers, although this breed is said to have been introduced into the United States by natives of Lancastershire who brought their dogs with them when seeking their fortunes in a new country.

For many years whippet racing has been of vital interest and importance to the mill workers of Lancastershire, England. These people train their dogs and care for them all year that they may be entered in the big annual derby. Even thought the family may be obliged to go on short ratios the dogs are given their required amount of food, and the best of quality.

The story is told that one of these mill works who owned a fine whippet had purchased meat for him. The dog ate only half and the rest was put away for the next meal. While the man was away at work the mother, torn by her children's hunger, gave them the rest of the meat. When the father returned from the mill and looked for the food for the dog, he viewed her act as almost sacrilege, asking her in awed tones if she had forgotten that the great day of the derby was very close. Of course this may be understood to a certain extent when it is realized that having a winning dog in the whippet derby is about the only way these people may hope to make any considerable sum of money.

The whippet is really a small variety of greyhound. In conformation it follows closely the lines of its larger brother and except for size the two can hardly be distinguished. Even in color it follows the various shades common to greyhounds—black, white, fawn, red, gray, and brindle, with combinations of such colors with white. The ideal height for males of the breed is 18 1-2 inches at the shoulder and for females 17 1-2 inches. The average and ideal weights for mature individuals are for males 21 pounds and for females 20 pounds.

Origin of Name.

The origin of the name "whippet" is from the Old English "wappet," meaning cur, and "whapping," meaning the yapping of a dog. This breed is said to have originated approximately a hundred years ago in the northern part of England. Rabbit baiting was a favorite sport at that time among the mill hands, colliers, and workmen of Yorkshire, Durham, Northumberland, and Lancastershire and to these men is largely due the developing of the whippet. When it later became unlawful to conduct rabbit-baiting races a straight course, such as is used today, was adopted. In developing the whippet, breeders sought to obtain extreme speed, endurance, and stamina.

Safe Driver Honor Roll

Who are East Liverpool's careful motorists?

Seeking the answer to the question, The Review-Tribune, with the co-operation of the Columbiana County Automobile Club, police department and Ceramic theatre management, will launch a one-week Safe Driving campaign on Monday.

Traffic policemen will check license numbers of motor car operators whose "good behavior" has been noted, and the numbers will be publish. Two tickets to the current attraction at the Ceramic theatre will be given each person whose license tags win a place on the honor roll.

Observations will be made at various street intersections. Traffic patrolmen will be urged to be especially alert at so-called dangerous crossings. Special attention will be given the "behavior" of drivers in the Diamond and on Broadway, Washington, Walnut, Market, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Eighth, Lisbon, Jefferson, Monroe and Mulberry streets, St. Clair, Dresden, Bradshaw and Pennsylvania avenues and River road.

The campaign not only will reveal the identity of the man who complies with traffic regulations, but will make known the names of violators of the law, for traffic officers will make arrests when circumstances warrant.

Let's co-operate next week in a drive to curtail the appalling automobile accident toll.

Little Boys Bigger

Doctors have been telling us for several years that the modern girl is taller and healthier than girls of 50 years ago. Physical examination records kept over a long period of years in colleges give particularly striking proof of this. It has generally been attributed to the fact that girls and women in recent years have entered more into sport and outdoor life than they did two or three generations ago.

Now the institute of juvenile research reports that school boys, too, are taller than the school boy 50 years ago. Several thousand school boys were examined. Their average height is found to be three and one-tenth inches ahead of the earlier average.

Since boys always have had considerable outdoor life, a different explanation is sought and readily found. Dr. Horace Gray of Chicago suggests that the extra height has resulted from increased knowledge of vitamins and general hygiene, and from medical progress in the control of infantile diseases that retard growth.

This explanation carries praise for the modern mother as well as the medical profession. Because of her interest in scientific care of her children, she takes pains to learn what is needed for their best development, and then she has the spunk to carry out the prescribed program of proper food, regular est and so on.

Paying For Past Vacations

It is reported that some of the touring agencies are offering European trips for next summer on the installment plan. The traveler pays half the cost of his trip at the start and the other half in ten monthly payments after his return.

It is possible that the agencies will make money on the system and that many of the installment plan tourists will eventually pay in full for their trips. But one wonders how the agencies will get back their tours in case of defaulted payments.

Paying for one's vacation after it is all over, however pleasant memories of it may be, certainly looks like the last word in installment folly. It would be much more practical to make these monthly payments into a Thrift Fund or a savings account for ten months in advance of the trip than to the agency for ten months after it's over.

The country has gone rather wild on this method of buying. If American prosperity, which has every reason to be enduring, is wrecked in the near future, immediate insstallment buying will have contributed a generous share to the catastrophe.

Less Broadcasting

The radio division of the American Engineering Council tells the Federal Radio Commission that more than half of the 733 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States should be eliminated by consolidation or banishment.

That sounds harsh, but is probably true. The democratic ideal of business freedom which encourages unlimited competition in other lines does not hold in the radio field. The "wave band" is limited. It does not do to assign too many stations to one wavelength, or to crowd the wave-lengths too closely together. After a certain point is reached in multiplication of broadcasting stations—and that point was passed long ago—the increase of stations actually decreases the effectiveness and value of broadcasting, to broadcasters and to the public.

There is no question that most of the 6,000,000 or more owners of radio sets would rather have a few good stations in operation than many poor ones.

Come to think of it, when our own North and South were engaged in a civil war, we weren't exactly eager to have outsiders around telling us what to do.

A BORN DIPLOMAT

Here a few months ago the story which I am now about to tell was freely circulated in certain circles where whimsical yarns are appreciated. So far as I know, though, it never found its way into the public prints. It is high time this error of omission was rectified.

In a Southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell-captain, who also was colored, for final examination before assigning him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must re respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate, "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace Hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up and knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. Eo I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an dere's a strange lady settin' in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, SUH!' and backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'sah' part—dat was tact!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Manhattan has a display window life which gives it an artificiality so pleasing to sneerers. It is not more indicative of the real New York than the drug store smart alecs along Main Street mirror the small town spirit.

As a matter of fact the temporary visitor heightens this artificiality. As a rule he flocks to the cafes, theaters and night clubs when the flash and tinsel stick out and rarely sees the dignity of the artistic and social side.

The world of Broadway is chiefly interested in high kicks, quick acting gin, flapper bobs and saxophone whines. That's the New York for out of town's consumption. There is not one visitor in a hundred who seeks a view of the other and finer side.

This is not criticism of the visitor. Only fact. A visit to New York is largely a pleasure spree—a chance to cut away from conventions, stay up all night, sleep half the day, see the girl and leg shows, watch the night club didoes and such.

The peace and beauties of Gotham are not on display. They are off beaten paths. Even mid-town architecture is more often than not hideous. There is no more beautiful spot than Riverside Drive at sunrise with the Hudson rippling at one's feet and the purpling Palisades in the background.

Nor Central Park when a gray dusk is sifting through spreading trees and wisteria bowers and the sun hangs a sullen red in the west. Or the view of the craft in the harbor. The ribbon like roads of Westchester. The breathless vista at Inspiration Point. And so on.

In contrast to Broadway and the few streets of the Roaring Forties, there are scores of peaceful streets where knitting ladies are at windows. There are cathedrals rivaling those of the old world and art treasures that are unrivaled.

A certain New Yorker gave his wife permission to purchase a traveling set for an European journey. When he received the bill he found it so expensive he had to give up the trip. Fifth Avenue displays them from $300 up to $3,500. Train porters refuse to carry them. They feel the risk is too great.

There is no legal redress for night club owners who are given bouncing checks in payment for illicit liquor. They must accept the loss. But they have inaugurated a scheme that may affect a cure. All checks returned "N. S. F." are put on display in a well lighted glass cabinet in the entrance hall.

Cholly Knickerbocker, whose spry ear is eternally cupped for Four Hundred gossip, declares New York hasn't a society leader and no one can be found for the job. We wonder if they have thought of the "Help Wanted" columns.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK ON "NARROWS" HIGHWAY

STATE BUREAU TO ACT WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Men on Job to Get Big Shovel in Readiness.

TO SPEED WORK

Dirt Will be Dumped in Yellow Creek District.

Work on the "Narrows" will be resumed in about two or three weeks, depending upon the weather, according to information received from the state highway department which now has two men at work getting the big shovel in readiness.

Present plans call for making the fill at the south approach to the new Pennsylvania overhead bridge with dirt taken from the right of way.

This will admit of hauling future refuse from the grading over the bridge for dumping in the Yellow Creek district and also reduce the haul which has been necessary by several miles.

When the new bridge has been reached it is planned to turn the shovel and cut another slice off the hill to widen the road back as far as the traction company crossing.

The state department hopes to hurry the effort right along so that this piece of road could be surfaced with slag the same as the road through Empire and up to the Pennsy crossing above the Stratton works.

No definite working plans have been made regarding the suggestion to cut an undergrade just above Yellow Creek and build the River road straight through into Wellsville as yet.

During the recent visit of Mr. Wilbur of the federal highway department he expressed himself as satisfied this was the ultimate road site and his opinion in the matter was echoed by state highway officials present. This will do away with two bad turns at present undergrades.

It is apparent that this plan will be adopted if the memorial to congress, passed under the direction of Senator Harry M. Carpenter at the request of Governor Donahey, makes funds available.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 2.—Price movements in the stock market today were practically unchanged from the last two or three sessions. The railroad, steel and high-priced industrials moved upward briskly in the first period under the impetus of an aggressive buying demand, while the whole of the oil group, with a few of the weak specialties, were battered into the lower price ranges under a heavy onslaught of speculative selling.

The week-end business reviews reported considerable unsettlement in important branches of domestic trade, with wholesale buying conservative and for immediate requirements.

The rise in railroad stocks carried a number of the well known issues from 1 to 2½ points above the previous close, but offerings of stocks at the higher prices were quite liberal, and moderate reactions took place. Erie sold in good volume at 50¾, the highest price in twenty years, on reports that the management would expend a large sum of money on property improvements.

United States Steel repeated its almost daily performance of hanging up a new high record, the stock advancing fractionally to 170, where a good volume of business was transacted. The independent steel stocks were also firm and the motor shares made further improvement, under the lead of Studebaker and Packard.

Oil stocks were compelled to absorb another huge volume of speculative selling on rumors that further price cutting in mid-continent crude oil would be seen next week as the only effective check against excessive production of oil.

Professional selling of the bulk of industrial and specialty stocks was in comparatively large volume, with prices swaying backward and forward in a narrow radius. Coppers and sugars were inactive but steady and equipment stocks firm.

AN INTERESTING revelation about tiger hunting by rajahs and other great dignitaries in India reads as follows:

"The rajahs like to be photographed with rows of tigers they have killed, but do not like to be scratched or bitten. The day before the kill, the haunts of tigers 'marked down' are baited with meat heavily drugged. The tigers eat and can barely drag themselves along, when the beaters drive them out to be shot. Thus the royal sportsman's heroism is made pleasantly safe."

IRREVERENT bolsheviki allege in large type that under the czars the masses were similarly drugged and made docile. In their case the drug was religion, which communism calls "the opium of the people." As a matter of fact, religion is the consolation of the people and their balance wheel. But you can hardly expect bolshevism to realize that.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK ON "NARROWS" HIGHWAY

STATE BUREAU TO ACT WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Men on Job to Get Big Shovel in Readiness.

TO SPEED WORK

Dirt Will be Dumped in Yellow Creek District.

Work on the "Narrows" will be resumed in about two or three weeks, depending upon the weather, according to information received from the state highway department which now has two men at work getting the big shovel in readiness.

Present plans call for making the fill at the south approach to the new Pennsylvania overhead bridge with dirt taken from the right of way.

This will admit of hauling future refuse from the grading over the bridge for dumping in the Yellow Creek district and also reduce the haul which has been necessary by several miles.

When the new bridge has been reached it is planned to turn the shovel and cut another slice off the hill to widen the road back as far as the traction company crossing.

The state department hopes to hurry the effort right along so that this piece of road could be surfaced with slag the same as the road through Empire and up to the Pennsy crossing above the Stratton works.

No definite working plans have been made regarding the suggestion to cut an undergrade just above Yellow Creek and build the River road straight through into Wellsville as yet.

During the recent visit of Mr. Wilbur of the federal highway department he expressed himself as satisfied this was the ultimate road site and his opinion in the matter was echoed by state highway officials present. This will do away with two bad turns at present undergrades.

It is apparent that this plan will be adopted if the memorial to congress, passed under the direction of Senator Harry M. Carpenter at the request of Governor Donahey, makes funds available.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 2.—Price movements in the stock market today were practically unchanged from the last two or three sessions. The railroad, steel and high-priced industrials moved upward briskly in the first period under the impetus of an aggressive buying demand, while the whole of the oil group, with a few of the weak specialties, were battered into the lower price ranges under a heavy onslaught of speculative selling.

The week-end business reviews reported considerable unsettlement in important branches of domestic trade, with wholesale buying conservative and for immediate requirements.

The rise in railroad stocks carried a number of the well known issues from 1 to 2½ points above the previous close, but offerings of stocks at the higher prices were quite liberal, and moderate reactions took place. Erie sold in good volume at 50½, the highest price in twenty years, on reports that the management would expend a large sum of money on property improvements.

United States Steel repeated its almost daily performance of hanging up a new high record, the stock advancing fractionally to 170, where a good volume of business was transacted. The independent steel stocks were also firm and the motor shares made further improvement, under the lead of Studebaker and Packard.

Oil stocks were compelled to absorb another huge volume of speculative selling on rumors that further price cutting in mid-continent crude oil would be seen next week as the only effective check against excessive production of oil.

Professional selling of the bulk of industrial and specialty stocks was in comparatively large volume, with prices swaying backward and forward in a narrow radius. Coppers and sugars were inactive but steady and equipment stocks firm.

HATTIE

By Samuel Merwin

SYNOPSIS:

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. She and the office boy have been seen holding hands—otherwise there has been no romance in her life. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director.

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. They arrive at Beverly.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Gran'ma sat outside in the automobile while Hattie and Alice and Emily, at three, presented themselves at the gate of the Earthwide Lot. A crabbed attendant kept them waiting. Then the young man named George appeared and guided them within Hattie reflected that he must have come West on another train. He semed out here in this ragged desert of little wooden buildings and hurried pre-occupied people like an old friend. But he took for granted their presence more than three thousand miles from home. Evidently all sorts of folks came and went and nobody mattered particularly.

The lot, within, did have a bit here and there of the magic of her day dreams. Fantastically gotten up personages stolled about. On a stand under a canopy a beautiful star was having her white shoes done by a humorous Italian boy. She thought with an inexplicably poignant rush of feeling of Willie Maazzini. She saw another Italian leading a big brown bear. As they walked past a huge building she saw through an open doorway a blaze of lights and built up scenery. Two real Chinese girls walked by, giggling, gay in their yellow and green coats and trousers. A bulldog trotted past with a trained squirrel seated on his back. An immensely tall Westerner in riding chaps and blue shirt, his face painted a horried lavender tint, paused almost at her elbow to light a cirgarette, and she noted the permanent wave in his glossy hair. She wondered if cowboys really had their hair done that way out on the range.

Their guide left Alice and Emily in a court-yard, led Hattie into a building and along a corridor, and opened a door. The door closed behind her. It was a huge room, dimly beautiful, with a great deal of dark-colored wood that was elaborately carved and a lovely colored light sifting in through and arms and pictures of beautiful women scribbled over with writing and each in a carved frame of that same dark wood. A voice called—"Just a minute, dear!"—and she saw the now familiar thick shoulders of Mr. de Brissac bent over a huge flat desk at the farther end of the room. A black whip with a long braided lash hung on the wall over the desk. She turned for the man named George, but found that he hadn't come in with her. She looked again at the pictures; moved nearer a side wall, and discovered that each of theso beautiful girls was a famous star. And the scribblings were all of an intimate nature—"To dear Armand"—that sort of thing. There was another huge picture that covered a round table and was itself covered by a disk of heavy glass—the head of a delicately pretty young girl, with no sign of clothing about her rounded shoulders, and, perhaps significantly, with no inscription. She had not before thought of him in connection with woman. The discovery came upon her with considerable force. The feeling returned of an unstable world slipping under her feet. She seemed a helpless drifting bit of life, without purpose or sense of direction, a nothing moving on toward somewhere.

She moved over beneath one of the richly stained windows and stood limply there. This great man who knew so much and whose tremendous personal power was felt the world around was all she had now to tie to. They, the whole family, had cut off everything else. She felt afraid. It was going to be very hard to keep from crying. She heard him push back his chair and walk briskly toward her, but couldn't turn. She was trembling. She felt his firm hands on her shoulders as he turned her, not unkindly. She found herself held tightly in his arms. He was kissing her. It seemed in a way that she ought to resist. Then it seemed that perhaps it would be all right if she compromised by not returning his kisses; as she had with Willie Mazzini. But Willie must never know about this. It occurred to her too that this wonderful man knew everything about girls and women, knew how to make them want to kiss him. She found herself now, for the first time in her life, giving a man something, a very little of herself. It was both wonderful and terrifying. Her face burned hotly. Then the tears came, and as he released her, she dropped, sobbing, into one of those magnificent chairs and dropped her head on her arm.

She heard him saying—"Why you poor little thing, you're all unstrung!" He held her head up and made her sip a little of a fluid that burned her throat so that she gagged and coughed. He was kind now. After a little she stopped crying, and rose. He took her shoulders again and held her off at arms length, studying her face.

"My dear little girl," she said now, with a gentleness of manner that faintly reassured her, "I never meant to upset you like that. You musn't misunderstand. I told you that I mean to star you, fire you, give you both the training and the experience that will make a great artist of you. Don't you understand, child, that I'm planning deliberately to devote my genius to making you famous and rich? It's not a case for crying. I intend that you shall be happy. As a mater of fact, you're not going to see such a lot of me. Within a day or so I shall be plunging into the job of making the biggest picture of my career. You are to help me in that job. I warn you I shall often be brusque. I have to give myself to my work day and night. It's a terrific drive."

It seemed wonderful that he, de Brissac, should be so patiently explaining himself to her.

He went on—"I'm not going to stir you up like that—not very often—because it is my plan to use that delicately virginal face of yours all through this the first of the pictures we are to make together. Do you know why I have taken you up like this? Picked you out of a million girls? Because you have just that delicate quality. Because you're not hard-boiled. Later, as I told you, I shall develop your emotions, bring you out, make a dramatic actress of you. All that in its own good time. Not now. You have great emotional possibilities. The test showed that. But you must understand this one thing—your emotions are mine, mine alone. You are not to let any other man play with them. I mean to build you, little by little. I tell you I'm going to make you."

She said, in her weak whisper—

"Yes, sir."

"You don't have to 'sir' me, dear. Call me Mr. de Brissac in public. When we're alone call me anything you like. Call me Armand."

But she knew she couldn't do that.

Her eyes, with the first sense of furtiveness they had ever known, roved uncertainly from one to another of his pictures.

"How do I know—" She couldn't get the words out.

"Yes? What's that?"

"How do I know you're—not—married?"

He semed out here in this ragged desert of little wooden buildings and hurried pre-occupied people like an old friend. But he took for granted their presence more than three thousand miles from home. Evidently all sorts of folks came and went and nobody mattered particularly.

The lot, within, did have a bit here and there of the magic of her day dreams. Fantastically gotten up personages stolled about. On a stand under a canopy a beautiful star was having her white shoes done by a humorous Italian boy. She thought with an inexplicably poignant rush of feeling of Willie Maazzini. She saw another Italian leading a big brown bear. As they walked past a huge building she saw through an open doorway a blaze of lights and built up scenery. Two real Chinese girls walked by, giggling, gay in their yellow and green coats and trousers. A bulldog trotted past with a trained squirrel seated on his back. An immensely tall Westerner in riding chaps and blue shirt, his face painted a horried lavender tint, paused almost at her elbow to light a cirgarette, and she noted the permanent wave in his glossy hair. She wondered if cowboys really had their hair done that way out on the range.

Their guide left Alice and Emily in a court-yard, led Hattie into a building and along a corridor, and opened a door. The door closed behind her. It was a huge room, dimly beautiful, with a great deal of dark-colored wood that was elaborately carved and a lovely colored light sifting in through and arms and pictures of beautiful women scribbled over with writing and each in a carved frame of that same dark wood. A voice called—"Just a minute, dear!"—and she saw the now familiar thick shoulders of Mr. de Brissac bent over a huge flat desk at the farther end of the room. A black whip with a long braided lash hung on the wall over the desk. She turned for the man named George, but found that he hadn't come in with her. She looked again at the pictures; moved nearer a side wall, and discovered that each of these beautiful girls was a famous star. And the scribblings were all of an intimate nature—"To dear Armand"—that sort of thing. There was another huge picture that covered a round table and was itself covered by a disk of heavy glass—the head of a delicately pretty young girl, with no sign of clothing about her rounded shoulders, and, perhaps significantly, with no inscription. She had not before thought of him in connection with woman. The discovery came upon her with considerable force. The feeling returned of an unstable world slipping under her feet. She seemed a helpless drifting bit of life, without purpose or sense of direction, a nothing moving on toward somewhere.

She moved over beneath one of the richly stained windows and stood limply there. This great man who knew so much and whose tremendous personal power was felt the world around was all she had now to tie to. They, the whole family, had cut off everything else. She felt afraid. It was going to be very hard to keep from crying. She heard him push back his chair and walk briskly toward her, but couldn't turn. She was trembling. She felt his firm hands on her shoulders as he turned her, not unkindly. She found herself held tightly in his arms. He was kissing her. It seemed in a way that she ought to resist. Then it seemed that perhaps it would be all right if she compromised by not returning his kisses; as she had with Willie Mazzini. But Willie must never know about this. It occurred to her too that this wonderful man knew everything about girls and women, knew how to make them want to kiss him. She found herself now, for the first time in her life, giving a man something, a very little of herself. It was both wonderful and terrifying. Her face burned hotly. Then the tears came, and as he released her, she dropped, sobbing, into one of those magnificent chairs and dropped her head on her arm.

She heard him saying—"Why you poor little thing, you're all unstrung!" He held her head up and made her sip a little of a fluid that burned her throat so that she gagged and coughed. He was kind now. After a little she stopped crying, and rose. He took her shoulders again and held her off at arms length, studying her face.

"My dear little girl," she said now, with a gentleness of manner that faintly reassured her, "I never meant to upset you like that. You musn't misunderstand. I told you that I mean to star you, fire you, give you both the training and the experience that will make a great artist of you. Don't you understand, child, that I'm planning deliberately to devote my genius to making you famous and rich? It's not a case for crying. I intend that you shall be happy. As a mater of fact, you're not going to see such a lot of me. Within a day or so I shall be plunging into the job of making the biggest picture of my career. You are to help me in that job. I warn you I shall often be brusque. I have to give myself to my work day and night. It's a terrific drive."

It seemed wonderful that he, de Brissac, should be so patiently explaining himself to her.

He went on—"I'm not going to stir you up like that—not very often—because it is my plan to use that delicately virginal face of yours all through this the first of the pictures we are to make together. Do you know why I have taken you up like this? Picked you out of a million girls? Because you have just that delicate quality. Because you're not hard-boiled. Later, as I told you, I shall develop your emotions, bring you out, make a dramatic actress of you. All that in its own good time. Not now. You have great emotional possibilities. The test showed that. But you must understand this one thing—your emotions are mine, mine alone. You are not to let any other man play with them. I mean to build you, little by little. I tell you I'm going to make you."

She said, in her weak whisper—

"Yes, sir."

"You don't have to 'sir' me, dear. Call me Mr. de Brissac in public. When we're alone call me anything you like. Call me Armand."

But she knew she couldn't do that.

Her eyes, with the first sense of furtiveness they had ever known, roved uncertainly from one to another of his pictures.

"How do I know—" She couldn't get the words out.

"Yes? What's that?"

"How do I know you're—not—married?"

PHYSICIANS REPORT HENRY FORD OUT OF DANGER

ARMED GUARDS SURROUND HIS DEARBORN HOME

America's Billionaire Convalescing After Auto Crash.

PLOT IS DENIED

Motor King Will Testify in Sapiro Libel Trial.

By William K. Hutchinson.

DETROIT, April 2.—The identity of the two men whose car crashed into the small coupe driven by Henry Ford Sunday night is known to the Ford secret police but the occupants of the car will not be prosecuted, it was indicated today by Prosecutor Robert M. Toms.

DETROIT, April 2.—Tightly strapped in splints, Henry Ford lay helpless today in an old-fashioned bed at his Dearborn palace, taking the complete rest necessary for his recovery from injuries received in a motor crash last Sunday night. A cordon of armed guards surrounded the estate.

America's first billionaire was convalescing and his physicians finally reported him out of danger. Great care however, is being exercised to prevent the development of complications.

Officials of the Ford Motor company meanwhile put the quietus on reports that the accident to the motor king was the result of an attempt to assassinate him. They acted at Ford's own direction, the motor king deciding that urgent steps must be taken to end the unexpected publicity that surrounded the crash.

Needs Only Rest.

The million dollar libel suit, which Aaron Sapiro, so-called wheat king, brought against Ford, today stood in adjournment until Monday. The motor king will appear as a witness in the trial but not until he has completely recovered. In the meantime, other witnesses will be called and, on Monday, Sapiro will resume the stand to undergo further cross-examination by Senator A. Reed, chief of Ford's counsel.

Ford probably will be able to leave his Dearborn home within two weeks unless unexpected complications develop. He needs only rest and the aid of nature to recover, according to his physicians.

An announcement, issued on behalf of the doctors by one of the Ford officials, follows:

"Mr. Ford's recovery is so assured that we will issue no more medical bulletins. Mr. Ford is convalescing in a perfectly normal manner, although he still suffers some pain from a sprained back and must lie perfectly still in splints and tape. All Mr. Ford must do to get well is to lie flat on his back and let nature take its course."

Mrs. Ford Reads to Him.

Ford, however, was reported to be very impatient and eager to get out into the open air and back to his desk. With the motor king one of the most restless men in the world, the big problem facing his family and physicians was to keep him quiet. Mrs. Ford spent most of yesterday at his bedside, it was learned, reading to him and the auto king evidenced much interest in the newspaper accounts of his accident.

It was these newspaper accounts incidentally which caused Ford to order the "soft pedal" put upon the reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate him. As a matter of fact, Ford himself originated the reports, according to authentic information. The motor king told his intimate friends that he believed it was a deliberate attempt to murder him when a "hit and run" driver, in a big Studebaker, side-swiped the coupe in which he was driving and knocked him across a sidewalk near his Dearborn estate and down a 15-foot embankment. Ford was particularly convinced of the ulterior motive of the driver by what he believed was an earlier attempt to crash into him just as he was about to cross a bridge over the Rouge river. The actual crash came a few seconds later after he crossed this bridge.

Seek Studebaker Driver.

Ford, who is one of the most experienced motorists in the country and who raced cars with Barney Oldfield years ago, gave orders at once to locate this Studebaker but anticipated no publicity on the subject. He was amazed later to learn that the whole matter had become public property and gave orders that the subject be dropped so far as the public was concerned.

The investigation, started by his secret agents, is continuing however, even though official statements have been issued to the contrary. In fact the Detroit police sent one officer at least to aid in the investigation.

The purpose of the Ford agents was to locate the suspected murder car to satisfy their own curiosity as to who drove into the auto king.

Secret Agents On Job.

A dozen of his secret agents, led by Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford investigators, spent yesterday in the federal building viewing every visitor to the libel suit trial. This action was taken as a precaution so that they will know the regular visitors when Ford goes to appear on the witness stand. Such precautions have not been taken previously within the memory of the oldest attache in the federal building.

A cordon of armed guards was thrown around Ford's Dearborn estate. This was done because Ford has a conviction that publicity on one attempt to assassinate him will provoke others. This was his chief reason for deprecating reports that last Sunday's crash was a designed attempt to attack him. He was so annoyed by the publicity given him this week that investigations have been ordered to learn who has been responsible for the news leaking to the public.

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge today won its thirty-eighth annual boat race from Oxford.

Although Oxford took an early lead and was half a length in the van at the two-mile mark the Cambridge oarsmen bent to their task in the last two miles of the race and began pulling up as the boats reached Chiswick and then showed greater strength as they passed Duke's Meadow.

When the boats crossed the finish line at Mortlake the Cambridge crew was two lengths ahead.

VAN SWERINGENS LOSE ONE ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Van Swearingen interests today lost the first round of a fight with minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, who are opposed to the proposed billion dollar railroad merger.

TOLEDO YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD

Police Believe Boy Was Strangled to Death.

TOLEDO, April 2.—While funeral services for Robert E. Wilson, 17, are being held here today, police continued attempts to ascertain how the youth came to his death. Authorities are inclined to the belief that the boy was strangled to death, his throat cut by some sharp instrument and the body then carried to the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad track where it was found.

Sandusky county officials state the boy's neck was broken. Deep cuts were found across the back of the neck and on the hands.

Absence of marks on the body, police said, indicates the boy was not hit by a train as was at first supposed. A pool of blood was also found 50 feet from the body.

HILLTOP MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Orchard Grove Avenue Church Observes "Family Night."

That there will come a time to the procrastinating soul in which he will not be able to enter into a salvation status with God was declared by Rev. Joseph Edie, evangelist at the Orchard Grove revival, last evening. "My message is one of warning," he said. "There is no neutral, half-way ground in serving Jesus Christ."

The inclement night depleted somewhat the attendance of what was intended to be "Family Night." The largest one present developed to be that of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burns which consisted of themselves and their daughters, Misses Mary and Lucy. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Conn presented Mr. Burns with a copy of Edgar A. Guest's poems as a token of the occasion.

The song service, directed by Charles A. Price with Miss Mary Burns as organist, was followed by a duet by Mesdames Conn and Edie, "Listen to the Voice of the Saviour." Mrs. H. F. Burns accompanied them.

The invocation was made by Harry Brokaw, superintendent of the Orchard Grove Sunday school.

The revival, it was anounced, will be concluded on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Conn will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Edie, returning from his Youngstown pastorate, in the evening. Young People's night will be emphasized at the final session of the series of meetings.

That Rev. Mr. Conn may be enabled to be present on Sunday evening Rev. Alfred Walls, a former pastor, will preach at the Anderson Methodist church, Ninth street.

Toledoan Dies of Rabies.

TOLEDO, O., April 2.—As the result of one death by rabies and the serious illness of Patrolman Frank Wilson, City Welfare Director Jermain today started a vigorous campaign to eliminate stray dogs in Lucas county. Authorities believe the city is threatened with an epidemic. All dogs found running the streets have been ordered killed.

of reprisals and sanctions. The American government doesn't want to subscribe to the policy up to the point of sanctions. This government would rather deal with each individual problem as it arises, such as was done at Nanking, and not lay down any hard and fast policy in advance which future events might make unwise to follow.

The necessity of the powers maintaining a common front, or at least the semblance of one, in China, is well recognized in Washington. One official, describing the situation, paraphrased Benjamin Franklin's famous assertion of 150 years ago: "We must hang together, or assuredly we will all hang separately." It is for this reason that efforts are being made to minimize the differences between the London and Washington governments, and to get together.

Guerillas Cause Apprehension.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Guerillas and armed bandits are causing some apprehension in Shanghai, while foreign evacuation of the Yangtze ports continues without any serious disorders.

The Nationalists are attempting to disarm the guerillas and the Chinese police are making efforts to cope with the bandits who are staging repeated hold-ups throughout Shanghai

Meanwhile the matter of reported dissension within the ranks of the Nationalists is the subject for rumor. The repeated reports that Chiang Kai-Shek has been ordered deposed as military commander and that he intends to resist, are still without official confirmation. Efforts to reach Chiang Kai-Shek today for an interview were futile, as the Nationalist commander is completely surrounded by armed guards at all times and comes into public contact but infrequently.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Cantonese government, in a statement made public today, accused "reactionary and counter revolutionary elements and local ruffians" of responsibility for the foreign outbreak at Nanking.

NO COMPROMISE IN SIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Operators Say First Move is up to Union Chief.

AWAIT PARLEY

Stage Set for Showdown in Pittsburgh District.

CHICAGO, April 2.—No compromise was in sight today as the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field entered its second day.

Operators openly declared the first move for a new conference must come from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"We are willing at all times to talk the situation over with union officials," said Rice Miller, president of the coal operators' association of Illinois. "But we cannot afford to pay the Jacksonville wage scale and survive in competition with non-union fields."

It was the termination of the Jacksonville scale, providing a basic day wage of $7.50 that caused the suspension of mining throughout the field which embraces western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Ohio May Take Lead.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—With the scheduled conference between Ohio United Mine Workers representatives and Ohio operators at Columbus, April 7, this state may assume the lead in attempts to resume coal mining in the unionized central competitive field.

Although Ohio miners have steadfastly maintained they will not work for less than the old Jacksonville wage scale which expired April 1, and operators are insisting on a new competitive rate, it is possible a "middle ground" may be reached and a compromise effected.

Pennsylvania Situation.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—With the miners and operators in western Pennsylvania, the heart of the nation's bituminous coal producing area, farther apart than ever, the stage was being set today for a showdown in the wage controversy.

At the offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company preparations were made to reopen the company's eight large mines on an open basis as soon as possible after working under a union agreement for years.

All Mr. Ford must do to get well is to lie flat on his back and let nature take its course."

Mrs. Ford Reads to Him.

Ford, however, was reported to be very impatient and eager to get out into the open air and back to his desk. With the motor king one of the most restless men in the world, the big problem facing his family and physicians was to keep him quiet. Mrs. Ford spent most of yesterday at his bedside, it was learned, reading to him and the auto king evidenced much interest in the newspaper accounts of his accident.

It was these newspaper accounts incidentally which caused Ford to order the "soft pedal" put upon the reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate him. As a matter of fact, Ford himself originated the reports, according to authentic information. The motor king told his intimate friends that he believed it was a deliberate attempt to murder him when a "hit and run" driver, in a big Studebaker, side-swiped the coupe in which he was driving and knocked him across a sidewalk near his Dearborn estate and down a 15-foot embankment. Ford was particularly convinced of the ulterior motive of the driver by what he believed was an earlier attempt to crash into him just as he was about to cross a bridge over the Rouge river. The actual crash came a few seconds later after he crossed this bridge.

Seek Studebaker Driver.

Ford, who is one of the most experienced motorists in the country and who raced cars with Barney Oldfield years ago, gave orders at once to locate this Studebaker but anticipated no publicity on the subject. He was amazed later to learn that the whole matter had become public property and gave orders that the subject be dropped so far as the public was concerned.

The investigation, started by his secret agents, is continuing however, even though official statements have been issued to the contrary. In fact the Detroit police sent one officer at least to aid in the investigation.

The purpose of the Ford agents was to locate the suspected murder car to satisfy their own curiosity as to who drove into the auto king.

Secret Agents On Job.

A dozen of his secret agents, led by Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford investigators, spent yesterday in the federal building viewing every visitor to the libel suit trial. This action was taken as a precaution so that they will know the regular visitors when Ford goes to appear on the witness stand. Such precautions have not been taken previously within the memory of the oldest attache in the federal building.

A cordon of armed guards was thrown around Ford's Dearborn estate. This was done because Ford has a conviction that publicity on one attempt to assassinate him will provoke others. This was his chief reason for deprecating reports that last Sunday's crash was a designed attempt to attack him. He was so annoyed by the publicity given him this week that investigations have been ordered to learn who has been responsible for the news leaking to the public.

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge today won its thirty-eighth annual boat race from Oxford.

Although Oxford took an early lead and was half a length in the van at the two-mile mark the Cambridge oarsmen bent to their task in the last two miles of the race and began pulling up as the boats reached Chiswick and then showed greater strength as they passed Duke's Meadow.

When the boats crossed the finish line at Mortlake the Cambridge crew was two lengths ahead.

TOLEDO YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD

Police Believe Boy Was Strangled to Death.

TOLEDO, April 2.—While funeral services for Robert E. Wilson, 17, are being held here today, police continued attempts to ascertain how the youth came to his death. Authorities are inclined to the belief that the boy was strangled to death, his throat cut by some sharp instrument and the body then carried to the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad track where it was found.

Sandusky county officials state the boy's neck was broken. Deep cuts were found across the back of the neck and on the hands.

Absence of marks on the body, police said, indicates the boy was not hit by a train as was at first supposed. A pool of blood was also found 50 feet from the body.

HILLTOP MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Orchard Grove Avenue Church Observes "Family Night."

That there will come a time to the procrastinating soul in which he will not be able to enter into a salvation status with God was declared by Rev. Joseph Edie, evangelist at the Orchard Grove revival, last evening. "My message is one of warning," he said. "There is no neutral, half-way ground in serving Jesus Christ."

The inclement night depleted some what the attendance of what was intended to be "Family Night." The largest one present developed to be that of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burns which consisted of themselves and their daughters, Misses Mary and Lucy. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Conn presented Mr. Burns with a copy of Edgar A. Guest's poems as a token of the occasion.

The song service, directed by Charles A. Price with Miss Mary Burns as organist, was followed by a duet by Mesdames Conn and Edie, "Listen to the Voice of the Saviour." Mrs. H. F. Burns accompanied them.

The invocation was made by Harry Brokaw, superintendent of the Orchard Grove Sunday school.

The revival, it was anounced, will be concluded on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Conn will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Edie, returning from his Youngstown pastorate, in the evening. Young People's night will be emphasized at the final session of the series of meetings.

That Rev. Mr. Conn may be enabled to be present on Sunday evening Rev. Alfred Walls, a former pastor, will preach at the Anderson Methodist church, Ninth street.

of reprisals and sanctions. The American government doesn't want to subscribe to the policy up to the point of sanctions. This government would rather deal with each individual problem as it arises, such as was done at Nanking, and not lay down any hard and fast policy in advance which future events might make unwise to follow.

The necessity of the powers maintaining a common front, or at least the semblance of one, in China, is well recognized in Washington. One official, describing the situation, paraphrased Benjamin Franklin's famous assertion of 150 years ago: "We must hang together, or assuredly we will all hang separately." It is for this reason that efforts are being made to minimize the differences between the London and Washington governments, and to get together.

Guerillas Cause Apprehension.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Guerillas and armed bandits are causing some apprehension in Shanghai, while foreign evacuation of the Yangtze ports continues without any serious disorders.

The Nationalists are attempting to disarm the guerillas and the Chinese police are making efforts to cope with the bandits who are staging repeated hold-ups throughout Shanghai

Meanwhile the matter of reported dissension within the ranks of the Nationalists is the subject for rumor. The repeated reports that Chiang Kai-Shek has been ordered deposed as military commander and that he intends to resist, are still without official confirmation. Efforts to reach Chiang Kai-Shek today for an interview were futile, as the Nationalist commander is completely surrounded by armed guards at all times and comes into public contact but infrequently.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Cantonese government, in a statement made public today, accused "reactionary and counter revolutionary elements and local ruffians" of responsibility for the foreign outbreak at Nanking.

NO COMPROMISE IN SIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Operators Say First Move is up to Union Chief.

AWAIT PARLEY

Stage Set for Showdown in Pittsburgh District.

CHICAGO, April 2.—No compromise was in sight today as the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field entered its second day.

Operators openly declared the first move for a new conference must come from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"We are willing at all times to talk the situation over with union officials," said Rice Miller, president of the coal operators' association of Illinois. "But we cannot afford to pay the Jacksonville wage scale and survive in competition with non-union fields."

It was the termination of the Jacksonville scale, providing a basic day wage of $7.50 that caused the suspension of mining throughout the field which embraces western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Ohio May Take Lead.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—With the scheduled conference between Ohio United Mine Workers representatives and Ohio operators at Columbus, April 7, this state may assume the lead in attempts to resume coal mining in the unionized central competitive field.

Although Ohio miners have steadfastly maintained they will not work for less than the old Jacksonville wage scale which expired April 1, and operators are insisting on a new competitive rate, it is possible a "middle ground" may be reached and a compromise effected.

Pennsylvania Situation.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—With the miners and operators in western Pennsylvania, the heart of the nation's bituminous coal producing area, farther apart than ever, the stage was being set today for a showdown in the wage controversy.

At the offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company preparations were made to reopen the company's eight large mines on an open basis as soon as possible after working under a union agreement for years.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P STEWART

NEW MENTIONED TO SUCCEED SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—If Secretary of State Kellogg resigns (the report that he will is as persistent as the persistency with which he does not do it, day after day) what's the matter with Postmaster General New for his job?

HARRY S NEW

Slow as Kellogg is about quitting, the impression in Washington is that his official days are numbered, just the same.

Everybody seemed to think of New all at once.

HARRY STEWART NEW is as different as individual from Frank Billings Kellogg as it's possible to imagine.

Secretary Kellogg is small and dressy and fidgety.

Postmaster General New is large and sartorially informal and as restful, in his manner, as any clam. He's efficient, but he's efficient without any splurge.

New wears a large, black slouch hat, with a floppy brim. In winter he wears a coonskin overcoat. His clothes are good but he drapes 'em carelessly on his rangy frame. He's reminiscent of the west, though he comes from no farther in that direction than Indianny.

NEW'S tremendously popular. Most folks think he's the best postmaster general that ever was.

He was a newspaper man and a politician and finally a United States senator Mut when he came up for reelection, he was licked. As he'd always been a faithful wheelhorse, an appointive post had to be found for him, so he got the postmaster generalship, not because he was considered especially well equipped for it, but because he was entitled to a cabinet portfolio and that one was available.

He slid into his job as if he'd been made to order for it.

He's run it so smoothly that, during the going-on five years he's held it, it's been almost unnoticeable that there was any such job or any Harry New.

Oh, if he can only take the secretaryship of state and run it the same way!

with keenness, intelligence and spirit. The blood of the greyhound and rier breed was therefore selected as foundation stock.

So successful have breeders been in producing a dog with speed that the whippet has often been said to be the fastest animal living, although the more cautious say, "it would be impossible to say definitely which is the swiftest animal." There appears to be no dissension, however, on the statement that the whippet can outrun any other dog.

The usual length of the track on which whippet races are held is 200 yards, and the record for this distance, from a standing start, 11 2-5 seconds. When the dog is going at top speed it is figured that he is traveling at the rate of 60 or 65 miles an hour. A human runner racing with a whippet is given a handicap of at least 75 yards, and then always loses. Charlie Paddock, the famous sprinter of the West Coast, has matched his speed against that of a whippet a number of times, but even with the customary handicap has gone down to defeat before these small symbols of speed.

Training for Racing.

The racing training of whippets begins when they are three months or less of age. Before they are able to run well they are trained to chase a cloth waved at them down the track. They are daily trained to "worry the rag," and as they grow a bit older they are run first 10 or 15 yards, and then increased distances as they grow older. It is interesting to note that although this breed of dog is primarily a racing variety, there are individuals which fail to show the racing instinct and positively refuse to learn.

During the last two weeks before a derby is to be held the dogs are sent over a 200-yard course three or four times a day at top speed. The final three or four days they are weighed three times a day and their food carefully measured according to whether they are increasing or losing weight. At this time eggs play an important part in the diet, while their quota of meat is often decreased.

An unusual characteristic of the whippet male, and one which has caused considerable stir among whippet enthusiasts, is the fact that he will not pass the female on the track, thus proving that after all chivalry is not dead—at least not among whippets. There are those who maintain that this extreme courtliness should be trained out of the male, while others believe that his "manners" should be left to him and merely offset by a handicap.

The American champion whippet racer is Nomad Nancy of Oxen, belonging to Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Short Hills, New Jersey. Not only is she a champion herself but she has produced five others. One of the unusual features of the forthcoming national derby is to be a race between Nancy and her five children. Nancy is unusual also in that she is a bench dog as well as a field champion.

The recent flair for whippet racing in the United States is largely due to the enthusiasm and effort of the Damon family. On the Pacific Coast however, it has been taken up by many of the movie stars and Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among the leading ones who race their own dogs.

Dog events are almost universally popular and it is believed that the National Whippet Derby is to have the support of a large part of official Washington, many members of which are dog owners. Whippet owners all over the country are becoming enthusiastic over the idea, believing that it will be an added impetus to the sport of whippet racing in this country.

At this time eggs play an important part in the diet, while their quota of meat is often decreased.

An unusual characteristic of the whippet male, and one which has caused considerable stir among whippet enthusiasts, is the fact that he will not pass the female on the track, thus proving that after all chivalry is not dead—at least not among whippets. There are those who maintain that this extreme courtliness should be trained out of the male, while others believe that his "manners" should be left to him and merely offset by a handicap.

The American champion whippet racer is Nomad Nancy of Oxen, belonging to Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Short Hills, New Jersey. Not only is she a champion herself but she has produced five others. One of the unusual features of the forthcoming national derby is to be a race between Nancy and her five children. Nancy is unusual also in that she is a bench dog as well as a field champion.

The recent flair for whippet racing in the United States is largely due to the enthusiasm and effort of the Damon family. On the Pacific Coast, however, it has been taken up by many of the movie stars and Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among the leading ones who race their own dogs.

Dog events are almost universally popular and it is believed that the National Whippet Derby is to have the support of a large part of official Washington, many members of which are dog owners. Whippet owners all over the country are becoming enthusiastic over the idea, believing that it will be an added impetus to the sport of whippet racing in this country.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, COLLEGE STREET, ORGANIZED FEB. 19, 1888

Mrs. John S. Scott, of this city, is the only survivor of the five persons who were assembled in East Liverpool on January 24, 1888, when a series of meetings was launched with a view toward organization of the First Church of Christ.

Rev. J. A. Brenenstuhl, then pastor of the Steubenville church, came to this city for the services.

On February 19, 1888 an organization was formed with 32 charter members. Among them were R. J. Meakin, Mrs. Ellen Meakin, J. S. Scott, Margaret Hague, Mary Hague, Thomas Lloyd, Mary E. Lloyd, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Harry H. Dixon, J. C. Nichols, Matthias Adams, Mrs. Anna Adams, Viola Adams, J. N. Baxter, Mrs. E. S. Baxter, R. M. Poland, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Sarah Copeland, George Kiddy, Mrs. E. J. Kiddy, Henrietta Richardson, Maggie Richardson, A. M. Jackson, Edith M. Nichols, Lela Kessel, R. L. Wallace and Adella May.

Of these charter members only six are with the church today.

The first elders of the church were Thomas Lloyd and Matthias Adams; first deacons, J. M. Baxter, R. J. Meakin, H. H. Dixon and J. C. Nichols.

The meetings during the early history of the church were held in Ikirt's hall. J. C. Stivers, Father Teagarden, Ira C. Mitchell, N. L. Atwood, Thomas E. Cramblett and others supplied occasional preaching. Of these J. C. B. Stivers rendered the most extended service, preaching for the church here once a month, being supported by the church in co-operation with the district missionary society. Mr. Stivers was then pastor of the New Cumberland church.

During the fall of 1889 a charter was procured with Stockdale Jackman, H. H. Dixon, J. S. Scott, Thomas Lloyd and W. H. Vodrey as incorporators. These men were later elected as trustees. The name of the church as given in the charter is "Church of Christ." The name Christian church is only a grammatical equivalent.

The great desire of the promoters of this movement, known as the "Current Reformation," has always been to bring about union among Christian peoples. To this end those fundamental and universal teachings and practices have always been advocated which are designed to promote unity rather than division.

From January, 1889, meetings were held semi-monthly and many were added to the membership. Prayer meeting was held each week, and a largely attended Sunday school was maintained.

Rev. B. C. Black was the first pastor. Following him was the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Huffer who remained with the church for about six years. Rev. O. S. Reed, Rev. Walter Mansell and J. W. Gorrell, respectively, were also pastors of the church.

With the growth of the church came the need for a permanent house of worship. The congregation, after having been notified to vacate Ikirt's hall and having made fruitless efforts to secure a place of meeting, concluded that with the help of God, such a house would be erected. Josiah Thompson donated the lot on the corner of East 4th and Elm street, Dec. 8, 1889, the congregation dedicated its first house of worship. Prof. J. M. Tribble of Bethany conducted the exercises. Updike and Haws, then famous as evangelists, followed with a series of meetings which were very successful, 163 being added to the church membership.

During the pastorates of Revs. Black, Huffer and Reed the church grew and prospered. These three laid

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

611. WHY WILL NO "LION" (SATAN — SEE PETER 5:8) BE THERE?

Answer: Because he is to be bound for a thousand years, the time during which the highway of holiness is open. See Revelation 20:1-3; Matthew 12:29.

612. DID DANIEL SEE THE KINGDOMS OF THIS WORLD AS FOUR BEASTS?

Answer: See Daniel seventh chapter

613. WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THOSE KINGDOMS WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS IS ESTABLISHED?

Answer: They shall pass away—be no more; for "there was given him (Christ) dominion and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him."—Daniel 7:13, 14, 27.

614. WHAT IS MEANT, THEREFORE, BY THE EXPRESSION: "NO RAVENOUS BEAST SHALL GO UP THEREON"?

Answer: It means: "The Kingdoms of this world (will) become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ" (Revelation 11:15) and, for that reason, there will be no ravenous beasts (beastly governments ready to tear each other to pieces at the slightest provocation); for the kingdom of Christ will be a kingdom of peace.—See Isaiah 2:4.

615. WHAT IS MEANT BY, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE"—ON THE HIGHWAY OF HOLINESS."—ISAIAH 35:9.

Answer: It means that those who will walk up on the highway of holiness (the fully consecrated) will be redeemed or bought back from the bondage of sin and death by Jesus Christ, their nearest and dearest friend. The Hebrew word here translated redeemed is GAAL and means the nearest of kin EMPOWERED as such to buy back his relative's lost estate. See Strong's concordance.

616. WHO ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" (V.10)?

Answer: The Man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all to be testified (to all) in due time." I Tim. 2:5,6.

617. FROM WHERE ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" TO "RETURN"?

Answer: First some of those on the broad way to destruction—death (Matthew 7:13), shall be delivered from going down to the pit (the grave. See Job 33:19-28). Afterwards, "all that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth." (John 5:28,29) Even the little children "shall come again from the land of the enemy"—death."—Jeremiah 31:15-17; see also I Corinthians 15:21-26.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, COLLEGE STREET, ORGANIZED FEB. 19, 1888

Mrs. John S. Scott, of this city, is the only survivor of the five persons who were assembled in East Liverpool on January 24, 1888, when a series of meetings was launched with a view toward organization of the First Church of Christ.

Rev. J. A. Brenenstuhl, then pastor of the Steubenville church, came to this city for the services.

On February 19, 1888 an organization was formed with 22 charter members. Among them were R. J. Meakin, Mrs. Ellen Meakin, J. S. Scott, Margaret Hague, Mary Hague, Thomas Lloyd, Mary E. Lloyd, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Harry H. Dixon, J. C. Nichols, Matthias Adams, Mrs. Anna Adams, Viola Adams, J. N. Baxter, Mrs. E. S. Baxter, R. M. Poland, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Sarah Copeland, George Kiddy, Mrs. E. J. Kiddy, Henrietta Richardson, Maggie Richardson, A. M. Jackson, Edith M. Nichols, Lela Kessel, R. L. Wallace and Adelia May.

Of these charter members only six are with the church today.

The first elders of the church were Thomas Lloyd and Matthias Adams; first deacons, J. M. Baxter, R. J. Meakin, H. H. Dixon and J. C. Nichols.

The meetings during the early history of the church were held in Ikirt's hall. J. C. Stivers, Father Teagarden, Ira C. Mitchell, N. L. Atwood, Thomas E. Cramblett and others supplied occasional preaching. Of these J. C. B. Stivers rendered the most extended service, preaching for the church here once a month, being supported by the church in co-operation with the district missionary society. Mr. Stivers was then pastor of the New Cumberland church.

During the fall of 1889 a charter was procured with Stockdale Jackman, H. H. Dixon, J. S. Scott, Thomas Lloyd and W. H. Vodrey as incorporators. These men were later elected as trustees. The name of the church as given in the charter is "Church of Christ." The name Christian church is only a grammatical equivalent.

The great desire of the promoters of this movement, known as the "Current Reformation," has always been to bring about union among Christian peoples. To this end those fundamental and universal teachings and practices have always been advocated which are designed to promote unity rather than division.

From January, 1889, meetings were held semi-monthly and many were added to the membership. Prayer meeting was held each week, and a largely attended Sunday school was maintained.

Rev. B. C. Black was the first pastor. Following him was the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Huffer who remained with the church for about six years. Rev. O. S. Reed, Rev. Walter Mansell and J. W. Gorrell, respectively, were also pastors of the church.

With the growth of the church came the need for a permanent house of worship. The congregation, after having been notified to vacate Ikirt's hall and having made fruitless efforts to secure a place of meeting, concluded that with the help of God, such a house would be erected. Josiah Thompson donated the lot on the corner of East 4th and Elm street, Dec. 8, 1889, the congregation dedicated its first house of worship. Prof. J. M. Tribble of Bethany conducted the exercises. Updike and Haws, then famous as evangelists, followed with a series of meetings which were very successful, 163 being added to the church membership.

During the pastorates of Revs. Black, Huffer and Reed the church grew and prospered. These three laid

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

611. WHY WILL NO "LION" (SATAN — SEE PETER 5:8) BE THERE?

Answer: Because he is to be bound for a thousand years, the time during which the highway of holiness is open. See Revelation 20:1-3; Matthew 12:29.

612. DID DANIEL SEE THE KINGDOMS OF THIS WORLD AS FOUR BEASTS?

Answer: See Daniel seventh chapter

613. WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THOSE KINGDOMS WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS IS ESTABLISHED?

Answer: They shall pass away—be no more; for "there was given him (Christ) dominion and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him."—Daniel 7:13, 14, 27.

614. WHAT IS MEANT, THEREFORE, BY THE EXPRESSION: "NO RAVENOUS BEAST SHALL GO UP THEREON"?

Answer: It means: "The Kingdoms of this world (will) become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ" (Revelation 11:15) and, for that reason, there will be no ravenous beasts (beastly governments ready to tear each other to pieces at the slightest provocation); for the kingdom of Christ will be a kingdom of peace.—See Isaiah 2:4.

615. WHAT IS MEANT BY, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE" —ON THE HIGHWAY OF HOLINESS."—ISAIAH 35:9.

Answer: It means that those who will walk up on the highway of holiness (the fully consecrated) will be redeemed or bought back from the bondage of sin and death by Jesus Christ, their nearest and dearest friend. The Hebrew word here translated redeemed is GAAL and means the nearest of kin EMPOWERED as such to buy back his relative's lost estate. See Strong's concordance.

616. WHO ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" (V.10)?

Answer: The Man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all to be testified (to all) in due time." I Tim. 2:5,6.

617. FROM WHERE ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" TO "RETURN"?

Answer: First some of those on the broad way to destruction—death (Matthew 7:13), shall be delivered from going down to the pit (the grave. See Job 33:19-28). Afterwards, "all that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth." (John 5:28,29) Even the little children "shall come again from the land of the enemy"—death.'—Jeremiah 31:15-17; see also I Corinthians 15:21-26.

BE IN CHURCH SUNDAY

'PETER BECOMES JESUS' DISCIPLE' IS SUNDAY SC HOOL LESSON

William T. Ellis Tells of Two Contrasting Pictures in Mind of Traveler.

By William T. Ellis.

Two contrasting pictures hang in the gallery of this traveler's memory. One is of a swart fisherman, with seamed face and long hair and beard, his loose cotton garment tucked into his girdle, standing on the shore of the Lake of Galilee, casting or throwing a big circular net, exactly as described in the story of Peter's call. It is arduous work, caling for skill and patience and great physical hardihood. The man might be the Fisherman Apostle come to life again on the very scene where Peter toiled. How the Land illuminates the Book!

The other picture is far from Galilee, in the "Eternal City" of Rome. I am standing beneath the dome of the greatest church in the world, which bears the name of this same fisherman. It is crowded with pilgrims from every corner of the earth. A black bronze statue of Saint Peter stands at one side, and a continuous procession of the devout pass it and reverently kiss the toe, which has been almost worn away by the lips of the fervent faithful. As I behold the spectacle, memory reverts to the primitive life about the Lake of Galilee. Peter, the fisherman, has come a long way. Viewed merely as a study in "success" is there any other contrast in the world so wonderful as this one?

What made Simon Peter, the rough swinger of nets and handler of slippery fish, over into Peter, the apostle and saint and imperial figure in whose honor countless cathedrals have been reared and whose name is above that of kings and emperors? It was only the addition of Jesus to his personality. The fisherman by the lake was Peter minus; the world figure of the apostle was Peter plus. If Jesus had not called Peter in His fellowship, he would have remained an unknown toiler on the waters to the end of his obscure and uneventful days. Our very fist look at Simon Peter returns the tremendous and timely truth that the greatest character-transforming force in the world—mightier than any college or social training—is simply association with Jesus Christ. To follow Him is to find life in beauty and in bigness.

When a Soul Wakes Up.

All sorts of spectacular events were occurring around the Lake of Galilee at this time—the erection of new buildings at Capernaum and Bethsaida; the opening of new marble structures to house the hot baths on the western shore; and the ceaseless comings and goings of Roman dignitaries. This procession of "public" events would have got the headlines in the press of the day, had there been newspapers. No notice whatever have been taken of the insignificant fact that a few rough fishermen had become followers of a new religious Teacher whose home was by the Lake.

Looking back across the centuries, with truer perspective, we perceive clearly that nothing else in the whole history of that day, not only in Galilee but also throughout the entire known world, was so important as the decision of this little group of plain men to accept the leadership of Jesus. History knows nothing of the beautiful buildings or of the local potentates who were the talk of the towns and of the time; but the impress of Peter and John and their brothers upon the world has been revolutionary.

All of the really big things that happen in the world take place inside of somebody's head. Destiny depends upon decision. Human choices are the most eventful experiences in the life of mankind. All of the greatest news of our day is entirely missed by the newspapers, because it goes on, unseen and unknown, within the inner life of individual men and women—and mostly young men and women. When a soul like Peter's wakes up to the call of Christ, vast new consequences portend for the world. The day that he answered the voice of the Master, and left the nets, Peter set out on the road to Rome and to universal influence. In that choice was a whole education.

Introducing a Great Man.

Suppose we pause here for a little glimpse of this man Peter's life, and for a preview of his career. Up until the time of our Lesson, he was known only as a fisherman, a toiler at a hard trade. His vigorous, fearless and impetuous personality had made him a leader among his fellows; but the whole crowd were relatively unimportant. Peter's home was the mean house of a peasant. He was married, and his mother-in-law lived with him. One of his first acts as a disciple of Jesus was to take the Master to his home to heal his mother-in-law, who was ill—for blessing comes to the entire household when one member decides to go whole-heartedly along with Christ.

This rough fisherman was no parlor ornament. His language was rough, and even profane. He had a quick temper, but a loyal heart. His impulsiveness led him into many blunders, but the gift of discerning and self-immolating friendship was his. Certain qualities of self-reliance and initiative made him a leader in any group of which he was a member. Andrew called a bigger man than himself when he introduced his fiery, fearless, fighting friendly brother to Jesus. A "practical man" was Peter, ever quick to do something about it. No theorizer he: when all the hopes of the Brotherhood seemed buried in a new grave, it was Peter who proposed that they return to their fishing. Sometimes I dream of the possibility of a great conference of plain, practical, Christian men, mostly workers with their hands, to face frankly the present problems of religion and life, which the preachers sem to have muddled. We forget so easily the lesson of the apostlate, that the principal equipment of the founders of our faith was not formal education, but a personal experience of Christ.

Later, Peter took a pen in his calloused, gnarled fist; but he handled a net more easily. He did better when he had Mark for an amanuensis; for be supplied the material for the second Gospel, which was the first written in point of time. In the Apostolic church Peter was foremost in the council of the brethren. Eventually, he seems to have reached Rome, some time after Paul's imprisonment and death there. No record is to be found in the Bible of Peter's presence in Rome; but the early church fathers are unanimous in recording his sojourn and martyrdom there. Recently, I visited one of the catacombs in Rome where it is believed that the bodies of Paul and Peter rested together, before they were entombed in the respective churches that bear their names. All this matters little; the real Peter lives in the hearts of myriads of Christians who are peculiarly drawn to him by his humanness and frailty and his real love for Christ.

A Man Who Made Mistakes.

All sorts of classifications have been made of mankind; one that is as good as any is the persons who have initiative and the persons who has it not. One man with initiative—a self-starter—who has been allured by the winsomeness of the Saviour, is a better asset to a community, and to the kingdom of heaven, than whole rows of expensive and endowed institutions. Why are good folk so often dull and drab and conventionalized? Peter is a splash of color in Christian history. He had persnality and push. He did things, without waiting for some organization to pass a resolution that they should be done. All the virtues and roughness of the pioneers made their home beneath his fisherman's cloak. Of all the qualities to be sough in youth, none is more priceless than initiative. To unleash a Christian Peter upon the world is a greater work than to build a cathedral.

Undoubtedly, Peter made mistakes—and how the puny, parroting, powerless little critics magnified them. The world is made up of two groups—one very small and one very large—persons who do things, and the other persons who talk about the persons who do them. Always the second company eventually become followers of the first. Better a blundering doer than an uncriticised idler. There is no other mistake equal to the making of no mistakes, because making nothing ise. Doubtless Peter's friends and family—but scarcely his mother-in-law—found fault with him for quitting his fishing in order to become a fisher of men. All his life he listened to criticism—and never heeded it.

One of the priceless bequests of Peter to the world is the lesson that "a man may be down, but never out." He embodies the good news of a second chance, and of a third chance. He taught the lesson of beginning again; which someone has put into verse:

"There's a wonderful place for the whole human race.
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where the acts of the past, in forgetfulness cast,
Rise no more, for God's pardon we gain.
And a Saviour we find, who will always be kind,
As the King of our hearts He shall reign,
And though sin-sick and sad, we shall all be made glad,
In the Land of Beginning Again."

With the completion of a new railroad line now under construction in Egypt, the running time between Cairo and Assuan will be reduced four hours.

"ATTAINING HAPPINESS," SERMON BY REV. L. E. LEE, WELLSVILLE

By Rev. L. E. Lee.

Every rational individual wants to be successful and happy. To be successful and happy certain conditions must be met or brought about in the nature of the men and women. ...al and enduring happiness is not accomplished by chance. Order is the first law of heaven.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

When Jesus said "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added" he was expressing the fact that certain things must be accomplished in the nature of men and women if they are to be happy. He was saying that happiness does not come by following the leadings of the world but that it is attained by consciously seeking to build our lives according to God's purposes for us. Let us see what is necessary to attain happiness.

Righteousness comes before happiness. The man who knows that in the sight of God and man he is unrighteous is not happy. He can never be happy as long as he is in this condition. The dishonest man is not happy nor can he be. Men who have violated the purity and cleanness of their moral life cannot be happy. All forms of sin bring in a greater or less degree unhappiness.

Spiritual adjustment comes before righteousness. God stands for all that is righteous in life. Jesus Christ has revealed God's ideals of righteousness in a way that man can understand. The man whose purposes and ideals of life are not the purposes and ideals that Jesus taught can not hope for happiness in the real sense. He lacks spiritual adjustment. He is out of adjustment with life as God purposed it should be.

Obedience comes before spiritual adjustment. The man who has refused to obey God and Christ cannot be in harmony with life at its best.

Revc. L. E. Lee.

He is not spiritually adjusted; unrighteous because of his disobedience. Jesus has asked that men confess him as God's son; that they stand before the world definitely committed to his service. He has asked that they live as He taught men should live. If any man has refused to do this or neglected to do it, he cannot be happy. Obedience must come.

Faith and love come before obedience. Man must believe that Jesus is what he claims to be, God's Son. Seeing the motive of live in the heart God which impelled Him to send Jesus into the world, we must obey. Seeing Jesus in His life driven on and sustained by an overwhelming love for humanity, we must surely love Him and obey Him. Looking about us in life and seeing this love still burning in the hearts of thousands upon thousands of His people, urging them to unselfish service in His name we must surely believe in His power. Surely we will we must believe in Him, love Him and obey Him. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added."

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OBSERVES TWENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

The Second Presbyterian church of East Liverpool was organized on March 27, 1890, by a committee of Steubenville Presbytery, consisting of Rev. A. B. Cooper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. K. Crowe and Elders John Campbell and Matthew Love. It was the outgrowth of a mission, begun just two years before, and which had been carried on under the supervision of the session of the mother church, of which W. B. McCord was superintendent and Dr. William M. Calhoon, assistant. Eighty members of the First church entered the new organization.

The first ruling elders were Robert Baird and Dr. Calhoon. John L. Noah and Noah Orr were ordained as deacons. Frank Allabaugh, William Allison, S. R. Dixon, M. C. Hollinger, James M. Pugh and John M. Smith were trustees. A constitution and by-laws, and "Plan of Benevolence" were adopted by the congregation.

The following ministers have served the congregation: Hugh A. Cooper, A. D. McCullough, N. M. Crowe, L. B. Lewellyn, H. G. Gaunt, W. W. McEwan, John M. Diehl, and the present pastor, Ferederic A. Dean, who was installed Oct. 6, 1921.

The house is located in Virginia avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, East End. The congregation worshiped in a frame building situated on the site of the present one until 1908, when a modern and commodious edifice of pressed brick was erected. The building is well equipped with class, primary and social rooms in the basement. The auditorium with the Sunday school annex will seat 600 or 700 people. In 1921 there was erected on a lot, west of the church, a brick manse. The congregation also owns the two vacant lots adjoining the church on the east.

The present officers are: Session: I. S. Beadmore; clerk, W. A. Horger; C. A. Goodballet, John W. Johnson, C. M. McCoy, John M. Smith, James C. McGraw, J. J. Persohn, H. D. Brookman; trustees, C. A. Goodballet, chairman, J. W. Johnson, George F. Mulligan, J. J. Persohn, Jas. C. McGrew, Geo. P. Persohn, Phil Thompson, Marion M. Horger, A. C. Calhoun. Deacons: William Hill, Roy Manypenny, Lundy Price, Jesse C. Terrence is financial secretary and treasurer, while A. C. Calhoun is congregational secretary.

The church, its previous pastors and the present one, with the session and people, "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." In this day of terrific assault upon all of the historic doctrines of Christianity, and when we are witnessing the tragic loss of faith on every hand, this church stands firm and fearless for the "Word of God, the whole Word of God, and nothing but the Word of God," Dr. Dean, the present pastor points out.

First Church of Christ

well the foundation of a permanent work that was destined to have a vital part in the future religious and moral life of this community. In January, 1897, the house of worship was burned down. A grave problem presented itself as to a future site for a church building. It was decided to purchase the lot now occupied by the Broadway filling station of the Standard Oil company.

The church owes much to George Welsh, who recently died, and who paid the first $10 payment on that lot. It was purchased for $10,000. Other men whose judgment in this transaction was worth while were C. C. Thompson, R. J. Meakin and John Scott.

In a building on this lot the congregation worshipped here for about 15 years. A parsonage was built upon the site of the former church building which is used as such to this day.

Walter Mansell followed O. S. Reed as pastor, then came J. W. Gorrell, who remained with the church a little more than four years. Supply ministers were secured following the pastorate of Mr. Gorrell. C. N. Filson, now of Cleveland, supplied for three months and under his active leadership the debt on the parsonage was paid.

Rev. E. P. Wise was called to the pulpit January 1, 1906. Under his efficient leadership, wise planning and persistent labors the new house of worship was erected and dedicated. Rev. Wise was here for nearly 10 years. He was a preacher of rare ability.

Following the ministry of Rev. E. P. Wise came John Mullen. Mr. Mullen was a preacher of high merit and conviction. Much of the church debt was liquidated and the church organized for advanced missionary activity.

Rev. B. R. Johnson was called in November, 1919, to the church as pastor. Under his ministry the entire debt has been paid, the membership increased until it is now one of the largest in the county. The Bible school averages about 500 the year round. The school is one of the best organized in the state. The missionary giving of the church approximates $4,000 a year and the congregation faces a bright and hopeful future.

The complete edition of the Bible printed in Braille type fills thirty-eight volumes and weighs 175 pounds.

BE IN CHURCH SUNDAY

'PETER BECOMES JESUS' DISCIPLE' IS SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

William T. Ellis Tells of Two Contrasting Pictures in Mind of Traveler.

By William T. Ellis.

Two contrasting pictures hang in the gallery of this traveler's memory. One is of a swart fisherman, with seamed face and long hair and beard, his loose cotton garment tucked into his girdle, standing on the shore of the Lake of Galilee, casting or throwing a big circular net, exactly as described in the story of Peter's call. It is arduous work, calling for skill and patience and great physical hardihood. The man might be the Fisherman Apostle come to life again on the very scene where Peter toiled. How the Land illuminates the Book!

The other picture is far from Galilee, in the "Eternal City" of Rome. I am standing beneath the dome of the greatest church in the world, which bears the name of this same fisherman. It is crowded with pilgrims from every corner of the earth. A black bronze statue of Saint Peter stands at one side, and a continuous procession of the devout pass it and reverently kiss the toe, which has been almost worn away by the lips of the fervent faithful. As I behold the spectacle, memory reverts to the primitive life about the Lake of Galilee. Peter, the fisherman, has come a long way. Viewed merely as a study in "success" is there any other contrast in the world so wonderful as this one?

What made Simon Peter, the rough swinger of nets and handler of slippery fish, over into Peter, the apostle and saint and imperial figure in whose honor countless cathedrals have been reared and whose name is above that of kings and emperors? It was only the addition of Jesus to his personality. The fisherman by the lake was Peter minus; the world figure of the apostle was Peter plus. If Jesus had not called Peter in His fellowship, he would have remained an unknown toiler on the waters to the end of his obscure and uneventful days. Our very fist look at Simon Peter returns the tremendous and timely truth that the greatest character-transforming force in the world—mightier than any college or social training—is simply association with Jesus Christ. To follow Him is to find life in beauty and in bigness.

The house is located in Virginia avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, East End. The congregation worshiped in a frame building situated on the site of the present one until 1908, when a modern and commodious edifice of pressed brick was erected. The building is well equipped with class, primary and social rooms in the basement. The auditorium with the Sunday school annex will seat 600 or 700 people. In 1921 there was erected on a lot, west of the church, a brick manse. The congregation also owns the two vacant lots adjoining the church on the east.

The present officers are: Session: I. S. Beadmore; clerk, W. A. Horger; C. A. Goodballet, John W. Johnson, C. M. McCoy, John M. Smith, James C. McGraw, J. J. Persohn, H. D. Brookman; trustees, C. A. Goodballet, chairman, J. W. Johnson, George F. Mulligan, J. J. Persohn, Jas. C. McGrew, Geo. P. Persohn, Phil Thompson, Marion M. Horger, A. C. Calhoun. Deacons: William Hill, Roy Manypenny, Landy Price, Jesse C. Terrence is financial secretary and treasurer, while A. C. Calhoun is congregational secretary.

The church, its previous pastors and the present one, with the session and people, "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." In this day of terrific assault upon all of the historic doctrines of Christianity, and when we are witnessing the tragic loss of faith on every hand, this church stands firm and fearless for the "Word of God, the whole Word of God, and nothing but the Word of God," Dr. Dean, the present pastor points out.

well the foundation of a permanent work that was destined to have a vital part in the future religious and moral life of this community. In January, 1897, the house of worship was burned down. A grave problem presented itself as to a future site for a church building. It was decided to purchase the lot now occupied by the Broadway filling station of the Standard Oil company.

The church owes much to George Welsh, who recently died, and who paid the first $10 payment on that lot. It was purchased for $10,000. Other men whose judgment in this transaction was worth while were C. C. Thompson, R. J. Meakin and John Scott.

In a building on this lot the congregation worshipped here for about 15 years. A parsonage was built upon the site of the former church building which is used as such to this day.

Walter Mansell followed O. S. Reed as pastor, then came J. W. Gorrell, who remained with the church a little more than four years. Supply ministers were secured following the pastorate of Mr. Gorrell. C. N. Filson, now of Cleveland, supplied for three months and under his active leadership the debt on the parsonage was paid.

Rev. E. P. Wise was called to the pulpit January 1, 1906. Under his efficient leadership, wise planning and persistent labors the new house of worship was erected and dedicated. Rev. Wise was here for nearly 10 years. He was a preacher of rare ability.

Following the ministry of Rev. E. P. Wise came John Mullen. Mr. Mullen was a preacher of high merit and conviction. Much of the church debt was liquidated and the church organized for advanced missionary activity.

Rev. B. R. Johnson was called in November, 1919, to the church as pastor. Under his ministry the entire debt has been paid, the membership increased until it is now one of the largest in the county. The Bible school averages about 500 the year round. The school is one of the best organized in the state. The missionary giving of the church approximates $4,000 a year and the congregation faces a bright and hopeful future.

The complete edition of the Bible printed in Braille type fills thirty-eight volumes and weighs 175 pounds.

SUNDAY SHOW AT THE STRAND

Midnight Musical Comedy Scheduled for 12:15.

"The Flash Parade," musical comedy, held over for three days, will stage a Sunday midnight show at the Strand theatre. The hour for the special attraction is 12:15 a. m.

A complete change of bill will be offered Monday and Wednesday.

Bud Brownie is the featured comedian. The Flash Trio consisting of Brownie, Jack Neff and Johnny Desmond are stopping the show at each performance and Harry and Daisy De Grace are going over very big with their specialties and numbers. Vera Brownie and Elsie Franks lead the costumed chorus. The three Wiggins sisters are very clever girls.

The scenery of "The Flash Parade" is beautiful and taking the show as a whole, it is one of the best to play the Strand theatre in a long time.

"Pauper," the word, has been eliminated from records of the Elgin District Asylum of Scotland, and hereafter lunatics without funds will be referred to as "non-paying patients."

A wireless equipment, which includes earphones at each patient's bed and loud speakers in all staff rooms, has been installed at Victoria Infirmary, Glasgow.

This case was first heard by the court Dec. 9, last, and a decree at that time was granted the plaintiff against the defendant on the grounds of extreme cruelty, gross neglect of duty and habitual drunkenness.

After this entry was made, the court sustained a motion of the defendant to set aside the entry, and leave was granted to file a supplimental petition.

Special Sermon Will Be Given by Pastor Of Christian Church

"Is Protestantism Making Good" will be the subject of a sermon tomorrow evening at the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett. The sermon will be based on the following questionnaire:

Are you a consistent Church member?

Why did you ever join the church of which you are a member?

In your opinion is the church rendering a real service in Lisbon?

Do you believe in a future life? If so give reasons.

Do you believe in future punishment for the wicked? Or is your belief in a second chance? Or in purgatory?

Do you believe in Christian Union? Are there too many Protestant churches?

Are Protestants as consistently loyal as Catholics?

Do Protestants put their church first, or do their clubs, lodges and pleasures come first?

Wherein is Catholicism superior to Protestantism?

Wherein is Protestantism superior to Catholicism?

Should the Protestants have "the confessional?"

Can Protestants do anything to strengthen the home and marriage vows?

Should our children be taught morals and religion in the public school?

What can Christian people do to enforce prohibition laws?

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED HERE

Decrees Handed Down Yesterday by Judge W. F. Lones.

Five divorce actions heard by Judge W. F. Lones resulted in decrees being granted plaintiffs in each case yesterday. One contested action, which began Friday afternoon, will not likely be finished before Monday.

Elizabeth Sebodnick was given a decree against her husband, Michael Sebodnick, and has also been restored to her maiden name, Elizabeth De-Man.

Extreme cruelty was charged in the petition filed against Arnett Mason by his wife, Pauline Mason, and a decree was granted on these grounds. She was also restored to her maiden name, Pauline Moulton.

On account of his wife being absent from him four and one-half years, a divorce was granted Charles Gibellini against Bessie L. Gibellini The plaintiff resides in the East Palestine district.

In the case of Pauline Vochling against her husband, Louis Vochling, a decree was awarded the plaintiff on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Pauline Gates.

In a second hearing Blanche L. Mangus was given a divorce from Frank Mangus.

This case was first heard by the court Dec. 9, last, and a decree at that time was granted the plaintiff against the defendant on the grounds of extreme cruelty, gross neglect of duty and habitual drunkenness.

After this entry was made, the court sustained a motion of the defendant to set aside the entry, and leave was granted to file a supplimental petition.

As alimony, the court has awarded the plaintiff certain real estate and personal property.

Special Sermon Will Be Given by Pastor Of Christian Church

"Is Protestantism Making Good" will be the subject of a sermon tomorrow evening at the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett. The sermon will be based on the following questionnaire:

Are you a consistent Church member?

Why did you ever join the church of which you are a member?

In your opinion is the church rendering a real service in Lisbon?

Do you believe in a future life? If so give reasons.

Do you believe in future punishment for the wicked? Or is your belief in a second chance? Or in purgatory?

Do you believe in Christian Union? Are there too many Protestant churches?

Are Protestants as consistently loyal as Catholics?

Do Protestants put their church first, or do their clubs, lodges and pleasures come first?

Wherein is Catholicism superior to Protestantism?

Wherein is Protestantism superior to Catholicism?

Should the Protestants have "the confessional?"

Can Protestants, do anything to strengthen the home and marriage vows?

Should our children be taught morals and religion in the public school?

What can Christian people do to enforce prohibition laws?

Add anything that will aid in a discussion of the strength or weakness of Protestantism.

A feature of this service will be a program of music by the Christian church quartet.

Jim Thorpe's Indian Five To Clash With Elks Tonight

Famous All Around Athlete to Perform With Redskins Here

Game is Final Appearance of Ex-Haskell Stars on Court This Year; Hang up Record of 48 Wins Out of 56 Games in Season's Tour.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by officials of the Elks basketball club for the appearance here tonight of the World Famous Indians, featuring Jim Thorpe, probably the greatest all around athlete in history. The Indians will clash with the Elks on the high school court, the game beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Indians are making a tour of the country, meeting only the fastest teams in the various cities they visit.

On the present tour they have met Davis and Elkins college, Salem college, West Virginia Business college at Clarksburg, Waynesburg college and other collegiate aggregations known in this district.

The redskins do not play the usual brand of ball exhibited by so-called professional teams traveling about the country but adhere to the college style of play, which most of them learned while attending Haskell college, at Lawrence, Kan. It is a much faster game, but the Indians, noted for their speed, take to it like ducks to water.

Tribes represented by the players on the team include the Sac and Fox, Cheyenne, Arrapho, Delaware, Caddo and Cherokee.

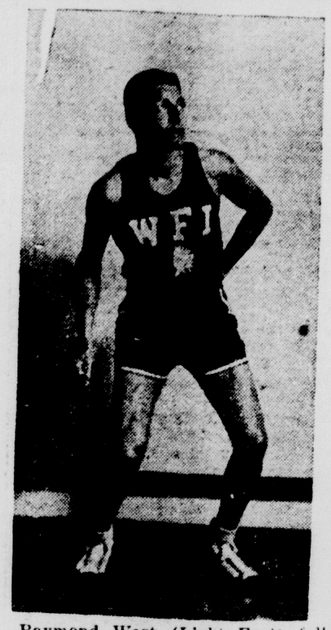
On this season's trip they have won 48 games and lost eight, hanging up a consecutive winning streak of 16. They have toured five states including Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The Elks, according to Coach Powell, will have their complete lineup in action against the visitors tonight.

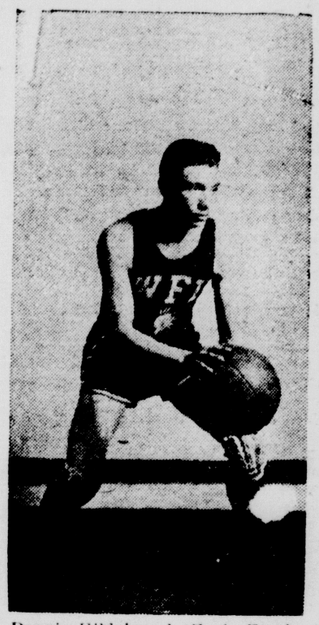
The Peacocks and the R. G. Brian Clothiers will battle in the preliminary, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three Stars With Indian Quint Tonight

Jim Thorpe (Bright Path) is probably the world's greatest all around athlete and the leader of the World Famous Indians who will try to scalp the Elks tonight at the high school auditorium.



Raymond West (Light Foot) full blooded Cheyenne from Oklahoma, and captain of the Haskell college team last year. And listen, girls, West is the living image of the late Valentino. He's called the Indian Sheik.



Dennis Hildebrand (Eagle Feather) is a member of the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina. He captained the Haskenn University basketball teams during the season of 1925-26.

Uzcudun Given Edge Over New Zealander

Paolino Finishes Strong Against Heeney to Take Decision in "Bar Room" Scrap.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—If the various state boxing commissions will be so good as to send the referee in there with a white apron and a slightly inane countenance, it may be that I would be able to name a man who might go far in the heavyweight division. If they insisted that the lower rope be a brass rail, the ring floor a carpet of sawdust, with a stray cuspidor here and there to fall over or into, and a frosted mirror at one end, depicting a lady whose privacy has been ignored, I might go so far as to name a man who could be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The probable winner, under these favorable auspices is almost a stand out, in fact. He is Paolina Uzcudun, the well known human being, who won from Tom Heeney of New Zealand, in bar room rounds at Madison Square Garden last night.

As a source of entertainment, Paolino proved a pleasant surprise, for he is as aggressive as a soap salesman, and can soak them up like a bath towel. Unfortunately, it is getting so that they won't let you do anything in bar rooms nowadays except drink: so Paolino seems to be committed to the ring. Once in there, he is a sap for every punch in the show case and it is a debatable point whether or not he can't be hit with the back of your knee. That, in fact, is the only one Heeney didn't try last night.

My Meet Dempsey.

They are talking about tossing this smirking, cheerful soul in with Dempsey and I guess that will be all for the best. Jack is supposed to need encouragement and maybe Paolino needs the money, so why am I to knock down the doll-house in cold blood? But, strictly in a spirit of helpfulness, I will make one suggestion. He may meet clever light heavyweights like Delaney, McTigue and Tommy Loughran on the street some day, but let the matter go no further.

Some of the addicts, as a matter of fact, were quite incensed over the decision last night and left the premises in high dudgeon, which differs from a low dudgeon in only a few unimportant details. Both are things that you leave in when irritated.

However, the writer noted that quite a few scores credited Heeney with the first round, although Paolino ended it with a clean knockdown. Up to that point Heeney had done most of the hitting but it was just singles and doubles and, as far as I am concerned, it takes a home-run to clean the bases. Anyhow, I gave Paolino that round and also the fourth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

Heney, in brief, was well out in front up to the sixth round, but he caved under the body beatings and roughing and Paolino, strong and ever aggressive, came on to win in the late rounds.

Heeney is Floored.

It was quite a fight, once you forgot to remember that quite a few American heavyweights can beat either or both and probably will. Heeney started off with a rush and, slipping the other's wild left hooks, countered with heavy reights to the jaw. He accepted one on the goatee with only three seconds of the round left, however, staggered back, thought better of it and then decided he had been right in the first place.

In brief, the gentleman sat down after careful deliberation. He was up without a count, apparently unhurt, but the bell stopped them before the boys could get real intimate again. Heeney took the second and third rounds by steping inside that flailing left and countering with rights and Paolino's jaw, as all first class heavyweights can and will do. Near the end of the third, Heeney ripped a hard right to the body and brought it up to the jaw, but the basque laughed both off with evident sincerity.

Lafayettes Capture First Series Scrap

THE Elks last night dropped a tought decision to the Duquesne Lafayettes, 34 to 33, in a rapid fire clash at the high school.

It was the second straight game that the Antlers have lost in the last week or so by one point. And in one game before those two they lost by a two-point margin.

The defeat was hard to take as a result of the fact that the local passers led their Pittsburgh foes throughout the entire game on one occasion by almost a dozen points, only to finish behind by a single tally.

Minnick's field goal in the last minute of play spilled the game.

Tony Paulsey, Campbell star, worked at center for the Antlers in last night's melee and turned in a neat exhibition. In view of the fact that it was Tony's first game with the locals and that the team's mode of playing was more or less strange to him, his work as a whole was fine, and the same can be said for the rest of the club.

The Lafayettes have played together during the entire season, without a change, and the way they shot that ball around the court showed it.

Nate Lippe collected seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points and individual honors of the game. On the Elks' squad, Paulsey was next with three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Minnick broke loose in the second half, after being bottled up tightly in the opening periods and made five field goals. He was the reason the locals lost the decision. The rest of the Lafayette five collected just six field goals.

HORNSBY TO PLAY ASSERTS M'GRAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today reiterated his assertion that Rogers Hornsby will be in the New York lineup when the season opens even if he is unable to dispose of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. It is believed that Commissioner Landis will be asked to settle the matter.

MAY ARBITRATE IN STOCK DEAL

Heydler Suggests Plan to Settle Hornsby Problem.

NEW YORK, April 2.—President John Heydler of the National League has suggested that the disposal of the stock owned by Rogers Hornsby in the St. Louis Cardinals be effected by arbitration. Following the assertion of Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he would take the matter to court in case Hornsby could not dispose of the stock and Heydler attempted to prevent him from playing with the New York team, Heydler said that a compromise between Hornsby and Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, is necessary "for the good of baseball."

In his statement Heydler declared that "there is little or no chance of Hornsby getting $105 a share for his stock." Breadon has offered Hornsby $60 a share for the stock.

REACH FINALS IN CAGE MEET

Huron, S. D., Quint Appears to Have Edge on Foes.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Teams representing Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi and South Dakota will clash today in the semi-finals of the national inter scholastic basketball tournament under way at the University of Chicago.

South Dakota, represented by a team from Huron, appears to have an edge on the other states in the struggle for the national championship. The Huron huskies, who have beaten some of the strongest fives at the meet, clash with Batesville, Ark., in the first semi-final this afternoon.

In the second half of the semi-wind up, Morton high of Cicero, Ill., will meet Florence, Miss.

The winners of these two affairs will fight it out tonight for the national title. The losers in the semi-final matches will play for third place.

Huron blasted its way to the semi-windup by swamping Pocatelli, Idaho, 33 to 16. Batesville went under the wire by trouncing Grand Forks, N. D., 31 to 21.

Morton high, of Cicero, qualified by the narrow margin of one point over the popular Vienna, Ga., quintet. The score was 27 to 26. Florence Miss surprised by eliminating Norfolk, Va., the last of the easterners, 18 to 14. "Florence, Miss.," may sound effeminate, but the Virginians are convinced there is nothing in a name.

Morton is favored to win over Florence, however, and if Huron defeats Batesville, Illinois and South Dakota will battle for the title. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals tonight.

Jim Thorpe's Indian Five To Clash With Elks Tonight

Famous All Around Athlete to Perform With Redskins Here

Game is Final Appearance of Ex-Haskell Stars on Court This Year; Hang up Record of 48 Wins Out of 56 Games in Season's Tour.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by officials of the Elks basketball club for the appearance here tonight of the World Famous Indians, featuring Jim Thorpe, probably the greatest all around athlete in history. The Indians will clash with the Elks on the high school court, the game beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Indians are making a tour of the country, meeting only the fastest teams in the various cities they visit.

On the present tour they have met Davis and Elkins college, Salem college, West Virginia Business college at Clarksburg, Waynesburg college and other collegiate aggregations known in this district.

The redskins do not play the usual brand of ball exhibited by so-called professional teams traveling about the country but adhere to the college style of play, which most of them learned while attending Haskell college, at Lawrence, Kan. It is a much faster game, but the Indians, noted for their speed, take to it like ducks to water.

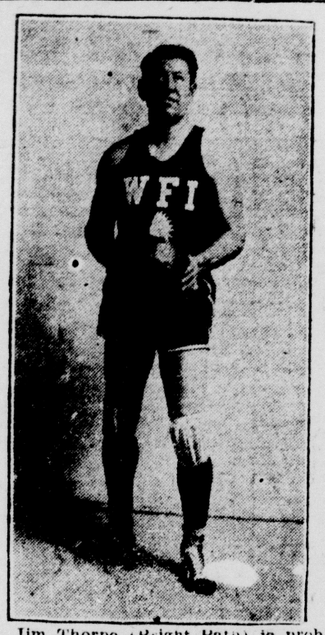
Tribes represented by the players on the team include the Sac and Fox, Cheyenne, Arrapho, Delaware, Caddo and Cherokee.

On this season's trip they have won 48 games and lost eight, hanging up a consecutive winning streak of 16. They have toured five states including Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The Elks, according to Coach Powell, will have their complete lineup in action against the visitors tonight.

The Peacocks and the R. G. Brian Clothiers will battle in the preliminary, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three Stars With Indian Quint Tonight



Jim Thorpe (Bright Path) is probably the world's greatest all around athlete and the leader of the World Famous Indians who will try to scalp the Elks tonight at the high school auditorium.

Raymond West (Light Foot) full blooded Cheyenne from Oklahoma, and captain of the Haskell college team last year. And listen, girls, West is the living image of the late Valentino. He's called the Indian Sheik.

Dennis Hildebrand (Eagle Feather) is a member of the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina. He captained the Haskenn University basketball teams during the season of 1925-26.

Uzcudun Given Edge Over New Zealander

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—If the various state boxing commissions will be so good as to send the referee in there with a white apron and a slightly insane countenance, it may be that I would be able to name a man who might go far in the heavyweight division. If they insisted that the lower rope be a brass rail, the ring floor a carpet of sawdust, with a stray cuspidor here and there to fall over or into, and a frosted mirror at one end, depicting a lady whose privacy has been ignored, I might go so far as to name a man who could be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The probable winner, under these favorable auspices is almost a stand out, in fact. He is Paolina Uzcudun, the well known human being, who won from Tom Heeney of New Zealand, in bar room rounds at Madison Square Garden last night.

As a source of entertainment, Paolino proved a pleasant surprise, for he is as aggressive as a soap salesman, and can soak them up like a bath towel. Unfortunately, it is getting so that they won't let you do anything in bar rooms nowadays except drink: so Paolino seems to be committed to the ring. Once in there, he is a sap for every punch in the show case and it is a debatable point whether or not he can't be hit with the back of your knee. That, in fact, is the only one Heeney didn't try last night.

My Meet Dempsey.

They are talking about tossing this smirking, cheerful soul in with Dempsey and I guess that will be all for the best. Jack is supposed to need encouragement and maybe Paolino needs the money, so why am I to knock down the doll-house in cold blood? But, strictly in a spirit of helpfulness, I will make one suggestion. He may meet clever light heavyweights like Delaney, McTigue and Tommy Loughran on the street some day, but let the matter go no further.

Some of the addicts, as a matter of fact, were quite incensed over the decision last night and left the premises in high dudgeon, which differs from a low dudgeon in only a few unimportant details. Both are things that you leave in when irritated.

However, the writer noted that quite a few scores credited Heeney with the first round, although Paolino ended it with a clean knockdown. Up to that point Heeney had done most of the hitting but it was just singles and doubles and, as far as I am concerned, it takes a home-run to clean the bases. Anyhow, I gave Paolino that round and also the fourth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

Heney, in brief, was well out in front up to the sixth round, but he caved under the body beatings and roughing and Paolino, strong and ever aggressive, came on to win in the late rounds.

Heeney Is Floored.

It was quite a fight, once you forgot to remember that quite a few American heavyweights can beat either or both and probably will. Heeney started off with a rush and, slipping the other's wild left hooks, countered with heavy reights to the jaw. He accepted one on the goatee with only three seconds of the round left, however, staggered back, thought better of it and then decided he had been right in the first place.

In brief, the gentleman sat down after careful deliberation. He was up without a count, apparently unhurt, but the bell stopped them before the boys could get real intimate again. Heeney took the second and third rounds by steping inside that flailing left and countering with rights and Paolino's jaw, as all first class heavyweights can and will do. Near the end of the third, Heeney ripped a hard right to the body and brought it up to the jaw, but the basque laughed both off with evident sincerity.

Lafayettes Capture First Series Scrap

THE Elks last night dropped a tought decision to the Duquesne Lafayettes, 34 to 33, in a rapid fire clash at the high school.

It was the second straight game that the Antlers have lost in the last week or so by one point. And in one game before those two they lost by a two-point margin.

The defeat was hard to take as a result of the fact that the local passers led their Pittsburgh foes throughout the entire game on one occasion by almost a dozen points, only to finish behind by a single tally.

Minnick's field goal in the last minute of play spilled the game.

Tony Paulsey, Campbell star, worked at center for the Antlers in last night's melee and turned in a neat exhibition. In view of the fact that it was Tony's first game with the locals and that the team's mode of playing was more or less strange to him, his work as a whole was fine, and the same can be said for the rest of the club.

The Lafayettes have played together during the entire season, without a change, and the way they shot that ball around the court showed it.

Nate Lippe collected seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points and individual honors of the game. On the Elks' squad, Paulsey was next with three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Minnick broke loose in the second half, after being bottled up tightly in the opening periods and made five field goals. He was the reason the locals lost the decision. The rest of the Lafayette five collected just six field goals.

HORNSBY TO PLAY ASSERTS M'GRAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today reiterated his assertion that Rogers Hornsby will be in the New York lineup when the season opens even if he is unable to dispose of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. It is believed that Commissioner Landis will be asked to settle the matter.

MAY ARBITRATE IN STOCK DEAL

Heydler Suggests Plan to Settle Hornsby Problem.

NEW YORK, April 2.—President John Heydler of the National League has suggested that the disposal of the stock owned by Rogers Hornsby in the St. Louis Cardinals be effected by arbitration. Following the assertion of Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he would take the matter to court in case Hornsby could not dispose of the stock and Heydler attempted to prevent him from playing with the New York team, Heydler said that a compromise between Hornsby and Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, is necessary "for the good of baseball."

In his statement Heydler declared that "there is little or no chance of Hornsby getting $105 a share for his stock." Breadon has offered Hornsby $60 a share for the stock.

REACH FINALS IN CAGE MEET

Huron, S. D., Quint Appears to Have Edge on Foes.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Teams representing Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi and South Dakota will clash today in the semi-finals of the national inter scholastic basketball tournament under way at the University of Chicago.

South Dakota, represented by a team from Huron, appears to have an edge on the other states in the struggle for the national championship. The Huron huskies, who have beaten some of the strongest fives at the meet, clash with Batesville, Ark., in the first semi-final this afternoon.

In the second half of the semi-windup, Morton high of Cicero, Ill., will meet Florence, Miss.

The winners of these two affairs will fight it out tonight for the national title. The losers in the semi-final matches will play for third place.

Huron blasted its way to the semi-windup by swamping Pocatelli, Idaho, 33 to 16. Batesville went under the wire by trouncing Grand Forks, N. D., 31 to 21.

Morton high, of Cicero, qualified by the narrow margin of one point over the popular Vienna, Ga., quintet. The score was 27 to 26. Florence Miss surprised by eliminating Norfolk, Va., the last of the easterners, 18 to 14. "Florence, Miss.," may sound effeminate, but the Virginians are convinced there is nothing in a name.

Morton is favored to win over Florence, however, and if Huron defeats Batesville, Illinois and South Dakota will battle for the title. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals tonight.

Oasis Is Made to Order In Filming "Beau Geste"

Many Difficulties Beset Vast Crew of Builders in Erecting Fort for French Legion Picture.

Many were the difficulties that beset the vast crew of carpenters, masons and other artisans when they journeyed into the Arizona desert, six weeks in advance of Director Herbert Brenon and his cast of actors, to erect the fort and background for the filming of "Beau Geste," Major P. C. Wren's famous romantic-action tale of the French Foreign Legion, coming to the Ceramic theatre on April 7 for a three-day run.

The script called for a fort. This they found no different than any other assignment requiring hard work and a cast supply of material, but it also called for a typical desert oasis with the usual water hole. They found no such thing as this on the Arizona desert but there are few mere resourceful individuals than the boss location men of the movie makers and they immediately went about making an oasis of their own.

A hole of considerable proportions was dug in the sand, lined with tin and filled with water. Plam trees of the smaller variety are a part of the every day scenic equipment to be found in Hollywood studios but to make a realistic oasis, Director Brenon directed his men to secure the real articles. Making these trees stand upright in the shifting desert sands proved one of the most difficult tasks of preparing the location. It was finally found necessary to build extensions of heavy logs onto the roots of the trees and sink them into cement bases, fifteen feet under the ground. The result, a perfect oasis, in appearance, justified the trouble and expense.

Slayer's Attorney Seeks Order for Conference.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—The conference of E. L. Mills, Canton attorney, with his client, Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, was again postponed today, as a result of the decision of the Ohio supreme court late yesterday afternoon.

Mills is seeking a court order directing Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio state penitentiary, where McDermott is serving a life sentence, to permit the lawyer to confer with McDermott, who has an appeal pending, in private at the prison. Warden Thomas has refused on the ground that after a prisoner is convicted and sent to his institution the matter of conferences with attorneys or other persons is wholly within the jurisdiction of the warden.

The court of appeals here agreed with Mills' contention, and ordered the warden to permit the private conference between Mills and McDermott, but under agreement of counsel, serving of the order was delayed until yesterday, pending a motion for an appeal to the supreme court. The latter tribunal, after hearing arguments yesterday, decided to hear an application for a writ of error, and issued an order temporarily suspending the service of the court of appeals' order on Warden Thomas, pending a final decision.

There IS a Difference In GASOLINE

One woman will bake a loaf of bread that is better than the bread baked by other women. One refiner will make a gasoline that is better. Here's why—

Refining gasoline from crude oil is like skimming cream from milk. Skim the top from the milk and you have pure cream. Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk—below this, milk only.

In refining gasoline from crude oil we "skim" the top by distillation process. That's Super-Flash Gasoline.

If we "dipped" farther, like one would dip farther in the milk bottle, we would get gasoline and coal oil.

"Super-Flash" is truly the "cream grade." It starts easily and its force is smooth and elastic.

No knock, less carbon, smoother running, greater power. There is a difference.

There IS a Difference In GASOLINE

One woman will bake a loaf of bread that is better than the bread baked by other women. One refiner will make a gasoline that is better. Here's why—

Refining gasoline from crude oil is like skimming cream from milk. Skim the top from the milk and you have pure cream. Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk—below this, milk only.

In refining gasoline from crude oil we "skim" the top by distillation process. That's Super-Flash Gasoline.

If we "dipped" farther, like one would dip farther in the milk bottle, we would get gasoline and coal oil.

"Super-Flash" is truly the "cream grade." It starts easily and its force is smooth and elastic.

No knock, less carbon, smoother running, greater power. There is a difference.

TRAIN KILLS TWO WORKMEN

Today

Good News of Henry Ford.
Two Chinese Bosses.
Useful Lady Astor.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

REASSURING news concerning Henry Ford was received direct from his family yesterday, yesterday afternoon. There is said to be no doubt as to his ultimate recovery, although his injuries are serious.

THERE is no further confirmation of the supposition, widely circulated, that Mr. Ford's car was deliberately crowded from the road and down a steep embankment by occupants of another, bigger car seeking to injure Mr. Ford. Further information as to that may come from Mr. Ford upon his complete recovery.

THOSE familiar with the scene of the accident, right off the highway from Detroit to Chicago, feel that Mr. Ford's escape was almost miraculous. A man in less perfect physical condition could not have escaped alive, at Mr. Ford's age.

THE two big men in the Chinese revolution already disagree. One will not go where the other is, thinking it might not be safe. Two governments may be set up in China, dividing the territory between them. That will mean more fighting, each great ruler will want to be the only one. This country, if wise, will get out of China, taking out missionaries and fighting men, and watch the Chinese work out their own salvation, or the reverse. What they decide to do is not our business.

BRITAIN may thank this country for producing and sending to London Lady Astor from Virginia, to say nothing of the great Astor fortune. First Lady Astor showed British women the way to parliament. Now she helps to defeat an effort to legalize British race track gambling. She knows that betting on races enriches in Britain, as it does here, an utterly worthless tribe of race track touts, gamblers and horse owners, whose "sport" makes thieves of other men's employes.

AN AUSTRALIAN wants to locate the ideal "Venus" and requests information. He has measured thousands of female beauties and finds the average waist 27 inches. That Australian can find his perfect Venus in a handsome room, all by herself, in the Louvre, in Paris. The Venus de Milo is the perfect woman. The perfect female figure is the one best fitted for motherhood, not for walking the tight rope or turning somersaults.

MISS PANKHURST has lost interest in votes for women, "Because vot-

Review-Tribune Offers Its Readers New Map of Europe

What has become of Constantinople?

It is on the new Map of Europe as Istambul.

And The Hague has been changed to 's Gravenhage.

Christiania it now Oslo, and Leghorn is Livorno, and Vienna is Wein.

The International Postal Union recommends the native spellings for expediting business with Europe, and the travel agencies advise us to use names that will be understood where we are going. Hence the new map looks very different from Europe as it is in our school geographies.

A New Map of Europe, with old and new boundaries, old and new spellings, and latest data on areas, populations, and other details is offered through our Washington Information Bureau. Full colors 21 by 28 inches, on heavy paper. Every home, office, and school will want one. May be had now by our readers at a postage and handling cost of ten cents.

ONE MAN JUMPS AS FLYER HITS HAND CAR NEAR NEW WATERFORD

Accident Occurs at Sharp Curve on Ft. Wayne Road.

BODIES CRUSHED

One Victim Leaves Widow and Five Children.

Two men were killed, while a third escaped by jumping when an eastbound Fort Wayne division flyer crashed into a hand car, carrying workmen to East Palestine, about one-fourth of a mile east of New Waterford, at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

JOSEPH MURPHY, 45, New Waterford.

ALBERT SEIDEL, 23, New Waterford.

Failed to Notice Train.

William Bevington, 25, also of New Waterford, escaped injury.

The train, said to have been 40 minutes late, was speeding. The three men on the hand car were traveling eastward, and with the exception of Bevington, failed to notice the approaching flyer.

Murphy and Seidel, who were hurled clear of the tracks, died from broken necks and internal injuries. Almost every bone in Murphy's body is said to have been broken.

Second Fatal Accident.

Bodies of the victims were removed to the Warrick morgue, Columbiana, where Coroner J. M. Van Fossan was to conduct an inquest this afternoon.

Murphy leaves a widow and five children. Seidel is unmarried. Bevington is the son of the section foreman.

The accident occurred at a sharp curve in the railroad near wher four men lost their lives in a similar accident about five years ago.

A charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor which was also filed against him was dismissed.

ROUMANIAN KING'S DEATH IMMINENT

U. S. GUNBOAT RUSHES TO TSIEN-TSIN; CHINESE MOUNT GUN AT NANKING

15,000 BRITISH TROOPS ON JOB

Eugene Chen Accuses Reactionaries and Ruffians of Responsibility for Outrages Against Foreigners.

LONDON, April 2.—Great Britain has decided to send additional troops to China, it was learned today.

The cabinet has reached a decision to reinforce the Shanghai defense forces, which already number more than 15,000 men.

The reinforcements will consist of some 5,000 additional troops, include a brigade of infantry, artillery units and a guards battalion.

The admiralty was advised that the nationalists have mounted 10-inch guns on Lion hill near Nanking.

Squabble Over Policy.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The U. S. gunboat Asheville has been sent from Shanghai to Tsien-Tsin, in the Pekin area, for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the Asiatic squadron, advised the navy today. Minister MacMurray, at Pekin, requested the vessel.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The British and American governments are distinctly at loggerheads today over the question of a joint policy in dealing with the critical Chinese situation.

Officials of both governments may endeavor to minimize the differences, but the divergence of views between Washington and London are well known in diplomatic quarters—and quite possibly to the Cantonese nationalists as well.

American opposition to any theatrical fist brandishing in China has already resulted in the British note to the Cantonese being toned down considerably, probably to the point where the American government can support it. A copy of it is now enroute to Washington. It differs materially from that originally drafted by the British cabinet, according to London advices.

Common Front Urged.

The differences between Downing street and Pennsylvania avenue might be described as the difference between firmness and belligerency. Great Britain, with a much greater stake in China, as well as in nearby India, is for an ultimatum to the Cantonese, based on the Nanking outrages, and backed up by the threat

The conference was also attended by Postmaster Edwin McClure, Earl Munson, Cleveland, supervising agent for the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division passenger agent, and was arvision passenger agent. It was arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

BOLEY IS HELD FOR MURDER IN DEATH OF WIFE AT GLEN ROBIN

Self-confessed Slayer Occupies Cell in Steubenville.

NO LUNACY EXAM

Body of Victim is Buried Here Today.

Theodore Boley, 27, formerly of East Liverpool, self confessed wife slayer, today faces a first degree murder charge at Steubenville.

Following the finding of Boley's victim, former East Liverpool girl, at Glen Robin, Jefferson county, Thursday morning, Meade McLister, secret operative working out of the office of Prosecuting Attorney R. N. Merryman, of Steubenville filed the count.

POLICEMAN WILL CHECK LICENSE NUMBERS OF CARS IN CHARGE OF CAREFUL DRIVERS NEXT WEEK

In a movement to decrease automobile accidents, the Review-Tribune, co-operating with the Columbiana County Motor club, police department and Ceramic theatre, on Monday will launch a week's Safe Driving compaign.

Ten pairs of Ceramic theatre tickets will be distributed each day to automobile owners whose license numbers are checked by a police officer. The license numbers will be published each day and tickets will be distributed from Motor Club headquarters in the Marfourth building.

Points at which the check will be made will vary from day to day in order that the survey may be as comprehensive as possible. Drivers will not be forewarned. As a result, motorists, anxious to appear on the honor roll with consequent rewards of free theatre tickets, will drive carefully at all times, which is the object of the campaign.

The mayor, safety director and police department will co-operate in the campaign to encourage automobile drivers to be careful, observing traffic light signals, parking regulations, speed limits and other traffic laws.

Car numbers will be noted by patrolmen not only in the business district but also in the residential sections. First list of license numbers will be published Tuesday evening. Names of the honor roll drivers will also be published each day, starting Wednesday, after the theatre tickets have been claimed.

Automobile owners watch for the numbers to appear daily. If yours appears go to the motor club headquarters in the Marfourth building for the theatre tickets. The license certificate or other conclusive proof as to the identity of the driver must be furnished when the tickets are claimed. Tickets will be good for any photoplay except an extraordinary attraction.

Drive carefully and watch for your number in the Review-Tribune!

Super Six Principle Placing Hudson Among Front Rank Cars

Lisbon Hill and St. Clair Avenue are Taken in High; Big Car Easily Attains Speed Mark of 75 Miles an Hour Here.

Imagine a speed almost like that of the wind, unfettered, sweeping, magnificent; a tremendous power, never, apparently, fully unleashed, that would level ordinary hills as if by the wave of a magic wand; and in the "pinches," the stubborn, "hanging-on" grip of an infuriated bulldog; the agility of a mountain lion; and with it all—quietness, ease and a performance with the smooth, velvety touch of the first warm zephyr of spring.

That is the Hudson—the new Hudson—with the famous super six principle released to the limit.

East Liverpool's two noted hills, testing grounds for any and all makes of automobiles, St. Clair avenue from the Horn switch at the bottom to a point at the top a short distance south of the cemetery, and Lisbon Hill crumbled away as sand hills might beneath the foot of a giant as the Hudson super six was turned loose on them yesterday afternoon.

Ray T. Birch, East Liverpool's Hudson-Essex dealer, who next week will stage a "show me" week for those with Missourian instincts, through the medium of a Hudson demonstration campaign, knew undoubtedly what he was talking about when he waxed enthusiastic over the achievement of the new Hudson, but we had never ridden in the new car, and were inclined to adopt the grain of salt theory.

After a couple of hours of amazement behind the Hudson's long, rakish hood, we knew what Birch and the Hudson Motor company meant by "the super six principle, released to the limit," although at no time during our automotive gyrations up and down the hills and over the highways of the city and contiguous territory was that big, black motor under the hood released to the limit.

At no time during the trip was the motor "favored." It had to come clean, or admit failure and the latter certainly was never the case.

Starting up St. Clair avenue, the first big hurdle, we were forced to throttle down to between 8 and 10 miles an hour as a result of a slight traffic congestion at the traffic light in the Broadway-St. Clair avenue intersection. Ordinarily it might have been good policy to back up and try it again, but our demonstrator thought nothing of the situation and tramped on the accelerator.

And there was no jerk—but down there somewhere under the foot-board could be faintly heard a low, angry rumble, and with a movement as inexorable as fate itself, the big car began to gather up speed—actually increased speed. It swept up around the sharp corner at the Gaston place, with no slackening of speed. It was making close to 38 in the stretch directly beyond and then it hit the "pinch." We held our breath as the big machine's gait slackened just a little. But that was all. It took hold of the job without complaint and walked up over the crest. It was picking up again as we reached Young's alley and then went into "the rough" as the golfer might say, but the change had little or no effect on the momentum despite the absence of smooth, steady traction. On up to the Northside fire station and then we took the hump past Skinnell's store like an Olympic hurdle champion. At the extreme top the speedometer showed 45 and the driver was not applying the whip.

Later, in secluded thoroughfares, out of the way of traffic, we rode at a gait of 75 miles an hour, lack of sufficient uninterrupted straightaway preventing us from pushing the indicator hand over any further.

And probably the most noticeable thing was the absence of strain on the driver's hands and wrists. Apparently it was all taken out in the ball bearing steering gear beneath. No leaping of the car, nor sidesways. A steady flow of power impulse, always.

Performance was just as perfect at four or five miles an hour as it was at 75. Throttled down, the big motor spun as smoothing as an electric motor. No jump, no push and pull, no vibration, as a result of perfect carburization and—the counterbalanced crankshaft, counterbalanced clutch, gearset, driving universals and driving shaft of the Hudson which carried the super-six principal throught the differential.

Actual performance on the road shows that teh new Hudson can do

5 to 25 miles hour in 7 seconds.
5 to 35 miles in 10 seconds.
5 to 50 miles in 18 seconds.
5 to 75 miles and beyond almost before you can think about it.

Lisbon hill and its tortuous curves provided another test and despite lumbering trucks, teamsters and other impediments at various spots up the hill, Hudson went over the top with four passengers, averaging 165 pounds apiece. She finished at approximately 26 after we had come almost to a dead stop on the last turn going up We continued on in high, no gear change, and picked up before the crest.

To the motor enthusiast—Do you want bullet-like velocity, locomotive power, electric motor movement, pullman car comfort, and Rock of Gibralter dependability? They are all there, and more, says Ray Birch, in the Hudson super six.

Leptis Magna was the chief city of the ancient Tripolitis, the other two being Oea (the present Tripoli) and Sabrata (the modern Zuagha).

Q. When was the Bunker Mill Monument begun and finished? M. McL.

A. Subscriptions were taken as early as 1824 for the Bunker Hill Monument, by an association called the Bunker Mill Monument association, the membership of which was $5; an engraved diploma was their certificate; their names were engraved on the parchment records deposited in the corner stone. The corner stone was laid by Lafayette on June 17th, 1825. The last stone was raised during the morning of July 23rd, 1842, in the presence of the officers of the Bunker Hill Monument association and a few other spectators. The work had to be stopped several times on the structure because of the lack of funds. The approximate cost was around $120,000.

Q. How often should cellars be whitewashed? J. T. L.

A. Cellar walls should be whitewashed once or twice a year. Whitewash is a disinfectant. If the cellar walls admit moisture, it is recommended to wash them with a dilute solution of hydrochloric acid (one part acid and five parts water), and then apply a plaster of oil-mixed mortar.

MIDGETS HEAD CERAMIC BILL

Famous Midgets Act Offered With "Children of Divorce."

Williams' Midgets, offering a high class novelty in song, dance and acrobatics, will appear in conjunction with the screen feature, "Children of Divorce," at the Ceramic theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the novelty act will be six famous midgets and two grown-ups. One of the midgets is considered one of the best Charleston dancers in the country. Another is an expert in hand balancing.

"Children of Divorce" brings Clara Bow and Esther Ralston together for the first time. These two stars, both comparative newcomers on the screen, have in the past few years proved their ability and talent in a number of productions. Miss Bow won fame in "Dancing Mothers" and "Mantrap" while Miss Ralston for her work in "The Blind Goddess" and "The Quarterback" attained equal acclaim.

Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are the three leading men who head the stars' supporting cast.

Owen Johnson's story is one of a certain ever-increasing group—those who sever the bands the church has welded to go their own separate ways, leaving their children to wander unaided through adolescence.

Safe Driver Honor Roll

Who are East Liverpool's careful motorists?

Seeking the answer to the question, The Review-Tribune, with the co-operation of the Columbiana County Automobile Club, police department and Ceramic theatre management, will launch a one-week Safe Driving campaign on Monday.

Traffic policemen will check license numbers of motor car operators whose "good behavior" has been noted, and the numbers will be publish. Two tickets to the current attraction at the Ceramic theatre will be given each person whose license tags win a place on the honor roll.

Observations will be made at various street intersections. Traffic patrolmen will be urged to be especially alert at so-called dangerous crossings. Special attention will be given the "behavior" of drivers in the Diamond and on Broadway, Washington, Walnut, Market, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Eighth, Lisbon, Jefferson, Monroe and Mulberry streets, St. Clair, Dresden, Bradshaw and Pennsylvania avenues and River road.

The campaign not only will reveal the identity of the man who complies with traffic regulations, but will make known the names of violators of the law, for traffic officers will make arrests when circumstances warrant.

Let's co-operate next week in a drive to curtail the appalling automobile accident toll.

Little Boys Bigger

Doctors have been telling us for several years that the modern girl is taller and healthier than girls of 50 years ago. Physical examination records kept over a long period of years in colleges give particularly striking proof of this. It has generally been attributed to the fact that girls and women in recent years have entered more into sport and outdoor life than they did two or three generations ago.

Now the institute of juvenile research reports that school boys, too, are taller than the school boy 50 years ago. Several thousand school boys were examined. Their average height is found to be three and one-tenth inches ahead of the earlier average.

Since boys always have had considerable outdoor life, a different explanation is sought and readily found. Dr. Horace Gray of Chicago suggests that the extra height has resulted from increased knowledge of vitamins and general hygiene, and from medical progress in the control of infantile diseases that retard growth.

This explanation carries praise for the modern mother as well as the medical profession. Because of her interest in scientific care of her children, she takes pains to learn what is needed for their best development, and then she has the spunk to carry out the prescribed program of proper food, regular est and so on.

Paying For Past Vacations

It is reported that some of the touring agencies are offering European trips for next summer on the installment plan. The traveler pays half the cost of his trip at the start and the other half in ten monthly payments after his return.

It is possible that the agencies will make money on the system and that many of the installment plan tourists will eventually pay in full for their trips. But one wonders how the agencies will get back their tours in case of defaulted payments.

Paying for one's vacation after it is all over, however pleasant memories of it may be, certainly looks like the last word in installment folly. It would be much more practical to make these monthly payments into a Thrift Fund or a savings account for ten months in advance of the trip than to the agency for ten months after it's over.

The country has gone rather wild on this method of buying. If American prosperity, which has every reason to be enduring, is wrecked in the near future, immediate insstallment buying will have contributed a generous share to the catastrophe.

Less Broadcasting

The radio division of the American Engineering Council tells the Federal Radio Commission that more than half of the 733 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States should be eliminated by consolidation or banishment.

That sounds harsh, but is probably true. The democratic ideal of business freedom which encourages unlimited competition in other lines does not hold in the radio field. The "wave band" is limited. It does not do to assign too many stations to one wavelength, or to crowd the wave-lengths too closely together. After a certain point is reached in multiplication of broadcasting stations—and that point was passed long ago—the increase of stations actually decreases the effectiveness and value of broadcasting, to broadcasters and to the public.

There is no question that most of the 6,000,000 or more owners of radio sets would rather have a few good stations in operation than many poor ones.

Come to think of it, when our own North and South were engaged in a civil war, we weren't exactly eager to have outsiders around telling us what to do.

My Favorite Stories

A BORN DIPLOMAT

Here a few months ago the story which I am now about to tell was freely circulated in certain circles where whimsical yarns are appreciated. So far as I know, though, it never found its way into the public prints. It is high time this error of omission was rectified.

In a Southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell-captain, who also was colored, for final examination before assigning him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must re respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate, "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace Hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up and knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. Eo I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an dere's a strange lady settin' in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, SUH!' and backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'suh' part—dat was tact!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Manhattan has a display window life which gives it an artificiality so pleasing to sneerers. It is not more indicative of the real New York than the drug store smart alecs along Main Street mirror the small town spirit.

As a matter of fact the temporary visitor heightens this artificiality. As a rule he flocks to the cafes, theaters and night clubs when the flash and tinsel stick out and rarely sees the dignity of the artistic and social side.

The world of Broadway is chiefly interested in high kicks, quick acting gin, flapper bobs and saxophone whines. That's the New York for out of town's consumption. There is not one visitor in a hundred who seeks a view of the other and finer side.

This is not criticism of the visitor. Only fact. A visit to New York is largely a pleasure spree—a chance to cut away from conventions, stay up all night, sleep half the day, see the girl and leg shows, watch the night club didoes and such.

The peace and beauties of Gotham are not on display. They are off beaten paths. Even mid-town architecture is more often than not hideous. There is no more beautiful spot than Riverside Drive at sunrise with the Hudson rippling at one's feet and the purpling Palisades in the background.

Nor Central Park when a gray dusk is sifting through spreading trees and wisteria bowers and the sun hangs a sullen red in the west. Or the view of the craft in the harbor. The ribbon like roads of Westchester. The breathless vista at Inspiration Point. And so on.

In contrast to Broadway and the few streets of the Roaring Forties, there are scores of peaceful streets where knitting ladies are at windows. There are cathedrals rivaling those of the old world and art treasures that are unrivaled.

A certain New Yorker gave his wife permission to purchase a traveling set for an European journey. When he received the bill he found it so expensive he had to give up the trip. Fifth Avenue displays them from $300 up to $3,500. Train porters refuse to carry them. They feel the risk is too great.

There is no legal redress for night club owners who are given bouncing checks in payment for illicit liquor. They must accept the loss. But they have inaugurated a scheme that may affect a cure. All checks returned "N. S. F." are put on display in a well lighted glass cabinet in the entrance hall.

Cholly Knickerbocker, whose spry ear is eternally cupped for Four Hundred gossip, declares New York hasn't a society leader and no one can be found for the job. We wonder if they have thought of the "Help Wanted" columns.

Abe Martin Says--

Mebbe th' fear o' muck rakin' biographers 'll cause a lot o' ole codgers t' stay in ther class.

Radio announcers are gettin' t' be jest like temporary chairmen—they seem t' fergit who th' audience is waitin' t' hear.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Whippet Derby.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2. — In May, Washington is to be the scene of the first national whippet derby ever held in the United States. Whippet races have been held within the last few years in various sections of the country but this is the first time that there has been a national derby. It is to be held under the auspices of the Whippet Club of America and it is hoped by enthusiasts that it will be the forerunner of an annual event.

Whippets have been called the "poor man's racehorse" and have justified this name in England where whippet racing originated. In this country, however, this sport is largely in the hands of a few wealthy dog fanciers, although this breed is said to have been introduced into the United States by natives of Lancashire who brought their dogs with them when seeking their fortunes in a new country.

For many years whippet racing has been of vital interest and importance to the mill workers of Lancastershire, England. These people train their dogs and care for them all year that they may be entered in the big annual derby. Even thought the family may be obliged to go on short ratios the dogs are given their required amount of food, and the best of quality.

The story is told that one of these mill works who owned a fine whippet had purchased meat for him. The dog ate only half and the rest was put away for the next meal. While the man was away at work the mother, torn by her children's hunger, gave them the rest of the meat. When the father returned from the mill and looked for the food for the dog, he viewed her act as almost sacrilege, asking her in awed tones if she had forgotten that the great day of the derby was very close. Of course this may be understood to a certain extent when it is realized that having a winning dog in the whippet derby is about the only way these people may hope to make any considerable sum of money.

The whippet is really a small variety of greyhound. In conformation it follows closely the lines of its larger brother and except for size the two can hardly be distinguished. Even in color it follows the various shades common to greyhounds—black, white, fawn, red, gray, and brindle, with combinations of such colors with white. The ideal height for males of the breed is 18 1-2 inches at the shoulder and for females 17 1-2 inches. The average and ideal weights for mature individuals are for males 21 pounds and for females 20 pounds.

Origin of Name.

The origin of the name "whippet" is from the Old English "wappet," meaning cur, and "whapping," meaning the yapping of a dog. This breed is said to have originated approximately a hundred years ago in the northern part of England. Rabbit baiting was a favorite sport at that time among the mill hands, colliers, and workmen of Yorkshire, Durham, Northumberland, and Lancastershire and to these men is largely due the developing of the whippet. When it later became unlawful to conduct rabbit-baiting races a straight course, such as is used today, was adopted. In developing the whippet, breeders sought to obtain extreme speed, endurance, and stamina.

George Jean Nathan, the dramatic critic, is said to have the finest collection of overcoats in town. In the assortment of some 50 in his wardrobe are all those from the fawn box-like shot coat with the expansive pearl buttons to one with an Alpine hood. Flo Ziegfeld is said to have 100 hats on hand at all times and Paul Whiteman has 38 different evening shirts. Valentino had some seventy cigarette cases. And I note in a man's style column that 24 pairs of shoes are about the right proportion for the perfect wardrobe of a human being not a centipede.

I seem to keep about six months behind or thereabouts with modern slang. An earnest young collegiate was explaining today about his disgust with a companion he called a cookie pusher.

"What is a cookie pusher?" I interrupted.

There was a withering look and "You know a couch spider—a parlor scorpion.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK ON "NARROWS" HIGHWAY

STATE BUREAU TO ACT WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Men on Job to Get Big Shovel in Readiness.

TO SPEED WORK

Dirt Will be Dumped in Yellow Creek District.

Work on the "Narrows" will be resumed in about two or three weeks, depending upon the weather, according to information received from the state highway department which now has two men at work getting the big shovel in readiness.

Present plans call for making the fill at the south approach to the new Pennsylvania overhead bridge with dirt taken from the right of way.

This will admit of hauling future refuse from the grading over the bridge for dumping in the Yellow Creek district and also reduce the haul which has been necessary by several miles.

When the new bridge has been reached it is planned to turn the shovel and cut another slice off the hill to widen the road back as far as the traction company crossing.

The state department hopes to hurry the effort right along so that this piece of road could be surfaced with slag the same as the road through Empire and up to the Pennsy crossing above the Stratton works.

No definite working plans have been made regarding the suggestion to cut an undergrade just above Yellow Creek and build the River road straight through into Wellsville as yet.

During the recent visit of Mr. Wilbur of the federal highway department he expressed himself as satisfied this was the ultimate road site and his opinion in the matter was echoed by state highway officials present. This will do away with two bad turns at present undergrades.

It is apparent that this plan will be adopted if the memorial to congress, passed under the direction of Senator Harry M. Carpenter at the request of Governor Donahey, makes funds available.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 2.—Price movements in the stock market today were practically unchanged from the last two or three sessions. The railroad, steel and high-priced industrials moved upward briskly in the first period under the impetus of an aggressive buying demand, while the whole of the oil group, with a few of the weak specialties, were battered into the lower price ranges under a heavy onslaught of speculative selling.

The week-end business reviews reported considerable unsettlement in important branches of domestic trade, with wholesale buying conservative and for immediate requirements.

The rise in railroad stocks carried a number of the well known issues from 1 to 2½ points above the previous close, but offerings of stocks at the higher prices were quite liberal, and moderate reactions took place. Erie sold in good volume at 50¾, the highest price in twenty years, on reports that the management would expend a large sum of money on property improvements.

United States Steel repeated its almost daily performance of hanging up a new high record, the stock advancing fractionally to 170, where a good volume of business was transacted. The independent steel stocks were also firm and the motor shares made further improvement, under the lead of Studebaker and Packard.

Oil stocks were compelled to absorb another huge volume of speculative selling on rumors that further price cutting in mid-continent crude oil would be seen next week as the only effective check against excessive production of oil.

Professional selling of the bulk of industrial and specialty stocks was in comparatively large volume, with prices swaying backward and forward in a narrow radius. Coppers and sugars were inactive but steady and equipment stocks firm.

But women voting have made men in office ask themselves, "What do the women want? What do the children need?" That's the important thing about votes for women.

In old whisky days, as soon as women got the vote, district leaders in the great city sent out the order, "Don't get the boys drunk around election time, or their wives and daughters will vote against you.

AN INTERESTING revelation about tiger hunting by rajahs and other great dignitaries in India reads as follows:

"The rajahs like to be photographed with rows of tigers they have killed but do not like to be scratched or bitten. The day before the kill, the haunts of tigers 'marked down' are baited with meat heavily drugged. The tigers eat and can barely drag themselves along, when the beaters drive them out to be shot. Thus the royal sportsman's heroism is made pleasantly safe."

IRREVERENT bolsheviki allege in large type that under the czars the masses were similarly drugged and made docile. In their case the drug was religion, which communism calls "the opium of the people." As a matter of fact, religion is the consolation of the people and their balance wheel. But you can hardly expect bolshevism to realize that.

Furnishing the Music At Virginia Garden's Beautiful Ball Room

HATTIE

By Samuel Merwin

SYNOPSIS:

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. She and the office boy have been seen holding hands—otherwise there has been no romance in her life. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director.

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. They arrive at Beverly.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Gran'ma sat outside in the automobile while Hattie and Alice and Emily, at three, presented themselves at the gate of the Earthwide Lot. A crabbed attendant kept them waiting. Then the young man named George appeared and guided them within Hattie reflected that he must have come West on another train. He semed out here in this ragged desert of little wooden buildings and hurried pre-occupied people like an old friend. But he took for granted their presence more than three thousand miles from home. Evidently all sorts of folks came and went and nobody mattered particularly.

The lot, within, did have a bit here and there of the magic of her day dreams. Fantastically gotten up personages stolled about. On a stand under a canopy a beautiful star was having her white shoes done by a humorous Italian boy. She thought with an inexplicably poignant rush of feeling of Willie Maazzini. She saw another Italian leading a big brown bear. As they walked past a huge building she saw through an open doorway a blaze of lights and built up scenery. Two real Chinese girls walked by, giggling, gay in their yellow and green coats and trousers. A bulldog trotted past with a trained squirrel seated on his back. An immensely tall Westerner in riding chaps and blue shirt, his face painted a horried lavender tint, paused almost at her elbow to light a cirgarette, and she noted the permanent wave in his glossy hair. She wondered if cowboys really had their hair done that way out on the range.

Their guide left Alice and Emily in a court-yard, led Hattie into a building and along a corridor, and opened a door. The door closed behind her. It was a huge room, dimly beautiful, with a great deal of dark-colored wood that was elaborately carved and a lovely colored light sifting in through and arms and pictures of beautiful women scribbled over with writing and each in a carved frame of that same dark wood. A voice called—"Just a minute, dear!"—and she saw the now familiar thick shoulders of Mr. de Brissac bent over a huge flat desk at the farther end of the room. A black whip with a long braided lash hung on the wall over the desk. She turned for the man named George, but found that he hadn't come in with her. She looked again at the pictures; moved nearer a side wall, and discovered that each of these beautiful girls was a famous star. And the scribblings were all of an intimate nature—"To dear Armand"—that sort of thing. There was another huge picture that covered a round table and was itself covered by a disk of heavy glass—the head of a delicately pretty young girl, with no sign of clothing about her rounded shoulders, and, perhaps significantly, with no inscription. She had not before thought of him in connection with woman. The discovery came upon her with considerable force. The feeling returned of an unstable world slipping under her feet. She seemed a helpless drifting bit of life, without purpose or sense of direction, a nothing moving on toward somewhere.

She moved over beneath one of the richly stained windows and stood limply there. This great man who knew so much and whose tremendous personal power was felt the world around was all she had now to tie to. They, the whole family, had cut off everything else. She felt afraid. It was going to be very hard to keep from crying. She heard him push back his chair and walk briskly toward her, but couldn't turn. She was trembling. She felt his firm hands on her shoulders as he turned her, not unkindly. She found herself held tightly in his arms. He was kissing her. It seemed in a way that she ought to resist. Then it seemed that perhaps it would be all right if she compromised by not returning his kisses; as she had with Willie Mazzini. But Willie must never know about this. It occurred to her too that this wonderful man knew everything about girls and women, knew how to make them want to kiss him. She found herself now, for the first time in her life, giving a man something, a very little of herself. It was both wonderful and terrifying. Her face burned hotly. Then the tears came, and as he released her, she dropped, sobbing, into one of those magnificent chairs and dropped her head on her arm.

She heard him saying—"Why you poor little thing, you're all unstrung!" He held her head up and made her sip a little of a fluid that burned her throat so that she gagged and coughed. He was kind now. After a little she stopped crying, and rose. He took her shoulders again and held her off at arms length, studying her face.

"My dear little girl," she said now, with a gentleness of manner that faintly reassured her, "I never meant to upset you like that. You musn't misunderstand. I told you that I mean to star you, fire you, give you both the training and the experience that will make a great artist of you. Don't you understand, child, that I'm planning deliberately to devote my genius to making you famous and rich? It's not a case for crying. I intend that you shall be happy. As a mater of fact, you're not going to see such a lot of me. Within a day or so I shall be plunging into the job of making the biggest picture of my career. You are to help me in that job. I warn you I shall often be brusque. I have to give myself to my work day and night. It's a terrific drive."

It seemed wonderful that he, de Brissac, should be so patiently explaining himself to her.

He went on—"I'm not going to stir you up like that—not very often—because it is my plan to use that delicately virginal face of yours all through this the first of the pictures we are to make together. Do you know why I have taken you up like this? Picked you out of a million girls? Because you have just that delicate quality. Because you're not hard-boiled. Later, as I told you, I shall develop your emotions, bring you out, make a dramatic actress of you. All that in its own good time. Not now. You have great emotional possibilities. The test showed that. But you must understand this one thing—your emotions are mine, mine alone. You are not to let any other man play with them. I mean to build you, little by little. I tell you I'm going to make you."

She said, in her weak whisper—

"Yes, sir."

"You don't have to 'sir' me, dear. Call me Mr. de Brissac in public. When we're alone call me anything you like. Call me Armand."

But she knew she couldn't do that.

Her eyes, with the first sense of furtiveness they had ever known, roved uncertainly from one to another of his pictures.

"How do I know—" She couldn't get the words out.

"Yes? What's that?"

"How do I know you're—not—married?"

PHYSICIANS REPORT HENRY FORD OUT OF DANGER

ARMED GUARDS SURROUND HIS DEARBORN HOME

America's Billionaire Convalescing After Auto Crash.

PLOT IS DENIED

By William K. Hutchinson.

DETROIT, April 2.—The identity of the two men whose car crashed into the small coupe driven by Henry Ford Sunday night is known to the Ford secret police but the occupants of the car will not be prosecuted, it was indicated today by Prosecutor Robert M. Toms.

DETROIT, April 2.—Tightly strapped in splints, Henry Ford lay helpless today in an old-fashioned bed at his Dearborn palace, taking the complete rest necessary for his recovery from injuries received in a motor crash last Sunday night. A cordon of armed guards surrounded the estate.

America's first billionaire was convalescing and his physicians finally reported him out of danger. Great care however, is being exercised to prevent the development of complications.

Officials of the Ford Motor company meanwhile put the quietus on reports that the accident to the motor king was the result of an attempt to assassinate him. They acted at Ford's own direction, the motor king deciding that urgent steps must be taken to end the unexpected publicity that surrounded the crash.

Needs Only Rest.

The million dollar libed suit, which Aaron Sapiro, so-called wheat king, brought against Ford, today stood in adjournment until Monday. The motor king will appear as a witness in the trial but not until he has completely recovered. In the meantime, other witnesses will be called and, on Monday, Sapiro will resume the stand to undergo further cross-examination by Senator A. Reed, chief of Ford's counsel.

Ford probably will be able to leave his Dearborn home within two weeks unless unexpected complications develop. He needs only rest and the aid of nature to recover, according to his physicians.

An announcement, issued on behalf of the doctors by one of the Ford official, follows:

"Mr. Ford's recovery is so assured that we will issue no more medical bulletins. Mr. Ford is convalescing in a perfectly normal manner, although he still suffers some pain from a sprained back and must lie perfectly still in splints and tape. All Mr. Ford must do to get well is to lie flat on his back and let nature take its course."

Mrs. Ford Reads to Him.

Ford, however, was reported to be very impatient and eager to get out into the open air and back to his desk. With the motor king one of the most restless men in the world, the big problem facing his family and physicians was to keep him quiet. Mrs. Ford spent most of yesterday at his bedside, it was learned, reading to him and the auto king evidenced much interest in the newspaper accounts of his accident.

It was these newspaper accounts incidentally which caused Ford to order the "soft pedal" put upon the reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate him. As a matter of fact, Ford himself originated the reports, according to authentic information. The motor king told his intimate friends that he believed it was a deliberate attempt to murder him when a "hit and run" driver, in a big Studebaker, side-swiped the coupe in which he was driving and knocked him across a sidewalk near his Dearborn estate and down a 15-foot embankment. Ford was particularly convinced of the ulterior motive of the driver by what he believed was an earlier attempt to crash into him just as he was about to cross a bridge over the Rouge river. The actual crash came a few seconds later after he crossed this bridge.

Seek Studebaker Driver.

Ford, who is one of the most experienced motorists in the country and who raced cars with Barney Oldfield years ago, gave orders at once to locate this Studebaker but anticipated no publicity on the subject. He was amazed later to learn that the whole matter had become public property and gave orders that the subject be dropped so far as the public was concerned.

The investigation, started by his secret agents, is continuing however, even though official statements have been issued to the contrary. In fact the Detroit police sent one officer at least to aid in the investigation.

The purpose of the Ford agents was to locate the suspected murder car to satisfy their own curiosity as to who drove into the auto king.

Secret Agents On Job.

A dozen of his secret agents, led by Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford investigators, spent yesterday in the federal building viewing every visitor to the libel suit trial. This action was taken as a precaution so that they will know the regular visitors when Ford goes to appear on the witness stand. Such precautions have not been taken previously within the memory of the oldest attache in the federal building.

A cordon of armed guards was thrown around Ford's Dearborn estate. This was done because Ford has a conviction that publicity on one attempt to assassinate him will provoke others. This was his chief reason for deprecating reports that last Sunday's crash was a designed attempt to attack him. He was so annoyed by the publicity given him this week that investigations have been ordered to learn who has been responsible for the news leaking to the public.

Cambridge Wins Its Annual Boat Race From Oxford Crew

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge today won its thirty-eighth annual boat race from Oxford.

Although Oxford took an early lead and was half a length in the van at the two-mile mark the Cambridge oarsmen bent to their task in the last two miles of the race and began pulling up as the boats reached Chiswick and then showed greater strength as they passed Duke's Meadow.

When the boats crossed the finish line at Mortlake the Cambridge crew was two lengths ahead.

TOLEDO YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD

Police Believe Boy Was Strangled to Death.

TOLEDO, April 2.—While funeral services for Robert E. Wilson, 17, are being held here today, police continued attempts to ascertain how the youth came to his death. Authorities are inclined to the belief that the boy was strangled to death, his throat cut by some sharp instrument and the body then carried to the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad track where it was found.

Sandusky county officials state the boy's neck was broken. Deep cuts were found across the back of the neck and on the hands.

Absence of marks on the body, police said, indicates the boy was not hit by a train as was at first supposed. A pool of blood was also found 50 feet from the body.

HILLTOP MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Orchard Grove Avenue Church Observes "Family Night."

That there will come a time to the procrastinating soul in which he will not be able to enter into a salvation status with God was declared by Rev. Joseph Edie, evangelist at the Orchard Grove revival, last evening. "My message is one of warning," he said. "There is no neutral, half-way ground in serving Jesus Christ."

The inclement night depleted somewhat the attendance of what was intended to be "Family Night." The largest one present developed to be that of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burns which consisted of themselves and their daughters, Misses Mary and Lucy. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Conn presented Mr. Burns with a copy of Edgar A. Guest's poems as a token of the occasion.

The song service, directed by Charles A. Price with Miss Mary Burns as organist, was followed by a duet by Mesdames Conn and Edie, "Listen to the Voice of the Saviour." Mrs. H. F. Burns accompanied them.

The invocation was made by Harry Brokaw, superintendent of the Orchard Grove Sunday school.

The revival, it was anounced, will be concluded on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Conn will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Edie, returning from his Youngstown pastorate, in the evening. Young People's night will be emphasized at the final session of the series of meetings.

That Rev. Mr. Conn may be enabled to be present on Sunday evening Rev. Alfred Walls, a former pastor, will preach at the Anderson Methodist church, Ninth street.

of reprisals and sanctions. The American government doesn't want to subscribe to the policy up to the point of sanctions. This government would rather deal with each individual problem as it arises, such as was done at Nanking, and not lay down any hard and fast policy in advance which future events might make unwise to follow.

The necessity of the powers maintaining a common front, or at least the semblance of one, in China, is well recognized in Washington. One official, describing the situation, paraphrased Benjamin Franklin's famous assertion of 150 years ago: "We must hang together, or assuredly we will all hang separately." It is for this reason that efforts are being made to minimize the differences between the London and Washington governments, and to get together.

Guerillas Cause Apprehension.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Guerillas and armed bandits are causing some apprehension in Shanghai, while foreign evacuation of the Yangtze ports continues without any serious disorders.

The Nationalists are attempting to disarm the guerillas and the Chinese police are making efforts to cope with the bandits who are staging repeated hold-ups throughout Shanghai

Meanwhile the matter of reported dissension within the ranks of the Nationalists is the subject for rumor. The repeated reports that Chiang Kai-Shek has been ordered deposed as military commander and that he intends to resist, are still without official confirmation. Efforts to reach Chiang Kai-Shek today for an interview were futile, as the Nationalist commander is completely surrounded by armed guards at all times and comes into public contact but infrequently.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Cantonese government, in a statement made public today, accused "reactionary and counter revolutionary elements and local ruffians" of responsibility for the foreign outbreak at Nanking.

NO COMPROMISE IN SIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Operators Say First Move is up to Union Chief.

AWAIT PARLEY

Stage Set for Showdown in Pittsburgh District.

CHICAGO, April 2.—No compromise was in sight today as the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field entered its second day.

Operators openly declared the first move for a new conference must come from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"We are willing at all times to talk the situation over with union officials," said Rice Miller, president of the coal operators' association of Illinois. "But we cannot afford to pay the Jacksonville wage scale and survive in competition with non-union fields."

It was the termination of the Jacksonville scale, providing a basic day wage of $7.50 that caused the suspension of mining throughout the field which embraces western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Ohio May Take Lead.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—With the scheduled conference between Ohio United Mine Workers representatives and Ohio operators at Columbus, April 7, this state may assume the lead in attempts to resume coal mining in the unionized central competitive field.

Although Ohio miners have steadfastly maintained they will not work for less than the old Jacksonville wage scale which expired April 1, and operators are insisting on a new competitive rate, it is possible a "middle ground" may be reached and a compromise effected.

Pennsylvania Situation.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—With the miners and operators in western Pennsylvania, the heart of the nation's bituminous coal producing area, farther apart than ever, the stage was being set today for a showdown in the wage controversy.

At the offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company preparations were made to reopen the company's eight large mines on an open basis as soon as possible after working under a union agreement for years.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P STEWART

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—If Secretary of State Kellogg resigns (the report that he will is as persistent as the persistency with which he does not do it, day after day) what's the matter with Postmaster General New for his job?

HARRY S. NEW

Slow as Kellogg is about quitting, the impression in Washington is that his official days are numbered, just the same.

Everybody seemed to think of New all at once.

HARRY STEWART NEW is as different as individual from Frank Billings Kellogg as it's possible to imagine.

Secretary Kellogg is small and dressy and fidgety.

Postmaster General New is large and sartorially informal and as restful, in his manner, as any clam. He's efficient, but he's efficient without any splurge.

New wears a large, black slouch hat, with a floppy brim. In winter he wears a coonskin overcoat. His clothes are good but he drapes 'em carelessly on his rangy frame. He's reminiscent of the west, though he comes from no farther in that direction than Indianny.

NEW'S tremendously popular. Most folks think he's the best postmaster general that ever was.

He was a newspaper man and a politician and finally a United States senator. Mut when he came up for reelection, he was licked. As he'd always been a faithful wheelhorse, an appointive post had to be found for him, so he got the postmaster generalship, not because he was considered especially well equipped for it, but because he was entitled to a cabinet portfolio and that one was available.

He slid into his job as if he'd been made to order for it.

He's run it so smoothly that, during the going-on five years he's held it, it's been almost unnoticeable that there was any such job or any Harry New.

Oh, if he can only take the secretaryship of state and run it the same way!

with keenness, intelligence and spirit. The blood of the greyhound and terrier breed was therefore selected as foundation stock.

So successful have breeders been in producing a dog with speed that the whippet has often been said to be the fastest animal living, although the more cautious say, "it would be impossible to say definitely which is the swiftest animal." There appears to be no dissension, however, on the statement that the whippet can outrun any other dog.

The usual length of the track on which whippet races are held is 200 yards, and the record for this distance, from a standing start, 11 2-5 seconds. When the dog is going at top speed it is figured that he is traveling at the rate of 60 or 65 miles an hour. A human runner racing with a whippet is given a handicap of at least 75 yards, and then always loses. Charlie Paddock, the famous sprinter of the West Coast, has matched his speed against that of a whippet a number of times, but even with the customary handicap has gone down to defeat before these small symbols of speed.

Training for Racing.

The racing training of whippets begins when they are three months or less of age. Before they are able to run well they are trained to chase a cloth waved at them down the track. They are daily trained to "worry the rag," and as they grow a bit older they are run first 10 or 15 yards, and then increased distances as they grow older. It is interesting to note that although this breed of dog is primarily a racing variety, there are individuals which fail to show the racing instinct and positively refuse to learn.

During the last two weeks before a derby is to be held the dogs are sent over a 200-yard course three or four times a day at top speed. The final three or four days they are weighed three times a day and their food carefully measured according to whether they are increasing or losing weight. At this time eggs play an important part in the diet, while their quota of meat is often decreased.

An unusual characteristic of the whippet male, and one which has caused considerable stir among whippet enthusiasts, is the fact that he will not pass the female on the track, thus proving that after all chivalry is not dead—at least not among whippets. There are those who maintain that this extreme courtliness should be trained out of the male, while others believe that his "manners" should be left to him and merely offset by a handicap.

The American champion whippet racer is Nomad Nancy of Oxen, belonging to Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Short Hills, New Jersey. Not only is she a champion herself but she has produced five others. One of the unusual features of the forthcoming national derby is to be a race between Nancy and her five children. Nancy is unusual also in that she is a bench dog as well as a field champion.

The recent flair for whippet racing in the United States is largely due to the enthusiasm and effort of the Damon family. On the Pacific Coast, however, it has been taken up by many of the movie stars and Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among the leading ones who race their own dogs.

Dog events are almost universally popular and it is believed that the National Whippet Derby is to have the support of a large part of official Washington, many members of which are dog owners. Whippet owners all over the country are becoming enthusiastic over the idea, believing that it will be an added impetus to the sport of whippet racing in this country.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, COLLEGE STREET, ORGANIZED FEB. 19, 1888

Mrs. John S. Scott, of this city, is the only survivor of the five persons who were assembled in East Liverpool on January 24, 1888, when a series of meetings was launched with a view toward organization of the First Church of Christ.

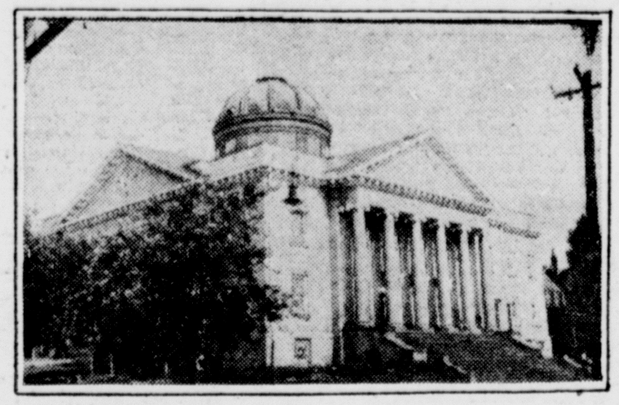
Rev. J. A. Brenenstuhl, then pastor of the Steubenville church, came to this city for the services.

On February 19, 1888 an organization was formed with 32 charter members. Among them were R. J. Meakin, Mrs. Ellen Meakin, J. S. Scott, Margaret Hague, Mary Hague, Thomas Lloyd, Mary E. Lloyd, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Harry H. Dixon, J. C. Nichols, Matthias Adams, Mrs. Anna Adams, Viola Adams, J. N. Baxter, Mrs. E. S. Baxter, R. M. Poland, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Sarah Copeland, George Kiddy, Mrs. E. J. Kiddy, Henrietta Richardson, Maggie Richardson, A. M. Jackson, Edith M. Nichols, Lela Kessel, R. L. Wallace and Adella May.

Of these charter members only six are with the church today.

The first elders of the church were Thomas Lloyd and Matthias Adams; first deacons, J. M. Baxter, R. J. Meakin, H. H. Dixon and J. C. Nichols.

The meetings during the early history of the church were held in Ikirt's hall. J. C. Stivers, Father Teagarden, Ira C. Mitchell, N. L. Atwood, Thomas E. Cramblett and others supplied occasional preaching. Of these J. C. B. Stivers rendered the most extended service, preaching for the church here once a month, being supported by the church in co-operation with the district missionary society. Mr. Stivers was then pastor of the New Cumberland church.



During the fall of 1889 a charter was procured with Stockdale Jackman, H. H. Dixon, J. S. Scott, Thomas Lloyd and W. H. Vodrey as incorporators. These men were later elected as trustees. The name of the church as given in the charter is "Church of Christ." The name Christian church is only a grammatical equivalent.

The great desire of the promoters of this movement, known as the "Current Reformation," has always been to bring about union among Christian peoples. To this end those fundamental and universal teachings and practices have always been advocated which are designed to promote unity rather than division.

From January, 1889, meetings were held semi-monthly and many were added to the membership. Prayer meeting was held each week, and a largely attended Sunday school was maintained.

Rev. B. C. Black was the first pastor. Following him was the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Huffer who remained with the church for about six years. Rev. O. S. Reed, Rev. Walter Mansell and J. W. Gorrell, respectively, were also pastors of the church.

With the growth of the church came the need for a permanent house of worship. The congregation, after having been notified to vacate Ikirt's hall and having made fruitless efforts to secure a place of meeting, concluded that with the help of God, such a house would be erected. Josiah Thompson donated the lot on the corner of East 4th and Elm street, Dec. 8, 1889, the congregation dedicated its first house of worship. Prof. J. M. Tribble of Bethany conducted the exercises. Updike and Haws, then famous as evangelists, followed with a series of meetings which were very successful, 163 being added to the church membership.

During the pastorates of Revs. Black, Huffer and Reed the church grew and prospered. These three laid

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

611. WHY WILL NO "LION" (SATAN — SEE PETER 5:8) BE THERE?

Answer: Because he is to be bound for a thousand years, the time during which the highway of holiness is open. See Revelation 20:1-3; Matthew 12:29.

612. DID DANIEL SEE THE KINGDOMS OF THIS WORLD AS FOUR BEASTS?

Answer: See Daniel seventh chapter

613. WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THOSE KINGDOMS WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS IS ESTABLISHED?

Answer: They shall pass away—be no more; for "there was given him (Christ) dominion and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him."—Daniel 7:13, 14, 27.

614. WHAT IS MEANT, THEREFORE, BY THE EXPRESSION: "NO RAVENOUS BEAST SHALL GO UP THEREON"?

Answer: It means: "The Kingdoms of this world (will) become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ" (Revelation 11:15) and, for that reason, there will be no ravenous beasts (beastly governments ready to tear each other to pieces at the slightest provocation); for the kingdom of Christ will be a kingdom of peace.—See Isaiah 2:4.

615. WHAT IS MEANT BY, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE"—ON THE HIGHWAY OF HOLINESS."—ISAIAH 35:9.

Answer: It means that those who will walk up on the highway of holiness (the fully consecrated) will be redeemed or bought back from the bondage of sin and death by Jesus Christ, their nearest and dearest friend. The Hebrew word here translated redeemed is GAAL and means the nearest of kin EMPOWERED as such to buy back his relative's lost estate. See Strong's concordance.

616. WHO ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" (V.10)?

Answer: The Man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all to be testified (to all) in due time." I Tim. 2:5,6.

617. FROM WHERE ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" TO "RETURN"?

Answer: First some of those on the broad way to destruction—death (Matthew 7:13), shall be delivered from going down to the pit (the grave. See Job 33:19-28). Afterwards, "all that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth." (John 5:28,29) Even the little children "shall come again from the land of the enemy"—death.'—Jeremiah 31:15-17; see also I Corinthians 15:21-26.

BE IN CHURCH SUNDAY

'PETER BECOMES JESUS' DISCIPLE' IS SUNDAY SC HOOL LESSON

William T. Ellis Tells of Two Contrasting Pictures in Mind of Traveler.

By William T. Ellis.

Two contrasting pictures hang in the gallery of this traveler's memory. One is of a swart fisherman, with seamed face and long hair and beard, his loose cotton garment tucked into his girdle, standing on the shore of the Lake of Galilee, casting or throwing a big circular net, exactly as described in the story of Peter's call. It is arduous work, calling for skill and patience and great physical hardihood. The man might be the Fisherman Apostle come to life again on the very scene where Peter toiled. How the Land illuminates the Book!

The other picture is far from Galilee, in the "Eternal City" of Rome. I am standing beneath the dome of the greatest church in the world, which bears the name of this same fisherman. It is crowded with pilgrims from every corner of the earth. A black bronze statue of Saint Peter stands at one side, and a continuous procession of the devout pass it and reverently kiss the toe, which has been almost worn away by the lips of the fervent faithful. As I behold the spectacle, memory reverts to the primitive life about the Lake of Galilee. Peter, the fisherman, has come a long way. Viewed merely as a study in "success" is there any other contrast in the world so wonderful as this one?

What made Simon Peter, the rough swinger of nets and handler of slippery fish, over into Peter, the apostle and saint and imperial figure in whose honor countless cathedrals have been reared and whose name is above that of kings and emperors? It was only the addition of Jesus to his personality. The fisherman by the lake was Peter minus; the world figure of the apostle was Peter plus. If Jesus had not called Peter in His fellowship, he would have remained an unknown toiler on the waters to the end of his obscure and uneventful days. Our very first look at Simon Peter returns the tremendous and timely truth that the greatest character-transforming force in the world—mightier than any college or social training—is simply association with Jesus Christ. To follow Him is to find life in beauty and in bigness.

When a Soul Wakes Up.

All sorts of spectacular events were occurring around the Lake of Galilee at this time—the erection of new buildings at Capernaum and Bethsaida; the opening of new marble structures to house the hot baths on the western shore; and the ceaseless comings and goings of Roman dignitaries. This procession of "public" events would have got the headlines in the press of the day, had there been newspapers. No notice whatever have been taken of the insignificant fact that a few rough fishermen had become followers of a new religious Teacher whose home was by the Lake.

Looking back across the centuries, with truer perspective, we perceive clearly that nothing else in the whole history of that day, not only in Galilee but also throughout the entire known world, was so important as the decision of this little group of plain men to accept the leadership of Jesus. History knows nothing of the beautiful buildings or of the local potentates who were the talk of the towns and of the time; but the impress of Peter and John and their brothers upon the world has been revolutionary.

All of the really big things that happen in the world take place inside of somebody's head. Destiny depends upon decision. Human choices are the most eventful experiences in the life of mankind. All of the greatest news of our day is entirely missed by the newspapers, because it goes on, unseen and unknown, within the inner life of individual men and women—and mostly young men and women. When a soul like Peter's wakes up to the call of Christ, vast new consequences portend for the world. The day that he answered the voice of the Master, and left the nets, Peter set out on the road to Rome and to universal influence. In that choice was a whole education.

Introducing a Great Man.

Suppose we pause here for a little glimpse of this man Peter's life, and for a preview of his career. Up until the time of our Lesson, he was known only as a fisherman, a toiler at a hard trade. His vigorous, fearless and impetuous personality had made him a leader among his fellows; but the whole crowd were relatively unimportant. Peter's home was the mean house of a peasant. He was married, and his mother-in-law lived with him. One of his first acts as a disciple of Jesus was to take the Master to his home to heal his mother-in-law, who was ill—for blessing comes to the entire household when one member decides to go whole-heartedly along with Christ.

This rough fisherman was no parlor ornament. His language was rough, and even profane. He had a quick temper, but a loyal heart. His impulsiveness led him into many blunders, but the gift of discerning and self-immolating friendship was his. Certain qualities of self-reliance and initiative made him a leader in any group of which he was a member. Andrew called a bigger man than himself when he introduced his fiery, fearless, fighting friendly brother to Jesus. A "practical man" was Peter, ever quick to do something about it. No theorizer he; when all the hopes of the Brotherhood seemed buried in a new grave, it was Peter who proposed that they return to their fishing. Sometimes I dream of the possibility of a great conference of plain, practical, Christian men, mostly workers with their hands, to face frankly the present problems of religion and life, which the preachers sem to have muddled. We forget so easily the lesson of the apostlate, that the principal equipment of the founders of our faith was not formal education, but a personal experience of Christ.

Later, Peter took a pen in his calloused, gnarled fist; but he handled a net more easily. He did better when he had Mark for an amanuensis; for be supplied the material for the second Gospel, which was the first written in point of time. In the Apostolic church Peter was foremost in the council of the brethren. Eventually, he seems to have reached Rome, some time after Paul's imprisonment and death there. No record is to be found in the Bible of Peter's presence in Rome; but the early church fathers are unanimous in recording his sojourn and martyrdom there. Recently, I visited one of the catacombs in Rome where it is believed that the bodies of Paul and Peter rested together, before they were entombed in the respective churches that bear their names. All this matters little; the real Peter lives in the hearts of myriads of Christians who are peculiarly drawn to him by his humanness and frailty and his real love for Christ.

A Man Who Made Mistakes.

All sorts of classifications have been made of mankind; one that is as good as any is the persons who have initiative and the persons who has it not. One man with initiative—a self-starter—who has been allured by the winsomeness of the Saviour, is a better asset to a community, and to the kingdom of heaven, than whole rows of expensive and endowed institutions. Why are good folk so often dull and drab and conventionalized? Peter is a splash of color in Christian history. He had personality and push. He did things, without waiting for some organization to pass a resolution that they should be done. All the virtues and roughness of the pioneers made their home beneath his fisherman's cloak. Of all the qualities to be sough in youth, none is more priceless than initiative. To unleash a Christian Peter upon the world is a greater work than to build a cathedral.

Undoubtedly, Peter made mistakes—and how the puny, parroting, powerless little critics magnified them. The world is made up of two groups—one very small and one very large—persons who do things, and the other persons who talk about the persons who do them. Always the second company eventually become followers of the first. Better a blundering doer than an uncriticised idler. There is no other mistake equal to the making of no mistakes, because making nothing lse. Doubtless Peter's friends and family—but scarcely his mother-in-law—found fault with him for quitting his fishing in order to become a fisher of men. All his life he listened to criticism—and never heeded it.

One of the priceless bequests of Peter to the world is the lesson that "a man may be down, but never out." He embodies the good news of a second chance, and of a third chance. He taught the lesson of beginning again; which someone has put into verse:

"There's a wonderful place for the whole human race,
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where the acts of the past, in forgetfulness cast,
Rise no more, for God's pardon we gain.
And a Saviour we find, who will always be kind,
As the King of our hearts He shall reign,
And though sin-sick and sad, we shall all be made glad,
In the Land of Beginning Again."

With the completion of a new railroad line now under construction in Egypt, the running time between Cairo and Assuan will be reduced four hours.

"ATTAINING HAPPINESS," SERMON BY REV. L. E. LEE, WELLSVILLE

By Rev. L. E. Lee.

Every rational individual wants to be successful and happy. To be successful and happy certain conditions must be met or brought about in the nature of the men and women. Real and enduring happiness is not accomplished by chance. Order is the first law of heaven.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

When Jesus said "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added" he was expressing the fact that certaing things must be accomplished in the nature of men and women if they are to be happy. He was saying that happiness does not come by following the leadings of the world but that it is attained by consciously seeking to build our lives according to God's purposes for us. Let us see what is necessary to attain happiness.

Righteousness comes before happiness. The man who knows that in the sight of God and man he is unrighteous is not happy. He can never be happy as long as he is in this condition. The dishonest man is not happy nor can he be. Men who have violated the purity and cleanness of their moral life cannot be happy. All forms of sin bring in a greater or less degree unhappiness.

Spiritual adjustment comes before righteousness. God stands for all that is righteous in life. Jesus Christ has revealed God's ideals of righteousness in a way that man can understand. The man whose purposes and ideals of life are not the purposes and ideals that Jesus taught can not hope for happiness in the real sense. He lacks spiritual adjustment. He is out of adjustment with life as God purposed it should be.

Obedience comes before spiritual adjustment. The man who has refused to obey God and Christ cannot be in harmony with life at its best.

Revc. L. E. Lee.

He is not spiritually adjusted; unrighteous because of his disobedience. Jesus has asked that men confess him as God's son; that they stand before the world definitely committed to his service. He has asked that they live as He taught men should live. If any man has refused to do this or neglected to do it, he cannot be happy. Obedience must come.

Faith and love come before obedience. Man must believe that Jesus is what he claims to be, God's Son. Seeing the motive of live in the heart God which impelled Him to send Jesus into the world, we must obey. Seeing Jesus in His life driven on and sustained by an overwhelming love for humanity, we must surely love Him and obey Him. Looking about us in life and seeing this love still burning in the hearts of thousands upon thousands of His people, urging them to unselfish service in His name we must surely believe in His power. Surely we will we must believe in Him, love Him and obey Him. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added."

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OBSERVES TWENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

The Second Presbyterian church of East Liverpool was organized on March 27, 1890, by a committee of Steubenville Presbytery, consisting of Rev. A. B. Cooper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. K. Crowe and Elders John Campbell and Matthew Love. It was the outgrowth of a mission, begun just two years before, and which had been carried on under the supervision of the session of the mother church, of which W. B. McCord was superintendent and Dr. William M. Calhoon, assistant. Eighty members of the First church entered the new organization.

The first ruling elders were Robert Baird and Dr. Calhoon. John L. Noah and Noah Orr were ordained as deacons. Frank Allabaugh, William Allison, S. R. Dixon, M. C. Hollinger, James M. Pugh and John M. Smith were trustees. A constitution and by-laws, and "Plan of Benevolence" were adopted by the congregation.

The following ministers have served the congregation: Hugh A. Cooper, A. D. McCullough, N. M. Crowe, L. B. Lewellyn, H. G. Gaunt, W. W. McEwan, John M. Diehl, and the present pastor, Ferederic A. Dean, who was installed Oct. 6, 1921.

The house is located in Virginia avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, East End. The congregation worshiped in a frame building situated on the site of the present one until 1908, when a modern and commodious edifice of pressed brick was erected. The building is well equipped with class, primary and social rooms in the basement. The auditorium with the Sunday school annex will seat 600 or 700 people. In 1921 there was erected on a lot, west of the church, a brick manse. The congregation also owns the two vacant lots adjoining the church on the east.

The present officers are: Session: I. S. Beadmore; clerk, W. A. Horger; C. A. Goodballet, John W. Johnson, C. M. McCoy, John M. Smith, James C. McGraw, J. J. Persohn, H. D. Brookman; trustees, C. A. Goodballet, chairman, J. W. Johnson, George F. Mulligan, J. J. Persohn, Jas. C. McGrew, Geo. P. Persohn, Phil Thompson, Marion M. Horger, A. C. Calhoun. Deacons: William Hill, Roy Manypenny, Lundy Price. Jesse C. Terrence is financial secretary and treasurer, while A. C. Calhoun is congregational secretary.

The church, its previous pastors and the present one, with the session and people, "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." In this day of terrific assault upon all of the historic doctrines of Christianity, and when we are witnessing the tragic loss of faith on every hand, this church stands firm and fearless for the "Word of God, the whole Word of God, and nothing but the Word of God," Dr. Dean, the present pastor points out.

First Church of Christ

well the foundation of a permanent work that was destined to have a vital part in the future religious and moral life of this community. In January, 1897, the house of worship was burned down. A grave problem presented itself as to a future site for a church building. It was decided to purchase the lot now occupied by the Broadway filling station of the Standard Oil company.

The church owes much to George Welsh, who recently died, and who paid the first $10 payment on that lot. It was purchased for $10,000. Other men whose judgment in this transaction was worth while were C. C. Thompson, R. J. Meakin and John Scott.

In a building on this lot the congregation worshipped here for about 15 years. A parsonage was built upon the site of the former church building which is used as such to this day.

Walter Mansell followed O. S. Reed as pastor, then came J. W. Gorrell, who remained with the church a little more than four years. Supply ministers were secured following the pastorate of Mr. Gorrell. C. N. Filson, now of Cleveland, supplied for three months and under his active leadership the debt on the parsonage was paid.

Rev. E. P. Wise was called to the pulpit January 1, 1906. Under his efficient leadership, wise planning and persistent labors the new house of worship was erected and dedicated. Rev. Wise was here for nearly 10 years. He was a preacher of rare ability.

Following the ministry of Rev. E. P. Wise came John Mullen. Mr. Mullen was a preacher of high merit and conviction. Much of the church debt was liquidated and the church organganized for advanced missionary activity.

Rev. B. R. Johnson was called in November, 1919, to the church as pastor. Under his ministry the entire debt has been paid, the membership increased until it is now one of the largest in the county. The Bible school averages about 500 the year round. The school is one of the best organized in the state. The missionary giving of the church approximates $4,000 a year and the congregation faces a bright and hopeful future.

The complete edition of the Bible printed in Braille type fills thirty-eight volumes and weighs 175 pounds.

Special Sermon Will Be Given by Pastor Of Christian Church

"Is Protestantism Making Good" will be the subject of a sermon tomorrow evening at the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett. The sermon will be based on the following questionnaire:

Are you a consistent Church member?

Why did you ever join the church of which you are a member?

In your opinion is the church rendering a real service in Lisbon?

Do you believe in a future life? If so give reasons.

Do you believe in future punishment for the wicked? Or is your belief in a second chance? Or in purgatory?

Do you believe in Christian Union? Are there too many Protestant churches?

Are Protestants as consistently loyal as Catholics?

Do Protestants put their church first, or do their clubs, lodges and pleasures come first?

Wherein is Catholicism superior to Protestantism?

Wherein is Protestantism superior to Catholicism?

Should the Protestants have "the confessional?"

Can Protestants do anything to strengthen the home and marriage vows?

Should our children be taught morals and religion in the public school?

Jim Thorpe's Indian Five To Clash With Elks Tonight

Game is Final Appearance of Ex-Haskell Stars on Court This Year; Hang up Record of 48 Wins Out of 56 Games in Season's Tour.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by officials of the Elks basketball club for the appearance here tonight of the World Famous Indians, featuring Jim Thorpe, probably the greatest all around athlete in history. The Indians will clash with the Elks on the high school court, the game beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Indians are making a tour of the country, meeting only the fastest teams in the various cities they visit.

On the present tour they have met Davis and Elkins college, Salem college, West Virg'nia Business college at Clarksburg, Waynesburg college and other collegiate aggregations known in this district.

The redskins do not play the usual brand of ball exhibited by so-called professional teams traveling about the country but adhere to the college style of play, which most of them learned while attending Haskell college, at Lawrence, Kan. It is a much faster game, but the Indians, noted for their speed, take to it like ducks to water.

Tribes represented by the players on the team include the Sac and Fox, Cheyenne, Arrapho, Delaware, Caddo and Cherokee.

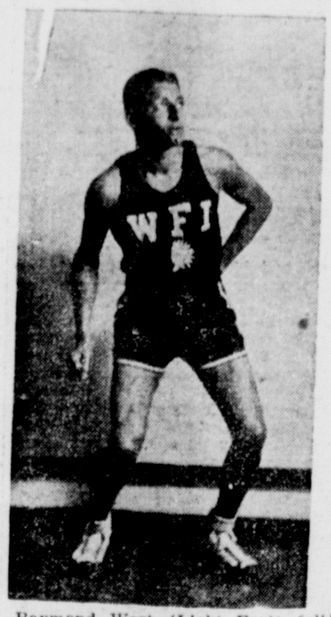
On this season's trip they have won 48 games and lost eight, hanging up a consecutive winning streak of 16. They have toured five states including Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The Elks, according to Coach Powell, will have their complete lineup in action against the visitors tonight.

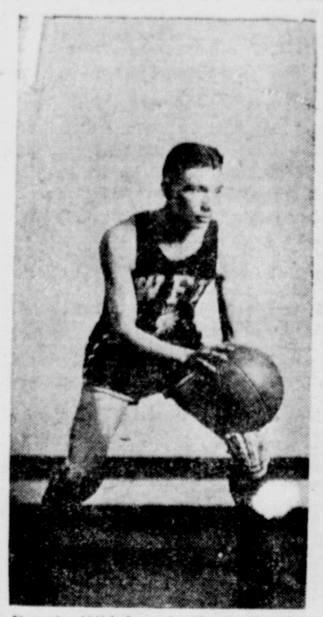
The Peacocks and the R. G. Brian Clothiers will battle in the preliminary, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three Stars With Indian Quint Tonight

Jim Thorpe (Bright Path) is probably the world's greatest all around athlete and the leader of the World Famous Indians who will try to scalp the Elks tonight at the high school auditorium.



Raymond West (Light Foot) full blooded Cheyenne from Oklahoma, and captain of the Haskell college team last year. And listen, girls, West is the living image of the late Valentino. He's called the Indian Sheik.



Dennis Hildebrand (Eagle Feather) is a member of the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina. He captained the Haskenn University basketball teams during the season of 1925-26.

Uzcudun Given Edge Over New Zealander

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—If the various state boxing commissions will be so good as to send the referee in there with a white apron and a slightly insane countenance, it may be that I would be able to name a man who might go far in the heavyweight division. If they insisted that the lower rope be a brass rail, the ring floor a carpet of sawdust, with a stray cuspidor here and there to fall over or into, and a frosted mirror at one end, depicting a lady whose privacy has been ignored, I might go so far as to name a man who could be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The probable winner, under these favorable auspices is almost a stand out, in fact. He is Paolina Uzcudun, the well known human being, who won from Tom Heeney of New Zealand, in bar room rounds at Madison Square Garden last night.

As a source of entertainment, Paolino proved a pleasant surprise, for he is as aggressive as a soap salesman, and can soak them up like a bath towel. Unfortunately, it is getting so that they won't let you do anything in bar rooms nowadays except drink: so Paolino seems to be committed to the ring. Once in there, he is a sap for every punch in the show case and it is a debatable point whether or not he can't be hit with the back of your knee. That, in fact, is the only one Heeney didn't try last night.

My Meet Dempsey.

They are talking about tossing this smirking, cheerful soul in with Dempsey and I guess that will be all for the best. Jack is supposed to need encouragement and maybe Paolino needs the money, so why am I to knock down the doll-house in cold blood? But, strictly in a spirit of helpfulness, I will make one suggestion. He may meet clever light heavyweights like Delaney, McTigue and Tommy Loughran on the street some day, but let the matter go no further.

Some of the addicts, as a matter of fact, were quite incensed over the decision last night and left the premises in high dudgeon, which differs from a low dudgeon in only a few unimportant details. Both are things that you leave in when irritated.

However, the writer noted that quite a few scores credited Heeney with the first round, although Paolino ended it with a clean knockdown. Up to that point Heeney had done most of the hitting but it was just singles and doubles and, as far as I am concerned, it takes a home-run to clean the bases. Anyhow, I gave Paolino that round and also the fourth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

Heney, in brief, was well out in front up to the sixth round, but he caved under the body beatings and roughing and Paolino, strong and ever aggressive, came on to win in the late rounds.

Heeney is Floored.

It was quite a fight, once you forgot to remember that quite a few American heavyweights can beat either or both and probably will. Heeney started off with a rush and, slipping the other's wild left hooks, countered with heavy reights to the jaw. He accepted one on the goatee with only three seconds of the round left, however, staggered back, thought better of it and then decided he had been right in the first place.

In brief, the gentleman sat down after careful deliberation. He was up without a count, apparently unhurt, but the bell stopped them before the boys could get real intimate again. Heeney took the second and third rounds by steping inside that flailing left and countering with rights and Paolino's jaw, as all first class heavyweights can and will do. Near the end of the third, Heeney ripped a hard right to the body and brought it up to the jaw, but the basque laughed both off with evident sincerity.

Lafayettes Capture First Series Scrap

THE Elks last night dropped a tought decision to the Duquesne Lafayettes, 34 to 33, in a rapid fire clash at the high school.

It was the second straight game that the Antlers have lost in the last week or so by one point. And in one game before those two they lost by a two-point margin.

The defeat was hard to take as a result of the fact that the local passers led their Pittsburgh foes throughout the entire game on one occasion by almost a dozen points, only to finish behind by a single tally.

Minnick's field goal in the last minute of play spilled the game.

Tony Paulsey, Campbell star, worked at center for the Antlers in last night's melee and turned in a neat exhibition. In view of the fact that it was Tony's first game with the locals and that the team's mode of playing was more or less strange to him, his work as a whole was fine, and the same can be said for the rest of the club.

The Lafayettes have played together during the entire season, without a change, and the way they shot that ball around the court showed it.

Nate Lippe collected seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points and individual honors of the game. On the Elks' squad, Paulsey was next with three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Minnick broke loose in the second half, after being bottled up tightly in the opening periods and made five field goals. He was the reason the locals lost the decision. The rest of the Lafayette five collected just six field goals.

HORNSBY TO PLAY ASSERTS M'GRAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today reiterated his assertion that Rogers Hornsby will be in the New York lineup when the season opens even if he is unable to dispose of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. It is believed that Commissioner Landis will be asked to settle the matter.

MAY ARBITRATE IN STOCK DEAL

Heydler Suggests Plan to Settle Hornsby Problem.

NEW YORK, April 2.—President John Heydler of the National League has suggested that the disposal of the stock owned by Rogers Hornsby in the St. Louis Cardinals be effected by arbitration. Following the assertion of Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he would take the matter to court in case Hornsby could not dispose of the stock and Heydler attempted to prevent him from playing with the New York team, Heydler said that a compromise between Hornsby and Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, is necessary "for the good of baseball."

In his statement Heydler declared that "there is little or no chance of Honrsby getting $105 a share for his stock." Breadon has offered Hornsby $60 a share for the stock.

REACH FINALS IN CAGE MEET

Huron, S. D., Quint Appears to Have Edge on Foes.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Teams representing Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi and South Dakota will clash today in the semi-finals of the national interscholastic basketball tournament under way at the University of Chicago.

South Dakota, represented by a team from Huron, appears to have an edge on the other states in the struggle for the national championship. The Huron huskies, who have beaten some of the strongest fives at the meet, clash with Batesville, Ark., in the first semi-final this afternoon.

In the second half of the semi-wind-up, Morton high of Cicero, Ill., will meet Florence, Miss.

The winners of these two affairs will fight it out tonight for the national title. The losers in the semi-final matches will play for third place.

Huron blasted its way to the semi-windup by swamping Pocatelli, Idaho, 33 to 16. Batesville went under the wire by trouncing Grand Forks, N. D., 31 to 21.

Morton high, of Cicero, qualified by the narrow margin of one point over the popular Vienna, Ga., quintet. The score was 27 to 26. Florence Miss surprised by eliminating Norfolk, Va., the last of the easterners, 18 to 14. "Florence, Miss.," may sound effeminate, but the Virginians are convinced there is nothing in a name.

Morton is favored to win over Florence, however, and if Huron defeats Batesville, Illinois and South Dakota will battle for the title. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals tonight.

Oasis Is Made to Order In Filming "Beau Geste"

Many Difficulties Beset Vast Crew of Builders in Erecting Fort for French Legion Picture.

Many were the difficulties that beset the vast crew of carpenters, masons and other artisans when they journeyed into the Arizona desert, six weeks in advance of Director Herbert Brenon and his cast of actors, to erect the fort and background for the filming of "Beau Geste," Major P. C. Wren's famous romantic-action tale of the French Foreign Legion, coming to the Ceramic theatre on April 7 for a three-day run.

The script called for a fort. This they found no different than any other assignment requiring hard work and a cast supply of material, but it a'so called for a typical desert oasis with the usual water hole. They found no such thing as this on the Arizona desert but there are few mere resourceful individuals than the boss location men of the movie makers and they immediately went about making an oasis of their own.

A hole of considerable proportions was dug in the sand, lined with tin and filled with water. Plam trees of the smaller variety are a part of the every day scenic equipment to be found in Hollywood studios but to make a realistic oasis, Director Brenon directed his men to secure the real articles. Making these trees stand upright in the shifting desert sands proved one of the most difficult tasks of preparing the location. It was finally found necessary to build extensions of heavy logs onto the roots of the trees and sink them into cement bases, fifteen feet under the ground. The result, a perfect oasis, in appearance, justified the trouble and expense.

Supreme Court Again Suspends Appellate Ruling.

WRIT IS SOUGHT

Slayer's Attorney Seeks Order for Conference.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—The conference of E. L. Mills, Canton attorney, with his client, Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, was again postponed today, as a result of the decision of the Ohio supreme court late yesterday afternoon.

Mills is seeking a court order directing Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio state penitentiary, where McDermott is serving a life sentence, to permit the lawyer to confer with McDermott, who has an appeal pending, in private at the prison. Warden Thomas has refused on the ground that after a prisoner is convicted and sent to his institution the matter of conferences with attorneys or other persons is wholly within the jurisdiction of the warden.

The court of appeals here agreed with Mills' contention, and ordered the warden to permit the private conference between Mills and McDermott, but under agreement of counsel, serving of the order was delayed until yesterday, pending a motion for an appeal to the supreme court. The latter tribunal, after hearing arguments yesterday, decided to hear an application for a writ of error, and issued an order temporarily suspending the service of the court of appeals' order on Warden Thomas, pending a final decision.

DOPLER GIVEN COURT VERDICTS

J. A. Dopler has been given a judgment in common pleas against Mrs. B. R. Larkins and others for $114.50. The amount and priority of leins are to be determined by a future order of the court. The court found that by a former decree there was an amount owing the plaintiff by the defendant.

Judgment described in the petition in the case of Dopler against B. A. Schmupp and others has been found by the court to be a lein on the real estate of the defendants described in the original petition. An order of sale has been issued in both cases.

There IS a Difference In GASOLINE

One woman will bake a loaf of bread that is better than the bread baked by other women. One refiner will make a gasoline that is better. Here's why—

Refining gasoline from crude oil is like skimming cream from milk. Skim the top from the milk and you have pure cream. Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk—below this, milk only.

In refining gasoline from crude oil we "skim" the top by distillation process. That's Super-Flash Gasoline.

If we "dipped" farther, like one would dip farther in the milk bottle, we would get gasoline and coal oil.

"Super-Flash" is truly the "cream grade." It starts easily and its force is smooth and elastic.

No knock, less carbon, smoother running, greater power. There is a difference.

TRAIN KILLS TWO WORKMEN

Good News of Henry Ford.
Two Chinese Bosses.
Useful Lady Astor.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

REASSURING news concerning Henry Ford was received direct from his family yesterday, yesterday afternoon. There is said to be no doubt as to his ultimate recovery, although his injuries are serious.

THERE is no further confirmation of the supposition, widely circulated, that Mr. Ford's car was deliberately crowded from the road and down a steep embankment by occupants of another, bigger car seeking to injure Mr. Ford. Further information as to that may come from Mr. Ford upon his complete recovery.

THOSE familiar with the scene of the accident, right off the highway from Detroit to Chicago, feel that Mr. Ford's escape was almost miraculous. A man in less perfect physical condition could not have escaped alive, at Mr. Ford's age.

THE two big men in the Chinese revolution already disagree. One will not go where the other is, thinking it might not be safe. Two governments may be set up in China, dividing the territory between them. That will mean more fighting, each great ruler will want to be the only one. This country, if wise, will get out of China, taking out missionaries and fighting men, and watch the Chinese work out their own salvation, or the reverse. What they decide to do is not our business.

BRITAIN may thank this country for producing and sending to London Lady Astor from Virginia, to say nothing of the great Astor fortune. First Lady Astor showed British women the way to parliament. Now she helps to defeat an effort to legalize British race track gambling. She knows that betting on races enriches in Britain, as it does here, an utterly worthless tribe of race track touts, gamblers and horse owners, whose "sport" makes thieves of other men's employes.

AN AUSTRALIAN wants to locate the ideal "Venus" and requests information. He has measured thousands of female beauties and finds the average waist 27 inches. That Australian can find his perfect Venus in a handsome room, all by herself, in the Louvre, in Paris. The Venus de Milo is the perfect woman. The perfect female figure is the one best fitted for motherhood, not for walking the tight rope or turning somersaults.

MISS PANKHURST has lost interest in votes for women, "Because vot-

ONE MAN JUMPS AS FLYER HITS HAND CAR NEAR NEW WATERFORD

Accident Occurs at Sharp Curve on Ft. Wayne Road.

BODIES CRUSHED

One Victim Leaves Widow and Five Children.

Two men were killed, while a third escaped by jumping when an eastbound Fort Wayne division flyer crashed into a hand car, carrying workmen to East Palestine, about one-fourth of a mile east of New Waterford, at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

JOSEPH MURPHY, 45, New Waterford.

ALBERT SEIDEL, 23, New Waterford.

Failed to Notice Train.

William Bevington, 25, also of New Waterford, escaped injury.

The train, said to have been 40 minutes late, was speeding. The three men on the hand car were traveling eastward, and with the exception of Bevington, failed to notice the approaching flyer.

Murphy and Seidel, who were hurled clear of the tracks, died from broken necks and internal injuries. Almost every bone in Murphy's body is said to have been broken.

Second Fatal Accident.

Bodies of the victims were removed to the Warrick morgue, Columbiana, where Coroner J. M. Van Fossan was to conduct an inquest this afternoon.

Murphy leaves a widow and five children. Seidel is unmarried. Bevington is the son of the section foreman.

The accident occurred at a sharp curve in the railroad near wher four men lost their lives in a similar accident about five years ago.

Campbell was arrested in Mulberry street by Captain of Police Conley last night after he is alleged to have sidewiped another car owned by a man by the name of Davis. He agreed to pay for the damages.

A charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor which was also filed against him was dismissed.

W. D. Crawford, Maplewood, arrested Wednesday charged with threatening his wife, was dismissed by Judge Hanley. Everett Cunningham, his stepson, who was charged with assault and battery upon information preferred by Crawford, was fined $10 which was suspended.

Action Taken Upon Prosecutor Brookes' Application.

Bond for the release of Mrs. Marie Chorgas, 28, wife of a Mineapolis confectioner, charged with murder in the death of Pasquale (Patsy) Anania, 25, Wellsville, in a Walnut street apartment on March 22, was increased to $20,000 yesterday afternoon.

Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, acting upon Prosecutor Robert M. Brookes' application, fixed $10,000 as the amount required for the woman's appearance as a witness against Salvatore Rini, 27, of East Liverpool, who is also held on a murder charge.

On Thursday, Probate Judge Lodge Riddle set $10,000 bond on the murder charge.

C. & P. SCHEDULE GETS APPROVAL

Changes in the schedule of passenger trains over the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division, which will go into effect Sunday, April 24, when daylight savings time is adopted in Pittsburgh, will not interfere with the mail service in East Liverpool, J. C. Mansfield, Pittsburgh, chief clerk of the railroad mail service, informed the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a conference here yesterday.

The conference was also attended by Postmaster Edwin McClure, Earl Munson, Cleveland, supervising agent for the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division passenger agent, and was arvision passenger agent. It was arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

AUTO IS STOLEN FOR THIRD TIME

For the third time within a year 1924 model Chevrolet touring car belonging to Adrian Azdell, Maplewood, was stolen again last night. The machine, according to Azdell, was taken from its parking place near the Ogilvie store, Fifth street, between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock. The car carried license plates No. 386-989.

John Carnahan, East End druggist, reported the theft of his spare wheel and tire from his car.

15,000 BRITISH TROOPS ON JOB

Eugene Chen Accuses Reactionaries and Ruffians of Responsibility for Outrages Against Foreigners.

LONDON, April 2.—Great Britain has decided to send additional troops to China, it was learned today.

The cabinet has reached a decision to reinforce the Shanghai defense forces, which already number more than 15,000 men.

The reinforcements will consist of some 5,000 additional troops, include a brigade of infantry, artillery units and a guards battalion.

The admiralty was advised that the nationalists have mounted 10-inch guns on Lion hill near Nanking.

Squabble Over Policy.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The U. S. gunboat Asheville has been sent from Shanghai to Tsien-Tsin, in the Pekin area, for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the Asiatic squadron, advised the navy today. Minister MacMurray, at Pekin, requested the vessel.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The British and American governments are distinctly at loggerheads today over the question of a joint policy in dealing with the critical Chinese situation.

Officials of both governments may endeavor to minimize the differences, but the divergence of views between Washington and London are well known in diplomatic quarters—and quite possibly to the Cantonese nationalists as well.

American opposition to any theatrical fist brandishing in China has already resulted in the British note to the Cantonese being toned down considerably, probably to the point where the American government can support it. A copy of it is now enroute to Washington. It differs materially from that originally drafted by the British cabinet, according to London advices.

Common Front Urged.

The differences between Downing street and Pennsylvania avenue might be described as the difference between firmness and belligerency. Great Britain, with a much greater stake in China, as well as in nearby India, is for an ultimatum to the Cantonese, based on the Nanking outrages, and backed up by the threat

Body of Victim is Buried Here Today.

Theodore Boley, 27, formerly of East Liverpool, self confessed wife slayer, today faces a first degree murder charge at Steubenville.

Following the finding of Boley's victim, former East Liverpool girl, at Glen Robin, Jefferson county, Thursday morning, Meade McLister, secret operative working out of the office of Prosecuting Attorney R. N. Merryman, of Steubenville filed the count.

Boley, a prisoner in the Jefferson county jail, admitted, police said, that he choked his wife to death.

Prosecutor Merryman announced that no efforts would be made toward a lunacy examination.

Merryman asserted that as far as he could ascertain at the present time there would be no need of such an inquiry.

If Boley does not ask a hearing, it is possible his case will go before the Jefferson county grand jury on Monday morning.

Funeral services for Mrs. Boley, the victim, were held this afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Beaver, Dixonville. Burial was made in Riverview cemetery.

Attorney S. W. Crawford, counsel for Mrs. Chorgas, went to Lisbon today after being advised her bond has been increased.

Purpose of the additional bond, it is claimed is to question Mrs. Chorgas when the grand jury meets at Lisbon on Monday, April 11.

No steps to obtain the release of Mrs. Chorgas had been taken up to noon today. Her attorney was awaiting the arrival of James Chorgas, husband of the prisoner.

POLICEMAN WILL CHECK LICENSE NUMBERS OF CARS IN CHARGE OF CAREFUL DRIVERS NEXT WEEK

In a movement to decrease automobile accidents, the Review-Tribune, co-operating with the Columbiana County Motor club, police department and Ceramic theatre, on Monday will launch a week's Safe Driving compaign.

Ten pairs of Ceramic theatre tickets will be distributed each day to automobile owners whose license numbers are checked by a police officer. The license numbers will be published each day and tickets will be distributed from Motor Club headquarters in the Marfourth building.

Points at which the check will be made will vary from day to day in order that the survey may be as comprehensive as possible. Drivers will not be forewarned. As a result, motorists, anxious to appear on the honor roll with consequent rewards of free theatre tickets, will drive carefully at all times, which is the object of the campaign.

The mayor, safety director and police department will co-operate in the campaign to encourage automobile drivers to be careful, observing traffic light signals, parking regulations, speed limits and other traffic laws.

Car numbers will be noted by patrolmen not only in the business district but also in the residential sections. First list of license numbers will be published Tuesday evening. Names of the honor roll drivers will also be published each day, starting Wednesday, after the theatre tickets have been claimed.

Automobile owners watch for the numbers to appear daily. If yours appears go to the motor club headquarters in the Marfourth building for the theatre tickets. The license certificate or other conclusive proof as to the identity of the driver must be furnished when the tickets are claimed. Tickets will be good for any photoplay except an extraordinary attraction.

Drive carefully and watch for your number in the Review-Tribune!

Super Six Principle Placing Hudson Among Front Rank Cars

Lisbon Hill and St. Clair Avenue are Taken in High; Big Car Easily Attains Speed Mark of 75 Miles an Hour Here.

Imagine a speed almost like that of the wind, unfettered, sweeping, magnificent; a tremendous power, never, apparently, fully unleashed, that would level ordinary hills as if by the wave of a magic wand; and in the "pinches," the stubborn, "hanging on" grip of an infuriated bulldog; the agility of a mountain lion; and with it all—quietness, ease and a performance with the smooth, velvety touch of the first warm zephyr of spring.

That is the Hudson—the new Hudson—with the famous super six principle released to the limit.

East Liverpool's two noted hills, testing grounds for any and all makes of automobiles, St. Clair avenue from the Horn switch at the bottom to a point at the top a short distance south of the cemetery, and Lisbon Hill crumbled away as sand hills might beneath the foot of a giant as the Hudson super six was turned loose on them yesterday afternoon.

Ray T. Birch, East Liverpool's Hudson-Essex dealer, who next week will stage a "show me" week for those with Missourian instincts, through the medium of a Hudson demonstration campaign, knew undoubtedly what he was talking about when he waxed enthusiastic over the achievement of the new Hudson, but we had never ridden in the new car, and were inclined to adopt the grain of salt theory.

After a couple of hours of amazement behind the Hudson's long, rakish hood, we knew what Birch and the Hudson Motor company meant by "the super six principle, released to the limit," although at no time during our automotive gyrations up and down the hills and over the highways of the city and contiguous territory was that big, black motor under the hood released to the limit.

At no time during the trip was the motor "favored." It had to come clean, or admit failure and the latter certainly was never the case.

Starting up St. Clair avenue, the first big hurdle, we were forced to throttle down to between 8 and 10 miles an our as a result of a slight traffic congestion at the traffic light in the Broadway-St. Clair avenue intersection. Ordinarily it might have been good policy to back up and try it again, but our demonstrator thought nothing of the situation and tramped on the accelerator.

And there was no jerk—but down there somewhere under the foot-board could be faintly heard a low, angry rumble, and with a movement as inexorable as fate itself, the big car began to gather up speed—actually increased speed. It swept up around the sharp corner at the Gaston place, with no slackening of speed. It was making close to 38 in the stretch directly beyond and then it hit the "pinch." We held our breath as the big machine's gait slackened just a little. But that was all. It took hold of the job without complaint and walked up over the crest. It was picking up again as we reached Young's alley and then went into "the rough" as the golfer might say, but the change had little or no effect on the momentum despite the absence of smooth, steady traction. On up to the Northside fire station and then we took the hump past Skinnell's store like an Olympic hurdle champion. At the extreme top the speedometer showed 45 and the driver was not applying the whip.

Later, in secluded thoroughfares, out of the way of traffic, we rode at a gait of 75 miles an hour, lack of sufficient uninterrupted straightaway preventing us from pushing the indicator hand over any further.

And probably the most noticeable thing was the absence of strain on the driver's hands and wrists. Apparently it was all taken out in the ball bearing steering gear beneath. No leaping of the car, nor sidesways. A steady flow of power impulse, always.

Performance was just as perfect at four or five miles an hour as it was at 75. Throttled down, the big motor spun as smoothing as an electric motor. No jump, no push and pull, no vibration, as a result of perfect carburization and—the counterbalanced crankshaft, counterbalanced clutch, gearset, driving universals and driving shaft of the Hudson which carried the super-six principal throught the differential.

Actual performance on the road shows that teh new Hudson can do

5 to 25 miles hour in 7 seconds.
5 to 35 miles in 10 seconds.
5 to 50 miles in 18 seconds.
5 to 75 miles and beyond almost before you can think about it.

Lisbon hill and its tortuous curves provided another test and despite lumbering trucks, teamsters and other impediments at various spots up the hill, Hudson went over the top with four passengers, averaging 165 pounds apiece. She finished at approximately 26 after we had come almost to a dead stop on the last turn going up We continued on in high, no gear change, and picked up before the crest.

To the motor enthusiast—Do you want bullet-like velocity, locomotive power, electric motor movement, pullman car comfort, and Rock of Gibralter dependability? They are all there, and more, says Ray Birch, in the Hudson super six.

The last stone was raised during the morning of July 23rd, 1842, in the presence of the officers of the Bunker Hill Monument association and a few other spectators. MIDGETS HEAD CERAMIC BILL

Famous Midgets Act Offered With "Children of Divorce."

Williams' Midgets, offering a high class novelty in song, dance and acrobatics, will appear in conjunction with the screen feature, "Children of Divorce," at the Ceramic theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the novelty act will be six famous midgets and two grown-ups. One of the midgets is considered one of the best Charleston dancers in the country. Another is an expert in hand balancing.

"Children of Divorce" brings Clara Bow and Esther Ralston together for the first time. These two stars, both comparative newcomers on the screen, have in the past few years proved their ability and talent in a number of productions. Miss Bow won fame in "Dancing Mothers" and "Mantrap" while Miss Ralston for her work in "The Blind Goddess" and "The Quarterback" attained equal acclaim.

Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are the three leading men who head the stars' supporting cast.

Owen Johnson's story is one of a certain ever-increasing group—those who sever the bands the church has welded to go their own separate ways, leaving their children to wander unaided through adolescence.

Brushing or sweeping have little effect on your rug. Only the surface dust is removed in this way. Dry Cleaning means thorough cleaning. Only through dry cleaning can "dead" fabric be given new life.

And what a joy it is to see the colors of your treasured rug come out with renewed brightness. Just like new is the way they look when we clean them.

Safe Driver Honor Roll

Who are East Liverpool's careful motorists?

Seeking the answer to the question, The Review-Tribune, with the co-operation of the Columbiana County Automobile Club, police department and Ceramic theatre management, will launch a one-week Safe Driving campaign on Monday.

Traffic policemen will check license numbers of motor car operators whose "good behavior" has been noted, and the numbers will be publish. Two tickets to the current attraction at the Ceramic theatre will be given each person whose license tags win a place on the honor roll.

Observations will be made at various street intersections. Traffic patrolmen will be urged to be especially alert at so-called dangerous crossings. Special attention will be given the "behavior" of drivers in the Diamond and on Broadway, Washington, Walnut, Market, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Eighth, Lisbon, Jefferson, Monroe and Mulberry streets, St. Clair, Dresden, Bradshaw and Pennsylvania avenues and River road.

The campaign not only will reveal the identity of the man who complies with traffic regulations, but will make known the names of violators of the law, for traffic officers will make arrests when circumstances warrant.

Let's co-operate next week in a drive to curtail the appalling automobile accident toll.

Little Boys Bigger

Doctors have been telling us for several years that the modern girl is taller and healthier than girls of 50 years ago. Physical examination records kept over a long period of years in colleges give particularly striking proof of this. It has generally been attributed to the fact that girls and women in recent years have entered more into sport and outdoor life than they did two or three generations ago.

Now the institute of juvenile research reports that school boys, too, are taller than the school boy 50 years ago. Several thousand school boys were examined. Their average height is found to be three and one-tenth inches ahead of the earlier average.

Since boys always have had considerable outdoor life, a different explanation is sought and readily found. Dr. Horace Gray of Chicago suggests that the extra height has resulted from increased knowledge of vitamins and general hygiene, and from medical progress in the control of infantile diseases that retard growth.

This explanation carries praise for the modern mother as well as the medical profession. Because of her interest in scientific care of her children, she takes pains to learn what is needed for their best development, and then she has the spunk to carry out the prescribed program of proper food, regular est and so on.

Paying For Past Vacations

It is reported that some of the touring agencies are offering European trips for next summer on the installment plan. The traveler pays half the cost of his trip at the start and the other half in ten monthly payments after his return.

It is possible that the agencies will make money on the system and that many of the installment plan tourists will eventually pay in full for their trips. But one wonders how the agencies will get back their tours in case of defaulted payments.

Paying for one's vacation after it is all over, however pleasant memories of it may be, certainly looks like the last word in installment folly. It would be much more practical to make these monthly payments into a Thrift Fund or a savings account for ten months in advance of the trip than to the agency for ten months after it's over.

The country has gone rather wild on this method of buying. If American prosperity, which has every reason to be enduring, is wrecked in the near future, immediate insstallment buying will have contributed a generous share to the catastrophe.

Less Broadcasting

The radio division of the American Engineering Council tells the Federal Radio Commission that more than half of the 733 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States should be eliminated by consolidation or banishment.

That sounds harsh, but is probably true. The democratic ideal of business freedom which encourages unlimited competition in other lines does not hold in the radio field. The "wave band" is limited. It does not do to assign too many stations to one wavelength, or to crowd the wave-lengths too closely together. After a certain point is reached in multiplication of broadcasting stations—and that point was passed long ago—the increase of stations actually decreases the effectiveness and value of broadcasting, to broadcasters and to the public.

There is no question that most of the 6,000,000 or more owners of radio sets would rather have a few good stations in operation than many poor ones.

Come to think of it, when our own North and South were engaged in a civil war, we weren't exactly eager to have outsiders around telling us what to do.

A BORN DIPLOMAT

Here a few months ago the story which I am now about to tell was freely circulated in certain circles where whimsical yarns are appreciated. So far as I know, though, it never found its way into the public prints. It is high time this error of omission was rectified.

In a Southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell-captain, who also was colored, for final examination before assigning him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must re respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate, "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace Hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up and knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. Eo I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an dere's a strange lady settin' in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, SUH!' and backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'suh' part—dat was tact!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Manhattan has a display window life which gives it an artificiality so pleasing to sneerers. It is not more indicative of the real New York than the drug store smart alecs along Main Street mirror the small town spirit.

As a matter of fact the temporary visitor heightens this artificiality. As a rule he flocks to the cafes, theaters and night clubs when the flash and tinsel stick out and rarely sees the dignity of the artistic and social side.

The world of Broadway is chiefly interested in high kicks, quick acting gin, flapper bobs and saxophone whines. That's the New York for out of town's consumption. There is not one visitor in a hundred who seeks a view of the other and finer side.

This is not criticism of the visitor. Only fact. A visit to New York is largely a pleasure spree—a chance to cut away from conventions, stay up all night, sleep half the day, see the girl and leg shows, watch the night club didoes and such.

The peace and beauties of Gotham are not on display. They are off beaten paths. Even mid-town architecture is more often than not hideous. There is no more beautiful spot than Riverside Drive at sunrise with the Hudson rippling at one's feet and the purpling Palisades in the background.

Nor Central Park when a gray dusk is sifting through spreading trees and wisteria bowers and the sun hangs a sullen red in the west. Or the view of the craft in the harbor. The ribbon like roads of Westchester. The breathless vista at Inspiration Point. And so on.

In contrast to Broadway and the few streets of the Roaring Forties, there are scores of peaceful streets where knitting ladies are at windows. There are cathedrals rivaling those of the old world and art treasures that are unrivaled.

A certain New Yorker gave his wife permission to purchase a traveling set for an European journey. When he received the bill he found it so expensive he had to give up the trip. Fifth Avenue displays them from $300 up to $3,500. Train porters refuse to carry them. They feel the risk is too great.

There is no legal redress for night club owners who are given bouncing checks in payment for illicit liquor. They must accept the loss. But they have inaugurated a scheme that may affect a cure. All checks returned "N. S. F." are put on display in a well lighted glass cabinet in the entrance hall.

Cholly Knickerbocker, whose spry ear is eternally cupped for Four Hundred gossip, declares New York hasn't a society leader and no one can be found for the job. We wonder if they have thought of the "Help Wanted" columns.

Abe Martin Says--

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Whippet Derby.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2. — In May, Washington is to be the scene of the first national whippet derby ever held in the United States. Whippet races have been held within the last few years in various sections of the country but this is the first time that there has been a national derby. It is to be held under the auspices of the Whippet Club of America and it is hoped by enthusiasts that it will be the forerunner of an annual event.

Whippets have been called the "poor man's racehorse" and have justified this name in England where whippet racing originated. In this country, however, this sport is largely in the hands of a few wealthy dog fanciers, although this breed is said to have been introduced into the United States by natives of Lancashire who brought their dogs with them when seeking their fortunes in a new country.

For many years whippet racing has been of vital interest and importance to the mill workers of Lancastershire, England. These people train their dogs and care for them all year that they may be entered in the big annual derby. Even thought the family may be obliged to go on short rations the dogs are given their required amount of food, and the best of quality.

The story is told that one of these mill works who owned a fine whippet had purchased meat for him. The dog ate only half and the rest was put away for the next meal. While the man was away at work the mother, torn by her children's hunger, gave them the rest of the meat. When the father returned from the mill and looked for the food for the dog, he viewed her act as almost sacrilege, asking her in awed tones if she had forgotten that the great day of the derby was very close. Of course this may be understood to a certain extent when it is realized that having a winning dog in the whippet derby is about the only way these people may hope to make any considerable sum of money.

The whippet is really a small variety of greyhound. In conformation it follows closely the lines of its larger brother and except for size the two can hardly be distinguished. Even in color it follows the various shades common to greyhounds—black, white, fawn, red, gray, and brindle, with combinations of such colors with white. The ideal height for males of the breed is 18 1-2 inches at the shoulder and for females 17 1-2 inches. The average and ideal weights for mature individuals are for males 21 pounds and for females 20 pounds.

Origin of Name.

The origin of the name "whippet" is from the Old English "wappet," meaning cur, and "whapping," meaning the yapping of a dog. This breed is said to have originated approximately a hundred years ago in the northern part of England. Rabbit baiting was a favorite sport at that time among the mill hands, colliers, and workmen of Yorkshire, Durham, Northumberland, and Lancastershire and to these men is largely due the developing of the whippet. When it later became unlawful to conduct rabbit-baiting races a straight course, such as is used today, was adopted. In developing the whippet, breeders sought to obtain extreme speed, endurance, and stamina.

George Jean Nathan, the dramatic critic, is said to have the finest collection of overcoats in town. In the assortment of some 50 in his wardrobe are all those from the fawn box-like shot coat with the expansive pearl buttons to one with an Alpine hood. Flo Ziegfeld is said to have 100 hats on hand at all times and Paul Whiteman has 38 different evening shirt sets. Valentino had some seventy cigarette cases. And I note in a man's style column that 24 pairs of shoes are about the right proportion for the perfect wardrobe of a human being not a centipede.

I seem to keep about six months behind or thereabouts with modern slang. An earnest young collegiate was explaining today about his disgust with a companion he called a cookie pusher.

"What is a cookie pusher?" I interrupted.

There was a withering look and "You know a couch spider—a parlor scorpion.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK ON "NARROWS" HIGHWAY

STATE BUREAU TO ACT WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Men on Job to Get Big Shovel in Readiness.

TO SPEED WORK

Dirt Will be Dumped in Yellow Creek District.

Work on the "Narrows" will be resumed in about two or three weeks, depending upon the weather, according to information received from the state highway department which now has two men at work getting the big shovel in readiness.

Present plans call for making the fill at the south approach to the new Pennsylvania overhead bridge with dirt taken from the right of way.

This will admit of hauling future refuse from the grading over the bridge for dumping in the Yellow Creek district and also reduce the haul which has been necessary by several miles.

When the new bridge has been reached it is planned to turn the shovel and cut another slice off the hill to widen the road back as far as the traction company crossing.

The state department hopes to hurry the effort right along so that this piece of road could be surfaced with slag the same as the road through Empire and up to the Pennsy crossing above the Stratton works.

No definite working plans have been made regarding the suggestion to cut an undergrade just above Yellow Creek and build the River road straight through into Wellsville as yet.

During the recent visit of Mr. Wilbur of the federal highway department he expressed himself as satisfied this was the ultimate road site and his opinion in the matter was echoed by state highway officials present. This will do away with two bad turns at present undergrades.

It is apparent that this plan will be adopted if the memorial to congress, passed under the direction of Senator Harry M. Carpenter at the request of Governor Donahey, makes funds available.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 2.—Price movements in the stock market today were practically unchanged from the last two or three sessions. The railroad, steel and high-priced industrials moved upward briskly in the first period under the impetus of an aggressive buying demand, while the whole of the oil group, with a few of the weak specialties, were battered into the lower price ranges under a heavy onslaught of speculative selling.

The week-end business reviews reported considerable unsettlement in important branches of domestic trade, with wholesale buying conservative and for immediate requirements.

The rise in railroad stocks carried a number of the well known issues from 1 to 2½ points above the previous close, but offerings of stocks at the higher prices were quite liberal, and moderate reactions took place. Erie sold in good volume at 50½, the highest price in twenty years, on reports that the management would expend a large sum of money on property improvements.

United States Steel repeated its almost daily performance of hanging up a new high record, the stock advancing fractionally to 170, where a good volume of business was transacted. The independent steel stocks were also firm and the motor shares made further improvement, under the lead of Studebaker and Packard.

Oil stocks were compelled to absorb another huge volume of speculative selling on rumors that further price cutting in mid-continent crude oil would be seen next week as the only effective check against excessive production of oil.

Professional selling of the bulk of industrial and specialty stocks was in comparatively large volume, with prices swaying backward and forward in a narrow radius. Coppers and sugars were inactive but steady and equipment stocks firm.

But women voting have made men in office ask themselves, "What do the women want? What do the children need?" That's the important thing about votes for women.

In old whisky days, as soon as women got the vote, district leaders in the great city sent out the order, "Don't get the boys drunk around election time, or their wives and daughters will vote against you.

AN INTERESTING revelation about tiger hunting by rajahs and other great dignitaries in India reads as follows:

"The rajahs like to be photographed with rows of tigers they have killed, but do not like to be scratched or bitten. The day before the kill, the haunts of tigers 'marked down' are baited with meat heavily drugged. The tigers eat and can barely drag themselves along, when the beaters drive them out to be shot. Thus the royal sportsman's heroism is made pleasantly safe."

IRREVERENT bolsheviki allege in large type that under the czars the masses were similarly drugged and made docile. In their case the drug was religion, which communism calls "the opium of the people." As a matter of fact, religion is the consolation of the people and their balance wheel. But you can hardly expect bolshevism to realize that.

Furnishing the Music At Virginia Garden's Beautiful Ball Room

HATTIE

By Samuel Merwin

SYNOPSIS:

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. She and the office boy have been seen holding hands—otherwise there has been no romance in her life. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director.

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. They arrive at Beverly.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Gran'ma sat outside in the automobile while Hattie and Alice and Emily, at three, presented themselves at the gate of the Earthwide Lot. A crabbed attendant kept them waiting. Then the young man named George appeared and guided them within Hattie reflected that he must have come West on another train. He semed out here in this ragged desert of little wooden buildings and hurried pre-occupied people like an old friend. But he took for granted their presence more than three thousand miles from home. Evidently all sorts of folks came and went and nobody mattered particularly.

The lot, within, did have a bit here and there of the magic of her day dreams. Fantastically gotten up personages stolled about. On a stand under a canopy a beautiful star was having her white shoes done by a humorous Italian boy. She thought with an inexplicably poignant rush of feeling of Willie Maazzini. She saw another Italian leading a big brown bear. As they walked past a huge building she saw through an open doorway a blaze of lights and built up scenery. Two real Chinese girls walked by, giggling, gay in their yellow and green coats and trousers. A bulldog trotted past with a trained squirrel seated on his back. An immensely tall Westerner in riding chaps and blue shirt, his face painted a horried lavender tint, paused almost at her elbow to light a cirgarette, and she noted the permanent wave in his glossy hair. She wondered if cowboys really had their hair done that way out on the range.

Their guide left Alice and Emily in a court-yard, led Hattie into a building and along a corridor, and opened a door. The door closed behind her. It was a huge room, dimly beautiful, with a great deal of dark-colored wood that was elaborately carved and a lovely colored light sifting in through and arms and pictures of beautiful women scribbled over with writing and each in a carved frame of that same dark wood. A voice called—"Just a minute, dear!"—and she saw the now familiar thick shoulders of Mr. de Brissac bent over a huge flat desk at the farther end of the room. A black whip with a long braided lash hung on the wall over the desk. She turned for the man named George, but found that he hadn't come in with her. She looked again at the pictures; moved nearer a side wall, and discovered that each of these beautiful girls was a famous star. And the scribblings were all of an intimate nature—"To dear Armand"—that sort of thing. There was another huge picture that covered a round table and was itself covered by a disk of heavy glass—the head of a delicately pretty young girl, with no sign of clothing about her rounded shoulders, and, perhaps significantly, with no inscription. She had not before thought of him in connection with woman. The discovery came upon her with considerable force. The feeling returned of an unstable world slipping under her feet. She seemed a helpless drifting bit of life, without purpose or sense of direction, a nothing moving on toward somewhere.

She moved over beneath one of the richly stained windows and stood limply there. This great man who knew so much and whose tremendous personal power was felt the world around was all she had now to tie to. They, the whole family, had cut off everything else. She felt afraid. It was going to be very hard to keep from crying. She heard him push back his chair and walk briskly toward her, but couldn't turn. She was trembling. She felt his firm hands on her shoulders as he turned her, not unkindly. She found herself held tightly in his arms. He was kissing her. It seemed in a way that she ought to resist. Then it seemed that perhaps it would be all right if she compromised by not returning his kisses; as she had with Willie Mazzini. But Willie must never know about this. It occurred to her too that this wonderful man knew everything about girls and women, knew how to make them want to kiss him. She found herself now, for the first time in her life, giving a man something, a very little of herself. It was both wonderful and terrifying. Her face burned hotly. Then the tears came, and as he released her, she dropped, sobbing, into one of those magnificent chairs and dropped her head on her arm.

She heard him saying—"Why you poor little thing, you're all unstrung!" He held her head up and made her sip a little of a fluid that burned her throat so that she gagged and coughed. He was kind now. After a little she stopped crying, and rose. He took her shoulders again and held her off at arms length, studying her face.

"My dear little girl," she said now, with a gentleness of manner that faintly reassured her, "I never meant to upset you like that. You musn't misunderstand. I told you that I mean to star you, fire you, give you both the training and the experience that will make a great artist of you. Don't you understand, child, that I'm planning deliberately to devote my genius to making you famous and rich? It's not a case for crying. I intend that you shall be happy. As a mater of fact, you're not going to see such a lot of me. Within a day or so I shall be plunging into the job of making the biggest picture of my career. You are to help me in that job. I warn you I shall often be brusque. I have to give myself to my work day and night. It's a terrific drive."

It seemed wonderful that he, de Brissac, should be so patiently explaining himself to her.

He went on—"I'm not going to stir you up like that—not very often—because it is my plan to use that delicately virginal face of yours all through this the first of the pictures we are to make together. Do you know why I have taken you up like this? Picked you out of a million girls? Because you have just that delicate quality. Because you're not hard-boiled. Later, as I told you, I shall develop your emotions, bring you out, make a dramatic actress of you. All that in its own good time. Not now. You have great emotional possibilities. The test showed that. But you must understand this one thing—your emotions are mine, mine alone. You are not to let any other man play with them. I mean to build you, little by little. I tell you I'm going to make you."

She said, in her weak whisper—

"Yes, sir."

"You don't have to 'sir' me, dear. Call me Mr. de Brissac in public. When we're alone call me anything you like. Call me Armand."

But she knew she couldn't do that.

Her eyes, with the first sense of furtiveness they had ever known, roved uncertainly from one to another of his pictures.

"How do I know—" She couldn't get the words out.

"Yes? What's that?"

"How do I know you're—not—married?"

PHYSICIANS REPORT HENRY FORD OUT OF DANGER

ARMED GUARDS SURROUND HIS DEARBORN HOME

America's Billionaire Convalescing After Auto Crash.

PLOT IS DENIED

By William K. Hutchinson.

DETROIT, April 2.—The identity of the two men whose car crashed into the small coupe driven by Henry Ford Sunday night is known to the Ford secret police but the occupants of the car will not be prosecuted, it was indicated today by Prosecutor Robert M. Toms.

DETROIT, April 2.—Tightly strapped in splints, Henry Ford lay helpless today in an old-fashioned bed at his Dearborn palace, taking the complete rest necessary for his recovery from injuries received in a motor crash last Sunday night. A cordon of armed guards surrounded the estate.

America's first billionaire was convalescing and his physicians finally reported him out of danger. Great care however, is being exercised to prevent the development of complications.

Officials of the Ford Motor company meanwhile put the quietus on reports that the accident to the motor king was the result of an attempt to assassinate him. They acted at Ford's own direction, the motor king deciding that urgent steps must be taken to end the unexpected publicity that surrounded the crash.

Needs Only Rest.

The million dollar libed suit, which Aaron Sapiro, so-called wheat king, brought against Ford, today stood in adjournment until Monday. The motor king will appear as a witness in the trial but not until he has completely recovered. In the meantime, other witnesses will be called and, on Monday, Sapiro will resume the stand to undergo further cross-examination by Senator A. Reed, chief of Ford's counsel.

Ford probably will be able to leave his Dearborn home within two weeks unless unexpected complications develop. He needs only rest and the aid of nature to recover, according to his physicians.

An announcement, issued on behalf of the doctors by one of the Ford officials, follows:

"Mr. Ford's recovery is so assured that we will issue no more medical bulletins. Mr. Ford is convalescing in a perfectly normal manner, although he still suffers some pain from a sprained back and must lie perfectly still in splints and tape. All Mr. Ford must do to get well is to lie flat on his back and let nature take its course."

Mrs. Ford Reads to Him.

Ford, however, was reported to be very impatient and eager to get out into the open air and back to his desk. With the motor king one of the most restless men in the world, the big problem facing his family and physicians was to keep him quiet. Mrs. Ford spent most of yesterday at his bedside, it was learned, reading to him and the auto king evidenced much interest in the newspaper accounts of his accident.

It was these newspaper accounts incidentally which caused Ford to order the "soft pedal" put upon the reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate him. As a matter of fact, Ford himself originated the reports, according to authentic information. The motor king told his intimate friends that he believed it was a deliberate attempt to murder him when a "hit and run" driver, in a big Studebaker, side-swiped the coupe in which he was driving and knocked him across a sidewalk near his Dearborn estate and down a 15-foot embankment. Ford was particularly convinced of the ulterior motive of the driver by what he believed was an earlier attempt to crash into him just as he was about to cross a bridge over the Rouge river. The actual crash came a few seconds later after he crossed this bridge.

Seek Studebaker Driver.

Ford, who is one of the most experienced motorists in the country and who raced cars with Barney Oldfield years ago, gave orders at once to locate this Studebaker but anticipated no publicity on the subject. He was amazed later to learn that the whole matter had become public property and gave orders that the subject be dropped so far as the public was concerned.

The investigation, started by his secret agents, is continuing however, even though official statements have been issued to the contrary. In fact the Detroit police sent one officer at least to aid in the investigation.

The purpose of the Ford agents was to locate the suspected murder car to satisfy their own curiosity as to who drove into the auto king.

Secret Agents On Job.

A dozen of his secret agents, led by Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford investigators, spent yesterday in the federal building viewing every visitor to the libel suit trial. This action was taken as a precaution so that they will know the regular visitors when Ford goes to appear on the witness stand. Such precautions have not been taken previously within the memory of the oldest attache in the federal building.

A cordon of armed guards was thrown around Ford's Dearborn estate. This was done because Ford has a conviction that publicity on one attempt to assassinate him will provoke others. This was his chief reason for deprecating reports that last Sunday's crash was a designed attempt to attack him. He was so annoyed by the publicity given him this week that investigations have been ordered to learn who has been responsible for the news leaking to the public.

Cambridge Wins Its Annual Boat Race From Oxford Crew

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge today won its thirty-eighth annual boat race from Oxford.

Although Oxford took an early lead and was half a length in the van at the two-mile mark the Cambridge oarsmen bent to their task in the last two miles of the race and began pulling up as the boats reached Chiswick and then showed greater strength as they passed Duke's Meadow.

When the boats crossed the finish line at Mortlake the Cambridge crew was two lengths ahead.

VAN SWERINGENS LOSE ONE ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Van Swearingen interests today lost the first round of a fight with minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, who are opposed to the proposed billion dollar railroad merger.

Kemp of Richmond, Va., to intervene in the C. & O.'s application to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette lines by purchase of their capital stock.

TOLEDO YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD

Police Believe Boy Was Strangled to Death.

TOLEDO, April 2.—While funeral services for Robert E. Wilson, 17, are being held here today, police continued attempts to ascertain how the youth came to his death. Authorities are inclined to the belief that the boy was strangled to death, his throat cut by some sharp instrument and the body then carried to the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad track where it was found.

Sandusky county officials state the boy's neck was broken. Deep cuts were found across the back of the neck and on the hands.

Absence of marks on the body, police said, indicates the boy was not hit by a train as was at first supposed. A pool of blood was also found 50 feet from the body.

HILLTOP MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Orchard Grove Avenue Church Observes "Family Night."

That there will come a time to the procrastinating soul in which he will not be able to enter into a salvation status with God was declared by Rev. Joseph Edie, evangelist at the Orchard Grove revival, last evening. "My message is one of warning," he said. "There is no neutral, half-way ground in serving Jesus Christ."

The inclement night depleted some what the attendance of what was intended to be "Family Night." The largest one present developed to be that of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burns which consisted of themselves and their daughters, Misses Mary and Lucy. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Conn presented Mr. Burns with a copy of Edgar A. Guest's poems as a token of the occasion.

The song service, directed by Charles A. Price with Miss Mary Burns as organist, was followed by a duet by Mesdames Conn and Edie, "Listen to the Voice of the Saviour." Mrs. H. F. Burns accompanied them.

The invocation was made by Harry Brokaw, superintendent of the Orchard Grove Sunday school.

The revival, it was anounced, will be concluded on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Conn will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Edie, returning from his Youngstown pastorate, in the evening. Young People's night will be emphasized at the final session of the series of meetings.

That Rev. Mr. Conn may be enabled to be present on Sunday evening Rev. Alfred Walls, a former pastor, will preach at the Anderson Methodist church, Ninth street.

of reprisals and sanctions. The American government doesn't want to subscribe to the policy up to the point of sanctions. This government would rather deal with each individual problem as it arises, such as was done at Nanking, and not lay down any hard and fast policy in advance which future events might make unwise to follow.

The necessity of the powers maintaining a common front, or at least the semblance of one, in China, is well recognized in Washington. One official, describing the situation, paraphrased Benjamin Franklin's famous assertion of 150 years ago: "We must hang together, or assuredly we will all hang separately." It is for this reason that efforts are being made to minimize the differences between the London and Washington governments, and to get together.

Guerillas Cause Apprehension.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Guerillas and armed bandits are causing some apprehension in Shanghai, while foreign evacuation of the Yangtze ports continues without any serious disorders.

The Nationalists are attempting to disarm the guerillas and the Chinese police are making efforts to cope with the bandits who are staging repeated hold-ups throughout Shanghai

Meanwhile the matter of reported dissension within the ranks of the Nationalists is the subject for rumor. The repeated reports that Chiang Kai-Shek has been ordered deposed as military commander and that he intends to resist, are still without official confirmation. Efforts to reach Chiang Kai-Shek today for an interview were futile, as the Nationalist commander is completely surrounded by armed guards at all times and comes into public contact but infrequently.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Cantonese government, in a statement made public today, accused "reactionary and counter revolutionary elements and local ruffians" of responsibility for the foreign outbreak at Nanking.

NO COMPROMISE IN SIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Operators Say First Move is up to Union Chief.

AWAIT PARLEY

Stage Set for Showdown in Pittsburgh District.

CHICAGO, April 2.—No compromise was in sight today as the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field entered its second day.

Operators openly declared the first move for a new conference must come from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"We are willing at all times to talk the situation over with union officials," said Rice Miller, president of the coal operators' association of Illinois. "But we cannot afford to pay the Jacksonville wage scale and survive in competition with non-union fields."

It was the termination of the Jacksonville scale, providing a basic day wage of $7.50 that caused the suspension of mining throughout the field which embraces western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Ohio May Take Lead.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—With the scheduled conference between Ohio United Mine Workers representatives and Ohio operators at Columbus, April 7, this state may assume the lead in attempts to resume coal mining in the unionized central competitive field.

Although Ohio miners have steadfastly maintained they will not work for less than the old Jacksonville wage scale which expired April 1, and operators are insisting on a new competitive rate, it is possible a "middle ground" may be reached and a compromise effected.

Pennsylvania Situation.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—With the miners and operators in western Pennsylvania, the heart of the nation's bituminous coal producing area, farther apart than ever, the stage was being set today for a showdown in the wage controversy.

At the offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company preparations were made to reopen the company's eight large mines on an open basis as soon as possible after working under a union agreement for years.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES R STEWART

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—If Secretary of State Kellogg resigns (the report that he will is as persistent as the persistency with which he does not do it, day after day) what's the matter with Postmaster General New for his job?

HARRY S. NEW

Slow as Kellogg is about quitting, the impression in Washington is that his official days are numbered, just the same.

Everybody seemed to think of New all at once.

HARRY STEWART NEW is as different as individual from Frank Billings Kellogg as it's possible to imagine.

Secretary Kellogg is small and dressy and fidgety.

Postmaster General New is large and sartorially informal and restful, in his manner, as any clam. He's efficient, but he's efficient without any splurge.

New wears a large, black slouch hat, with a floppy brim. In winter he wears a coonskin overcoat. His clothes are good but he drapes 'em carelessly on his rangy frame. He's reminiscent of the west, though he comes from no farther in that direction than Indianny.

NEW'S tremendously popular. Most folks think he's the best postmaster general that ever was.

He was a newspaper man and a politician and finally a United States senator Mut when he came up for reelection, he was licked. As he'd always been a faithful wheelhorse, an appointive post had to be found for him, so he got the postmaster generalship, not because he was considered especially well equipped for it, but because he was entitled to a cabinet portfolio and that one was available.

He slid into his job as if he'd been made to order for it.

He's run it so smoothly that, during the going-on five years he's held it, it's been almost unnoticeable that there was any such job or any Harry New.

Oh, if he can only take the secretaryship of state and run it the same way!

Haskin's Letter

with keenness, intelligence and spirit. The blood of the greyhound and rier breed was therefore selected as foundation stock.

So successful have breeders been in producing a dog with speed that the whippet has often been said to be the fastest animal living, although the more cautious say, "it would be impossible to say definitely which is the swiftest animal." There appears to be no dissension, however, on the statement that the whippet can outrun any other dog.

The usual length of the track on which whippet races are held is 200 yards, and the record for this distance, from a standing start, 11 2-5 seconds. When the dog is going at top speed it is figured that he is traveling at the rate of 60 or 65 miles an hour. A human runner racing with a whippet is given a handicap of at least 75 yards, and then always loses. Charlie Paddock, the famous sprinter of the West Coast, has matched his speed against that of a whippet a number of times, but even with the customary handicap has gone down to defeat before these small symbols of speed.

Training for Racing.

The racing training of whippets begins when they are three months or less of age. Before they are able to run well they are trained to chase a cloth waved at them down the track. They are daily trained to "worry the rag," and as they grow a bit older they are run first 10 or 15 yards, and then increased distances as they grow older. It is interesting to note that although this breed of dog is primarily a racing variety, there are individuals which fail to show the racing instinct and positively refuse to learn.

During the last two weeks before a derby is to be held the dogs are sent over a 200-yard course three or four times a day at top speed. The final three or four days they are weighed three times a day and their food carefully measured according to whether they are increasing or losing weight. At this time eggs play an important part in the diet, while their quota of meat is often decreased.

An unusual characteristic of the whippet male, and one which has caused considerable stir among whippet enthusiasts, is the fact that he will not pass the female on the track, thus proving that after all chivalry is not dead—at least not among whippets. There are those who maintain that this extreme courtliness should be trained out of the male, while others believe that his "manners" should be left to him and merely offset by a handicap.

The American champion whippet racer is Nomad Nancy of Oxen, belonging to Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Short Hills, New Jersey. Not only is she a champion herself but she has produced five others. One of the unusual features of the forthcoming national derby is to be a race between Nancy and her five children. Nancy is unusual also in that she is a bench dog as well as a field champion.

The recent flair for whippet racing in the United States is largely due to the enthusiasm and effort of the Damon family. On the Pacific Coast however, it has been taken up by many of the movie stars and Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among the leading ones who race their own dogs.

Dog events are almost universally popular and it is believed that the National Whippet Derby is to have the support of a large part of official Washington, many members of which are dog owners. Whippet owners all over the country are becoming enthusiastic over the idea, believing that it will be an added impetus to the sport of whippet racing in this country.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, COLLEGE STREET, ORGANIZED FEB. 19, 1888

Mrs. John S. Scott, of this city, is the only survivor of the five persons who were assembled in East Liverpool on January 24, 1888, when a series of meetings was launched with a view toward organization of the First Church of Christ.

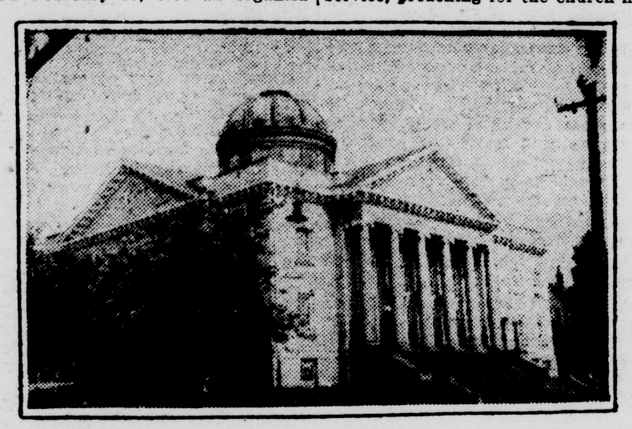
Rev. J. A. Brenenstuhl, then pastor of the Steubenville church, came to this city for the services.

On February 19, 1888 an organization was formed with 32 charter members. Among them were R. J. Meakin, Mrs. Ellen Meakin, J. S. Scott, Margaret Hague, Mary Hague, Thomas Lloyd, Mary E. Lloyd, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Harry H. Dixon, J. C. Nichols, Matthias Adams, Mrs. Anna Adams, Viola Adams, J. N. Baxter, Mrs. E. S. Baxter, R. M. Poland, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Sarah Copeland, George Kiddy, Mrs. E. J. Kiddy, Henrietta Richardson, Maggie Richardson, A. M. Jackson, Edith M. Nichols, Lela Kessel, R. L. Wallace and Adella May.

Of these charter members only six are with the church today.

The first elders of the church were Thomas Lloyd and Matthias Adams; first deacons, J. M. Baxter, R. J. Meakin, H. H. Dixon and J. C. Nichols.

The meetings during the early history of the church were held in Ikirt's hall. J. C. Stivers, Father Teagarden, Ira C. Mitchell, N. L. Atwood, Thomas E. Cramblett and others supplied occasional preaching. Of these J. C. B. Stivers rendered the most extended service, preaching for the church here once a month, being supported by the church in co-operation with the district missionary society. Mr. Stivers was then pastor of the New Cumberland church.



During the fall of 1889 a charter was procured with Stockdale Jackman, H. H. Dixon, J. S. Scott, Thomas Lloyd and W. H. Vodrey as incorporators. These men were later elected as trustees. The name of the church as given in the charter is "Church of Christ." The name Christian church is only a grammatical equivalent.

The great desire of the promoters of this movement, known as the "Current Reformation," has always been to bring about union among Christian peoples. To this end those fundamental and universal teachings and practices have always been advocated which are designed to promote unity rather than division.

From January, 1889, meetings were held semi-monthly and many were added to the membership. Prayer meeting was held each week, and a largely attended Sunday school was maintained.

Rev. B. C. Black was the first pastor. Following him was the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Huffer who remained with the church for about six years. Rev. O. S. Reed, Rev. Walter Mansell and J. W. Gorrell, respectively, were also pastors of the church.

With the growth of the church came the need for a permanent house of worship. The congregation, after having been notified to vacate Ikirt's hall and having made fruitless efforts to secure a place of meeting, concluded that with the help of God, such a house would be erected. Josiah Thompson donated the lot on the corner of East 4th and Elm street, Dec. 8, 1889, the congregation dedicated its first house of worship. Prof. J. M. Tribble of Bethany conducted the exercises. Updike and Haws, then famous as evangelists, followed with a series of meetings which were very successful, 163 being added to the church membership.

During the pastorates of Revs. Black, Huffer and Reed the church grew and prospered. These three laid

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

611. WHY WILL NO "LION" (SATAN — SEE PETER 5:8) BE THERE?

Answer: Because he is to be bound for a thousand years, the time during which the highway of holiness is open. See Revelation 20:1-3; Matthew 12:29.

612. DID DANIEL SEE THE KINGDOMS OF THIS WORLD AS FOUR BEASTS?

Answer: See Daniel seventh chapter

613. WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THOSE KINGDOMS WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS IS ESTABLISHED?

Answer: They shall pass away—be no more; for "there was given him (Christ) dominion and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him."—Daniel 7:13, 14, 27.

614. WHAT IS MEANT, THEREFORE, BY THE EXPRESSION: "NO RAVENOUS BEAST SHALL GO UP THEREON"?

Answer: It means: "The Kingdoms of this world (will) become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ" (Revelation 11:15) and, for that reason, there will be no ravenous beasts (beastly governments ready to tear each other to pieces at the slightest provocation); for the kingdom of Christ will be a kingdom of peace.—See Isaiah 2:4.

615. WHAT IS MEANT BY, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE"—ON THE HIGHWAY OF HOLINESS."—ISAIAH 35:9.

Answer: It means that those who will walk up on the highway of holiness (the fully consecrated) will be redeemed or bought back from the bondage of sin and death by Jesus Christ, their nearest and dearest friend. The Hebrew word here translated redeemed is GAAL and means the nearest of kin EMPOWERED as such to buy back his relative's lost estate. See Strong's concordance.

616. WHO ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" (V.10)?

Answer: The Man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all to be testified (to all) in due time." I Tim. 2:5,6.

617. FROM WHERE ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" TO "RETURN"?

Answer: First some of those on the broad way to destruction—death (Matthew 7:13), shall be delivered from going down to the pit (the grave. See Job 33:19-28). Afterwards, "all that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth." (John 5:28,29) Even the little children "shall come again from the land of the enemy"—death.'—Jeremiah 31:15-17; see also I Corinthians 15:21-26.

'PETER BECOMES JESUS' DISCIPLE' IS SUNDAY SC HOOL LESSON

William T. Ellis Tells of Two Contrasting Pictures in Mind of Traveler.

By William T. Ellis.

Two contrasting pictures hang in the gallery of this traveler's memory. One is of a swart fisherman, with seamed face and long hair and beard, his loose cotton garment tucked into his girdle, standing on the shore of the Lake of Galilee, casting or throwing a big circular net, exactly as described in the story of Peter's call. It is arduous work, calling for skill and patience and great physical hardihood. The man might be the Fisherman Apostle come to life again on the very scene where Peter toiled. How the Land illuminates the Book!

The other picture is far from Galilee, in the 'Eternal City" of Rome. I am standing beneath the dome of the greatest church in the world, which bears the name of this same fisherman. It is crowded with pilgrims from every corner of the earth. A black bronze statue of Saint Peter stands at one side, and a continuous procession of the devout pass it and reverently kiss the toe, which has been almost worn away by the lips of the fervent faithful. As I behold the spectacle, memory reverts to the primitive life about the Lake of Galilee. Peter, the fisherman, has come a long way. Viewed merely as a study in "success" is there any other contrast in the world so wonderful as this one?

What made Simon Peter, the rough swinger of nets and handler of slippery fish, over into Peter, the apostle and saint and imperial figure in whose honor countless cathedrals have been reared and whose name is above that of kings and emperors? It was only the addition of Jesus to his personality. The fisherman by the lake was Peter minus; the world figure of the apostle was Peter plus. If Jesus had not called Peter in His fellowship, he would have remained an unknown toiler on the waters to the end of his obscure and uneventful days. Our very first look at Simon Peter returns the tremendous and timely truth that the greatest character-transforming force in the world—mightier than any college or social training—is simply association with Jesus Christ. To follow Him is to find life in beauty and in bigness.

When a Soul Wakes Up.

All sorts of spectacular events were occurring around the Lake of Galilee at this time—the erection of new buildings at Capernaum and Bethsaida; the opening of new marble structures to house the hot baths on the western shore; and the ceaseless comings and goings of Roman dignitaries. This procession of "public" events would have got the headlines in the press of the day, had there been newspapers. No notice whatever have been taken of the insignificant fact that a few rough fishermen had become followers of a new religious Teacher whose home was by the Lake.

Looking back across the centuries, with truer perspective, we perceive clearly that nothing else in the whole history of that day, not only in Galilee but also throughout the entire known world, was so important as the decision of this little group of plain men to accept the leadership of Jesus. History knows nothing of the beautiful buildings or of the local potentates who were the talk of the towns and of the time; but the impress of Peter and John and their brothers upon the world has been revolutionary.

All of the really big things that happen in the world take place inside of somebody's head. Destiny depends upon decision. Human choices are the most eventful experiences in the life of mankind. All of the greatest news of our day is entirely missed by the newspapers, because it goes on, unseen and unknown, within the inner life of individual men and women—and mostly young men and women. When a soul like Peter's wakes up to the call of Christ, vast new consequences portend for the world. The day that he answered the voice of the Master, and left the nets, Peter set out on the road to Rome and to universal influence. In that choice was a whole education.

Introducing a Great Man.

Suppose we pause here for a little glimpse of this man Peter's life, and for a preview of his career. Up until the time of our Lesson, he was known only as a fisherman, a toiler at a hard trade. His vigorous, fearless and impetuous personality had made him a leader among his fellows; but the whole crowd were relatively unimportant. Peter's home was the mean house of a peasant. He was married, and his mother-in-law lived with him. One of his first acts as a disciple of Jesus was to take the Master to his home to heal his mother-in-law, who was ill—for blessing comes to the entire household when one member decides to go whole-heartedly along with Christ.

This rough fisherman was no parlor ornament. His language was rough, and even profane. He had a quick temper, but a loyal heart. His impulsiveness led him into many blunders, but the gift of discerning and self-immolating friendship was his. Certain qualities of self-reliance and initiative made him a leader in any group of which he was a member. Andrew called a bigger man than himself when he introduced his fiery, fearless, fighting friendly brother to Jesus. A "practical man" was Peter, ever quick to do something about it. No theorizer he: when all the hopes of the Brotherhood seemed buried in a new grave, it was Peter who proposed that they return to their fishing. Sometimes I dream of the possibility of a great conference of plain, practical, Christian men, mostly workers with their hands, to face frankly the present problems of religion and life, which the preachers sem to have muddled. We forget so easily the lesson of the apostlate, that the principal equipment of the founders of our faith was not formal education, but a personal experience of Christ.

Later, Peter took a pen in his calloused, gnarled fist; but he handled a net more easily. He did better when he had Mark for an amanuensis; for be supplied the material for the second Gospel, which was the first written in point of time. In the Apostolic church Peter was foremost in the council of the brethren. Eventually, he seems to have reached Rome, some time after Paul's imprisonment and death there. No record is to be found in the Bible of Peter's presence in Rome; but the early church fathers are unanimous in recording his sojourn and martyrdom there. Recently, I visited one of the catacombs in Rome where it is believed that the bodies of Paul and Peter rested together, before they were entombed in the respective churches that bear their names. All this matters little; the real Peter lives in the hearts of myriads of Christians who are peculiarly drawn to him by his humanness and frailty and his real love for Christ.

A Man Who Made Mistakes.

All sorts of classifications have been made of mankind; one that is as good as any is the persons who have initiative and the persons who has it not. One man with initiative—a self-starter—who has been allured by the winsomeness of the Saviour, is a better asset to a community, and to the kingdom of heaven, than whole rows of expensive and endowed institutions. Why are good folk so often dull and drab and conventionalized? Peter is a splash of color in Christian history. He had personality and push. He did things, without waiting for some organization to pass a resolution that they should be done. All the virtues and roughness of the pioneers made their home beneath his fisherman's cloak. Of all the qualities to be sough in youth, none is more priceless than initiative. To unleash a Christian Peter upon the world is a greater work than to build a cathedral.

Undoubtedly, Peter made mistakes—and how the puny, parroting, powerless little critics magnified them. The world is made up of two groups—one very small and one very large—persons who do things, and the other persons who talk about the persons who do them. Always the second company eventually become followers of the first. Better a blundering doer than an uncriticised idler. There is no other mistake equal to the making of no mistakes, because making nothing lse. Doubtless Peter's friends and family—but scarcely his mother-in-law—found fault with him for quitting his fishing in order to become a fisher of men. All his life he listened to criticism—and never heeded it.

One of the priceless bequests of Peter to the world is the lesson that "a man may be down, but never out." He embodies the good news of a second chance, and of a third chance. He taught the lesson of beginning again; which someone has put into verse:

"There's a wonderful place for the whole human race.
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where the acts of the past, in forgetfulness cast.
Rise no more, for God's pardon we gain.
And a Saviour we find, who will always be kind,
As the King of our hearts He shall reign,
And though sin-sick and sad, we shall all be made glad.
In the Land of Beginning Again."

With the completion of a new railroad line now under construction in Egypt, the running time between Cairo and Assuan will be reduced four hours.

"ATTAINING HAPPINESS," SERMON BY REV. L. E. LEE, WELLSVILLE

By Rev. L. E. Lee.

Every rational individual wants to be successful and happy. To be successful and happy certain conditions must be met or brought about in the nature of the men and women. Real and enduring happiness is not accomplished by chance. Order is the first law of heaven.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

When Jesus said "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added" he was expressing the fact that certaing things must be accomplished in the nature of men and women if they are to be happy. He was saying that happiness does not come by following the leadings of the world but that it is attained by consciously seeking to build our lives according to God's purposes for us. Let us see what is necessary to attain happiness.

Righteousness comes before happiness. The man who knows that in the sight of God and man he is unrighteous is not happy. He can never be happy as long as he is in this condition. The dishonest man is not happy nor can he be. Men who have violated the purity and cleanness of their moral life cannot be happy. All forms of sin bring in a greater or less degree unhappiness.

Spiritual adjustment comes before righteousness. God stands for all that is righteous in life. Jesus Christ has revealed God's ideals of righteousness in a way that man can understand. The man whose purposes and ideals of life are not the purposes and ideals that Jesus taught can not hope for happiness in the real sense. He lacks spiritual adjustment. He is out of adjustment with life as God purposed it should be.

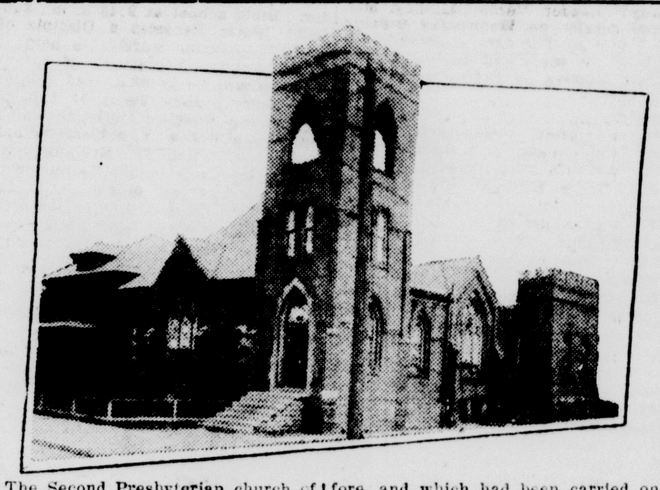
Obedience comes before spiritual adjustment. The man who has refused to obey God and Christ cannot be in harmony with life at its best.

Revc. L. E. Lee.

He is not spiritually adjusted; unrighteous because of his disobedience. Jesus has asked that men confess him as God's son; that they stand before the world definitely committed to his service. He has asked that they live as He taught men should live. If any man has refused to do this or neglected to do it, he cannot be happy. Obedience must come.

Faith and love come before obedience. Man must believe that Jesus is what he claims to be, God's Son. Seeing the motive of live in the heart God which impelled Him to send Jesus into the world, we must obey. Seeing Jesus in His life driven on and sustained by an overwhelming love for humanity, we must surely love Him and obey Him. Looking about us in life and seeing this love still burning in the hearts of thousands upon thousands of His people, urging them to unselfish service in His name we must surely believe in His power. Surely we will we must believe in Him, love Him and obey Him. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added."

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OBSERVES TWENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY



The Second Presbyterian church of East Liverpool was organized on March 27, 1890, by a committee of Steubenville Presbytery, consisting of Rev. A. B. Cooper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. K. Crowe and Elders John Campbell and Matthew Love. It was the outgrowth of a mission, begun just two years before, and which had been carried on under the supervision of the session of the mother church, of which W. B. McCord was superintendent and Dr. William M. Calhoon, assistant. Eighty members of the First church entered the new organization.

The first ruling elders were Robert Baird and Dr. Calhoon. John L. Noah and Noah Orr were ordained as deacons. Frank Allabaugh, William Allison, S. R. Dixon, M. C. Hollinger, James M. Pugh and John M. Smith were trustees. A constitution and by-laws, and "Plan of Benevolence" were adopted by the congregation.

The following ministers have served the congregation: Hugh A. Cooper, A. D. McCullough, N. M. Crowe, L. B. Lewellyn, H. G. Gaunt, W. W. McEwan, John M. Diehl, and the present pastor, Frederic A. Dean, who was installed Oct. 6, 1921.

The house is located in Virginia avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, East End. The congregation worshiped in a frame building situated on the site of the present one until 1908, when a modern and commodious edifice of pressed brick was erected. The building is well equipped with class, primary and social rooms in the basement. The auditorium with the Sunday school annex will seat 600 or 700 people. In 1921 there was erected on a lot, west of the church, a brick manse. The congregation also owns the two vacant lots adjoining the church on the east.

The present officers are: Session: I. S. Beadmore; clerk, W. A. Horger; C. A. Goodballet, John W. Johnson, C. M. McCoy, John M. Smith, James C. McGraw, J. J. Persohn, H. D. Brookman; trustees, C. A. Goodballet, chairman, J. W. Johnson, George F. Mulligan, J. J. Persohn, Jas. C. McGrew, Geo. P. Persohn, Phil Thompson, Marion M. Horger, A. C. Calhoun. Deacons: William Hill, Roy Manypenny, Lundy Price. Jesse C. Terrence is financial secretary and treasurer, while A. C. Calhoun is congregational secretary.

The church, its previous pastors and the present one, with the session and people, "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." In this day of terrific assault upon all of the historic doctrines of Christianity, and when we are witnessing the tragic loss of faith on every hand, this church stands firm and fearless for the "Word of God, the whole Word of God, and nothing but the Word of God," Dr. Dean, the present pastor points out.

First Church of Christ

well the foundation of a permanent work that was destined to have a vital part in the future religious and moral life of this community. In January, 1897, the house of worship was burned down. A grave problem presented itself as to a future site for a church building. It was decided to purchase the lot now occupied by the Broadway filling station of the Standard Oil company.

The church owes much to George Welsh, who recently died, and who paid the first $10 payment on that lot. It was purchased for $10,000. Other men whose judgment in this transaction was worth while were C. C. Thompson, R. J. Meakin and John Scott.

In a building on this lot the congregation worshipped here for about 15 years. A parsonage was built upon the site of the former church building which is used as such to this day.

Walter Mansell followed O. S. Reed as pastor, then came J. W. Gorrell, who remained with the church a little more than four years. Supply ministers were secured following the pastorate of Mr. Gorrell. C. N. Filson, now of Cleveland, supplied for three months and under his active leadership the debt on the parsonage was paid.

Rev. E. P. Wise was called to the pulpit January 1, 1906. Under his efficient leadership, wise planning and persistent labors the new house of worship was erected and dedicated. Rev. Wise was here for nearly 10 years. He was a preacher of rare ability.

Following the ministry of Rev. E. P. Wise came John Mullen. Mr. Mullen was a preacher of high merit and conviction. Much of the church debt was liquidated and the church organganized for advanced missionary activity.

Rev. B. R. Johnson was called in November, 1919, to the church as pastor. Under his ministry the entire debt has been paid, the membership increased until it is now one of the largest in the county. The Bible school averages about 500 the year round. The school is one of the best organized in the state. The missionary giving of the church approximates $4,000 a year and the congregation faces a bright and hopeful future.

The complete edition of the Bible printed in Braille type fills thirty-eight volumes and weighs 175 pounds.

SUNDAY SHOW AT THE STRAND

Midnight Musical Comedy Scheduled for 12:15.

"The Flash Parade," musical comedy, held over for three days, will stage a Sunday midnight show at the Strand theatre. The hour for the special attraction is 12:15 a. m.

A complete change of bill will be offered Monday and Wednesday.

Bud Brownie is the featured comedian. The Flash Trio consisting of Brownie, Jack Neff and Johnny Desmond are stopping the show at each performance and Harry and Daisy De Grace are going over very big with their specialties and numbers. Vera Brownie and Elsie Franks lead the costumed chorus. The three Wiggins sisters are very clever girls.

The scenery of "The Flash Parade" is beautiful and taking the show as a whole, it is one of the best to play the Strand theatre in a long time.

"Pauper," the word, has been eliminated from records of the Elgin District Asylum of Scotland, and hereafter lunatics without funds will be referred to as "non-paying patients."

A wireless equipment, which includes earphones at each patient's bed and loud speakers in all staff rooms, has been in stalled at Victoria Infirmary, Glasgow.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED HERE

Decrees Handed Down Yesterday by Judge W. F. Lones.

Five divorce actions heard by Judge W. F. Lones resulted in decrees being granted plaintiffs in each case yesterday. One contested action, which began Friday afternoon, will not likely be finished before Monday.

Elizabeth Sebodnick was given a decree against her husband, Michael Sebodnick, and has also been restored to her maiden name, Elizabeth De-Man.

Extreme cruelty was charged in the petition filed against Arnett Mason by his wife, Pauline Mason, and a decree was granted on these grounds. She was also restored to her maiden name, Pauline Moulton.

On account of his wife being absent from him four and one-half years, a divorce was granted Charles Gibellini against Bessie L. Gibellini The plaintiff resides in the East Palestine district.

In the case of Pauline Vochling against her husband, Louis Vochling, a decree was awarded the plaintiff on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Pauline Gates.

In a second hearing Blanche L. Mangus was given a divorce from Frank Mangus.

This case was first heard by the court Dec. 9, last, and a decree at that time was granted the plaintiff against the defendant on the grounds of extreme cruelty, gross neglect of duty and habitual drunkenness.

After this entry was made, the court sustained a motion of the defendant to set aside the entry, and leave was granted to file a supplimental petition.

As alimony, the court has awarded the plaintiff certain real estate and personal property.

Special Sermon Will Be Given by Pastor Of Christian Church

"Is Protestantism Making Good" will be the subject of a sermon tomorrow evening at the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett. The sermon will be based on the following questionnaire:

Are you a consistent Church member?

Why did you ever join the church of which you are a member?

In your opinion is the church rendering a real service in Lisbon?

Do you believe in a future life? If so give reasons.

Do you believe in future punishment for the wicked? Or is your belief in a second chance? Or in purgatory?

Do you believe in Christian Union? Are there too many Protestant churches?

Are Protestants as consistently loyal as Catholics?

Do Protestants put their church first, or do their clubs, lodges and pleasures come first?

Wherein is Catholicism superior to Protestantism?

Wherein is Protestantism superior to Catholicism?

Should the Protestants have "the confessional?"

Can Protestants do anything to strengthen the home and marriage vows?

Should our children be taught morals and religion in the public school?

What can Christian people do to enforce prohibition laws?

Add anything that will aid in a discussion of the strength or weakness of Protestantism.

A feature of this service will be a program of music by the Christian church quartet.

Jim Thorpe's Indian Five To Clash With Elks Tonight

Famous All Around Athlete to Perform With Redskins Here

Game is Final Appearance of Ex-Haskell Stars on Court This Year; Hang up Record of 48 Wins Out of 56 Games in Season's Tour.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by officials of the Elks basketball club for the appearance here tonight of the World Famous Indians, featuring Jim Thorpe, probably the greatest all around athlete in history. The Indians will clash with the Elks on the high school court, the game beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Indians are making a tour of the country, meeting only the fastest teams in the various cities they visit.

On the present tour they have met Davis and Elkins college, Salem college, West Virginia Business college at Clarksburg, Waynesburg college and other collegiate aggregations known in this district.

The redskins do not play the usual brand of ball exhibited by so-called professional teams traveling about the country but adhere to the college style of play, which most of them learned while attending Haskell college, at Lawrence, Kan. It is a much faster game, but the Indians, noted for their speed, take to it like ducks to water.

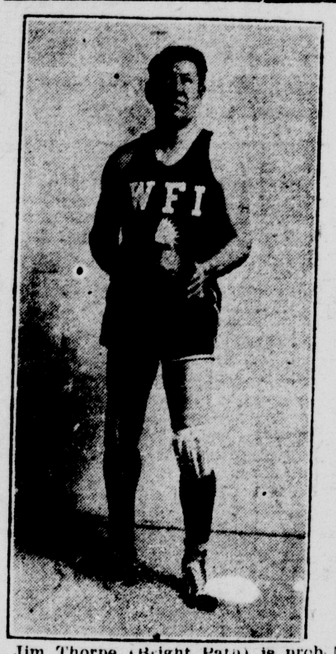
Tribes represented by the players on the team include the Sac and Fox, Cheyenne, Arrapho, Delaware, Caddo and Cherokee.

On this season's trip they have won 48 games and lost eight, hanging up a consecutive winning streak of 16. They have toured five states including Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The Elks, according to Coach Powell, will have their complete lineup in action against the visitors tonight.

The Peacocks and the R. G. Brian Clothiers will battle in the preliminary, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three Stars With Indian Quint Tonight



Jim Thorpe (Bright Path) is probably the world's greatest all around athlete and the leader of the World Famous Indians who will try to scalp the Elks tonight at the high school auditorium.

Raymond West (Light Foot) full blooded Cheyenne from Oklahoma, and captain of the Haskell college team last year. And listen, girls, West is the living image of the late Valentino. He's called the Indian Sheik.

Dennis Hildebrand (Eagle Feather) is a member of the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina. He captained the Haskenn University basketball teams during the season of 1925-26.

Uzcudun Given Edge Over New Zealander

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—If the various state boxing commissions will be so good as to send the referee in there with a white apron and a slightly insane countenance, it may be that I would be able to name a man who might go far in the heavyweight division. If they insisted that the lower rope be a brass rail, the ring floor a carpet of sawdust, with a stray cuspidor here and there to fall over or into, and a frosted mirror at one end, depicting a lady whose privacy has been ignored, I might go so far as to name a man who could be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The probable winner, under these favorable auspices is almost a stand out, in fact. He is Paolina Uzcudun, the well known human being, who won from Tom Heeney of New Zealand, in bar room rounds at Madison Square Garden last night.

As a source of entertainment, Paolino proved a pleasant surprise, for he is as aggressive as a soap salesman, and can soak them up like a bath towel. Unfortunately, it is getting so that they won't let you do anything in bar rooms nowadays except drink: so Paolino seems to be committed to the ring. Once in there, he is a sap for every punch in the show case and it is a debatable point whether or not he can't be hit with the back of your knee. That, in fact, is the only one Heeney didn't try last night.

My Meet Dempsey.

They are talking about tossing this smirking, cheerful soul in with Dempsey and I guess that will be all for the best. Jack is supposed to need encouragement and maybe Paolino needs the money, so why am I to knock down the doll-house in cold blood? But, strictly in a spirit of helpfulness, I will make one suggestion. He may meet clever light heavyweights like Delaney, McTigue and Tommy Loughran on the street some day, but let the matter go no further.

Some of the addicts, as a matter of fact, were quite incensed over the decision last night and left the premises in high dudgeon, which differs from a low dudgeon in only a few unimportant details. Both are things that you leave in when irritated.

However, the writer noted that quite a few scores credited Heeney with the first round, although Paolino ended it with a clean knockdown. Up to that point Heeney had done most of the hitting but it was just singles and doubles and, as far as I am concerned, it takes a home-run to clean the bases. Anyhow, I gave Paolino that round and also the fourth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

Heney, in brief, was well out in front up to the sixth round, but he caved under the body beatings and roughing and Paolino, strong and ever aggressive, came on to win in the late rounds.

Heeney is Floored.

It was quite a fight, once you forgot to remember that quite a few American heavyweights can beat either or both and probably will. Heeney started off with a rush and, slipping the other's wild left hooks, countered with heavy reights to the jaw. He accepted one on the goatee with only three seconds of the round left, however, staggered back, thought better of it and then decided he had been right in the first place.

In brief, the gentleman sat down after careful deliberation. He was up without a count, apparently unhurt, but the bell stopped them before the boys could get real intimate again. Heeney took the second and third rounds by steping inside that flailing left and countering with rights and Paolino's jaw, as all first class heavyweights can and will do. Near the end of the third, Heeney ripped a hard right to the body and brought it up to the jaw, but the basque laughed both off with evident sincerity.

Lafayettes Capture First Series Scrap

THE Elks last night dropped a tought decision to the Duquesne Lafayettes, 34 to 33, in a rapid fire clash at the high school.

It was the second straight game that the Antlers have lost in the last week or so by one point. And in one game before those two they lost by a two-point margin.

The defeat was hard to take as a result of the fact that the local passers led their Pittsburgh foes throughout the entire game on one occasion by almost a dozen points, only to finish behind by a single tally.

Minnick's field goal in the last minute of play spilled the game.

Tony Paulsey, Campbell star, worked at center for the Antlers in last night's melee and turned in a neat exhibition. In view of the fact that it was Tony's first game with the locals and that the team's mode of playing was more or less strange to him, his work as a whole was fine, and the same can be said for the rest of the club.

The Lafayettes have played together during the entire season, without a change, and the way they shot that ball around the court showed it.

Nate Lippe collected seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points and individual honors of the game. On the Elks' squad, Paulsey was next with three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Minnick broke loose in the second half, after being bottled up tightly in the opening periods and made five field goals. He was the reason the locals lost the decision. The rest of the Lafayette five collected just six field goals.

HORNSBY TO PLAY ASSERTS M'GRAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today reiterated his assertion that Rogers Hornsby will be in the New York lineup when the season opens even if he is unable to dispose of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. It is believed that Commissioner Landis will be asked to settle the matter.

MAY ARBITRATE IN STOCK DEAL

Heydler Suggests Plan to Settle Hornsby Problem.

NEW YORK, April 2.—President John Heydler of the National League has suggested that the disposal of the stock owned by Rogers Hornsby in the St. Louis Cardinals be effected by arbitration. Following the assertion of Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he would take the matter to court in case Hornsby could not dispose of the stock and Heydler attempted to prevent him from playing with the New York team, Heydler said that a compromise between Hornsby and Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, is necessary "for the good of baseball."

In his statement Heydler declared that "there is little or no chance of Honrsby getting $105 a share for his stock." Breadon has offered Hornsby $60 a share for the stock.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2.—Travis Jackson, star shortstop of the New York Giants, has been operated on for appendicitis here and it is feared he will be lost to the team for at least two months. If Eddie Farrell fails to fill the gap, Manager McGraw may recall Andy Cohen from Buffalo or buy Fred Maguire from Toledo.

REACH FINALS IN CAGE MEET

Huron, S. D., Quint Appears to Have Edge on Foes.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Teams representing Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi and South Dakota will clash today in the semi-finals of the national interscholastic basketball tournament under way at the University of Chicago.

South Dakota, represented by a team from Huron, appears to have an edge on the other states in the struggle for the national championship. The Huron huskies, who have beaten some of the strongest fives at the meet, clash with Batesville, Ark., in the first semi-final this afternoon.

In the second half of the semi-wind-up, Morton high of Cicero, Ill., will meet Florence, Miss.

The winners of these two affairs will fight it out tonight for the national title. The losers in the semi-final matches will play for third place.

Huron blasted its way to the semi-windup by swamping Pocatelli, Idaho, 33 to 16. Batesville went under the wire by trouncing Grand Forks, N. D., 31 to 21.

Morton high, of Cicero, qualified by the narrow margin of one point over the popular Vienna, Ga., quintet. The score was 27 to 26. Florence Miss surprised by eliminating Norfolk, Va., the last of the easterners, 18 to 14. "Florence, Miss.," may sound effeminate, but the Virginians are convinced there is nothing in a name.

Morton is favored to win over Florence, however, and if Huron defeats Batesville, Illinois and South Dakota will battle for the title. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals tonight.

Oasis Is Made to Order In Filming "Beau Geste"

Many Difficulties Beset Vast Crew of Builders in Erecting Fort for French Legion Picture.

Many were the difficulties that beset the vast crew of carpenters, masons and other artisans when they journeyed into the Arizona desert, six weeks in advance of Director Herbert Brenon and his cast of actors, to erect the fort and background for the filming of "Beau Geste." Major P. C. Wren's famous romantic-action tale of the French Foreign Legion, coming to the Ceramic theatre on April 7 for a three-day run.

The script called for a fort. This they found no different than any other assignment requiring hard work and a cast supply of material, but it also called for a typical desert oasis with the usual water hole. They found no such thing as this on the Arizona desert but there are few mere resourceful individuals than the boss location men of the movie makers and they immediately went about making an oasis of their own.

A hole of considerable proportions was dug in the sand, lined with tin and filled with water. Plam trees of the smaller variety are a part of the every day scenic equipment to be found in Hollywood studios but to make a realistic oasis, Director Brenon directed his men to secure the real articles. Making these trees stand upright in the shifting desert sands proved one of the most difficult tasks of preparing the location. It was finally found necessary to build extensions of heavy logs onto the roots of the trees and sink them into cement bases, fifteen feet under the ground. The result, a perfect oasis, in appearance, justified the trouble and expense.

That "Kruschen Feeling"

Grandpa says:

"It's the little daily dose that does it."

To keep feeling cheerful and fine all the time, take two tablets of Kruschen Salts in your cup of coffee or tea every morning—tasteless that way—or if you prefer, take them in a glass of hot water.

Supreme Court Again Suspends Appellate Ruling.

WRIT IS SOUGHT

Slayer's Attorney Seeks Order for Conference.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—The conference of E. L. Mills, Canton attorney, with his client, Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, was again postponed today, as a result of the decision of the Ohio supreme court late yesterday afternoon.

Mills is seeking a court order directing Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio state penitentiary, where McDermott is serving a life sentence, to permit the lawyer to confer with McDermott, who has an appeal pending, in private at the prison. Warden Thomas has refused on the ground that after a prisoner is convicted and sent to his institution, the matter of conferences with attorneys or other persons is wholly within the jurisdiction of the warden.

The court of appeals here agreed with Mills' contention, and ordered the warden to permit the private conference between Mills and McDermott, but under agreement of counsel, serving of the order was delayed until yesterday, pending a motion for an appeal to the supreme court. The latter tribunal, after hearing arguments yesterday, decided to hear an application for a writ of error, and issued an order temporarily suspending the service of the court of appeals' order on Warden Thomas, pending a final decision.

Judgment described in the petition in the case of Dopler against B. A. Schmupp and others has been found by the court to be a lein on the real estate of the defendants described in the original petition. An order of sale has been issued in both cases.

There IS a Difference In GASOLINE

One woman will bake a loaf of bread that is better than the bread baked by other women. One refiner will make a gasoline that is better. Here's why—

Refining gasoline from crude oil is like skimming cream from milk. Skim the top from the milk and you have pure cream. Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk—below this, milk only.

In refining gasoline from crude oil we "skim" the top by distillation process. That's Super-Flash Gasoline.

If we "dipped" farther, like one would dip farther in the milk bottle, we would get gasoline and coal oil.

"Super-Flash" is truly the "cream grade." It starts easily and its force is smooth and elastic.

No knock, less carbon, smoother running, greater power. There is a difference.

TRAIN KILLS TWO WORKMEN

Today

Good News of Henry Ford.
Two Chinese Bosses.
Useful Lady Astor.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

REASSURING news concerning Henry Ford was received direct from his family yesterday, yesterday afternoon. There is said to be no doubt as to his ultimate recovery, although his injuries are serious.

THERE is no further confirmation of the supposition, widely circulated, that Mr. Ford's car was deliberately crowded from the road and down a steep embankment by occupants of another, bigger car seeking to injure Mr. Ford. Further information as to that may come from Mr. Ford upon his complete recovery.

THOSE familiar with the scene of the accident, right off the highway from Detroit to Chicago, feel that Mr. Ford's escape was almost miraculous. A man in less perfect physical condition could not have escaped alive, at Mr. Ford's age.

THE two big men in the Chinese revolution already disagree. One will not go where the other is, thinking it might not be safe. Two governments may be set up in China, dividing the territory between them. That will mean more fighting, each great ruler will want to be the only one. This country, if wise, will get out of China, taking out missionaries and fighting men, and watch the Chinese work out their own salvation, or the reverse. What they decide to do is not our business.

BRITAIN may thank this country for producing and sending to London Lady Astor from Virginia, to say nothing of the great Astor fortune. First Lady Astor showed British women the way to parliament. Now she helps to defeat an effort to legalize British race track gambling. She knows that betting on races enriches in Britain, as it does here, an utterly worthless tribe of race track touts, gamblers and horse owners, whose "sport" makes thieves of other men's employes.

AN AUSTRALIAN wants to locate the ideal "Venus" and requests information. He has measured thousands of female beauties and finds the average waist 27 inches. That Australian can find his perfect Venus in a handsome room, all by herself, in the Louvre, in Paris. The Venus de Milo is the perfect woman. The perfect female figure is the one best fitted for motherhood, not for walking the tight rope or turning somersaults.

MISS PANKHURST has lost interest in votes for women, "Because vot-

ONE MAN JUMPS AS FLYER HITS HAND CAR NEAR NEW WATERFORD

Accident Occurs at Sharp Curve on Ft. Wayne Road.

BODIES CRUSHED

One Victim Leaves Widow and Five Children.

Two men were killed, while a third escaped by jumping when an eastbound Fort Wayne division flyer crashed into a hand car, carrying workmen to East Palestine, about one-fourth of a mile east of New Waterford, at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

JOSEPH MURPHY, 45, New Waterford.

ALBERT SEIDEL, 23, New Waterford.

Failed to Notice Train.

William Bevington, 25, also of New Waterford, escaped injury.

The train, said to have been 40 minutes late, was speeding. The three men on the hand car were traveling eastward, and with the exception of Bevington, failed to notice the approaching flyer.

Murphy and Seidel who were hurled clear of the tracks, died from broken necks and internal injuries. Almost every bone in Murphy's body is said to have been broken.

Second Fatal Accident.

Bodies of the victims were removed to the Warrick morgue, Columbiana, where Coroner J. M. Van Fossan was to conduct an inquest this afternoon.

Murphy leaves a widow and five children. Seidel is unmarried. Bevington is the son of the section foreman.

The accident occurred at a sharp curve in the railroad near wher four men lost their lives in a similar accident about five years ago.

U. S. GUNBOAT RUSHES TO TSIEN-TSIN; CHINESE MOUNT GUN AT NANKING

15,000 BRITISH TROOPS ON JOB

Eugene Chen Accuses Reactionaries and Ruffians of Responsibility for Outrages Against Foreigners.

LONDON, April 2.—Great Britain has decided to send additional troops to China, it was learned today.

The cabinet has reached a decision to reinforce the Shanghai defense forces, which already number more than 15,000 men.

The reinforcements will consist of some 5,000 additional troops, include a brigade of infantry, artillery units and a guards battalion.

The admiralty was advised that the nationalists have mounted 10-inch guns on Lion hill near Nanking.

Squabble Over Policy.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The U. S. gunboat Asheville has been sent from Shanghai to Tsien-Tsin, in the Pekin area, for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the Asiatic squadron, advised the navy today. Minister MacMurray, at Pekin, requested the vessel.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2. — The British and American governments are distinctly at loggerheads today over the question of a joint policy in dealing with the critical Chinese situation.

Officials of both governments may endeavor to minimize the differences, but the divergence of views between Washington and London are well known in diplomatic quarters—and quite possibly to the Cantonese nationalists as well.

American opposition to any theatrical fist brandishing in China has already resulted in the British note to the Cantonese being toned down considerably, probably to the point where the American government can support it. A copy of it is now enroute to Washington. It differs materially from that originally drafted by the British cabinet, according to London advices.

Common Front Urged.

The differences between Downing street and Pennsylvania avenue might be described as the difference between firmness and belligerency. Great Britain, with a much greater stake in China, as well as in nearby India, is for an ultimatum to the Cantonese, based on the Nanking outrages, and backed up by the threat

BOLEY IS HELD FOR MURDER IN DEATH OF WIFE AT GLEN ROBIN

Self-confessed Slayer Occupies Cell in Steubenville.

POLICEMAN WILL CHECK LICENSE NUMBERS OF CARS IN CHARGE OF CAREFUL DRIVERS NEXT WEEK

In a movement to decrease automobile accidents, the Review-Tribune, co-operating with the Columbiana County Motor club, police department and Ceramic theatre, on Monday will launch a week's Safe Driving compaign.

Ten pairs of Ceramic theatre tickets will be distributed each day to automobile owners whose license numbers are checked by a police officer. The license numbers will be published each day and tickets will be distributed from Motor Club headquarters in the Marfourth building.

Points at which the check will be made will vary from day to day in order that the survey may be as comprehensive as possible. Drivers will not be forewarned. As a result, motorists, anxious to appear on the honor roll with consequent rewards of free theatre tickets, will drive carefully at all times, which is the object of the campaign.

The mayor, safety director and police department will co-operate in the campaign to encourage automobile drivers to be careful, observing traffic light signals, parking regulations, speed limits and other traffic laws.

Car numbers will be noted by patrolmen not only in the business district but also in the residential sections. First list of license numbers will be published Tuesday evening. Names of the honor roll drivers will also be published each day, starting Wednesday, after the theatre tickets have been claimed.

Automobile owners watch for the numbers to appear daily. If yours appears go to the motor club headquarters in the Marfourth building for the theatre tickets. The license certificate or other conclusive proof as to the identity of the driver must be furnished when the tickets are claimed. Tickets will be good for any photoplay except an extraordinary attraction.

Drive carefully and watch for your number in the Review-Tribune!

Super Six Principle Placing Hudson Among Front Rank Cars

Lisbon Hill and St. Clair Avenue are Taken in High; Big Car Easily Attains Speed Mark of 75 Miles an Hour Here.

Imagine a speed almost like that of the wind, unfettered, sweeping, magnificent; a tremendous power, never, apparently, fully unleashed, that would level ordinary hills as if by the wave of a magic wand; and in the "pinches," the stubborn, "hanging-on" grip of an infuriated bulldog; the agility of a mountain lion; and with it all—quietness, ease and a performance with the smooth, velvety touch of the first warm zephyr of spring.

That is the Hudson—the new Hudson—with the famous super six principle released to the limit.

East Liverpool's two noted hills, testing grounds for any and all makes of automobiles, St. Clair avenue from the Horn switch at the bottom to a point at the top a short distance south of the cemetery, and Lisbon Hill crumbled away as sand hills might beneath the foot of a giant as the Hudson super six was turned loose on them yesterday afternoon.

Ray T. Birch, East Liverpool's Hudson-Essex dealer, who next week will stage a "show me" week for those with Missourian instincts, through the medium of a Hudson demonstration campaign, knew undoubtedly what he was talking about when he waxed enthusiastic over the achievement of the new Hudson, but we had never ridden in the new car, and were inclined to adopt the grain of salt theory.

After a couple of hours of amazement behind the Hudson's long, rakish hood, we knew what Birch and the Hudson Motor company meant by "the super six principle, released to the limit," although at no time during our automotive gyrations up and down the hills and over the highways of the city and contiguous territory was that big, black motor under the hood released to the limit.

At no time during the trip was the motor "favored." It had to come clean, or admit failure and the latter certainly was never the case.

Starting up St. Clair avenue, the first big hurdle, we were forced to throttle down to between 8 and 10 miles an hour as a result of a slight traffic congestion at the traffic light in the Broadway-St. Clair avenue intersection. Ordinarily it might have been good policy to back up and try it again, but our demonstrator thought nothing of the situation and tramped on the accelerator.

And there was no jerk—but down there somewhere under the foot-board could be faintly heard a low, angry rumble, and with a movement as inexorable as fate itself, the big car began to gather up speed—actually increased speed. It swept up around the sharp corner at the Gaston place, with no slackening of speed. It was making close to 38 in the stretch directly beyond and then it hit the "pinch." We held our breath as the big machine's gait slackened just a little. But that was all. It took hold of the job without complaint and walked up over the crest. It was picking up again as we reached Young's alley and then went into "the rough" as the golfer might say, but the change had little or no effect on the momentum despite the absence of smooth, steady traction. On up to the Northside fire station and then we took the hump past Skinnell's store like an Olympic hurdle champion. At the extreme top the speedometer showed 45 and the driver was not applying the whip.

Later, in secluded thoroughfares, out of the way of traffic, we rode at a gait of 75 miles an hour, lack of sufficient uninterrupted straightaway preventing us from pushing the indicator hand over any further.

And probably the most noticeable thing was the absence of strain on the driver's hands and wrists. Apparently it was all taken out in the ball bearing steering gear beneath. No leaping of the car, nor sidesways. A steady flow of power impulse, always.

Performance was just as perfect at four or five miles an hour as it was at 75. Throttled down, the big motor spun as smoothing as an electric motor. No jump, no push and pull, no vibration, as a result of perfect carburization and—the counterbalanced crankshaft, counterbalanced clutch, gearset, driving universals and driving shaft of the Hudson which carried the super-six principal throught the differential.

Actual performance on the road shows that teh new Hudson can do

5 to 25 miles hour in 7 seconds.
5 to 35 miles in 10 seconds.
5 to 50 miles in 18 seconds.
5 to 75 miles and beyond almost before you can think about it.

Lisbon hill and its tortuous curves provided another test and despite lumbering trucks, teamsters and other impediments at various spots up the hill, Hudson went over the top with four passengers, averaging 165 pounds apiece. She finished at approximately 26 after we had come almost to a dead stop on the last turn going up We continued on in high, no gear change, and picked up before the crest.

To the motor enthusiast—Do you want bullet-like velocity, locomotive power, electric motor movement, pullman car comfort, and Rock of Gibralter dependability? They are all there, and more, says Ray Birch, in the Hudson super six.

Q. What is Leptis Magna? G. T.

A. This is the old Roman name of the modern Lebda, in Tripolitania, an Italian posseasion on the Mediterranean coast of Africa. It was so-called to distinguish it from a smaller Semitic settlement near the Carthaginian frontier—Leptis Parva. Leptis Magna was the chief city of the ancient Tripolitis, the other two being Oea (the present Tripoli) and Sabrata (the modern Zuaskia).

Q. When was the Bunker Mill Monument begun and finished? M. McL.

A. Subscriptions were taken as early as 1824 for the Bunker Hill Monument, by an association called the Bunker Mill Monument association, the membership of which was $5; an engraved diploma was their certificate; their names were engraved on the parchment records deposited in the corner stone. The corner stone was laid by Lafayette on June 17th, 1825. The last stone was raised during the morning of July 23rd, 1842, in the presence of the officers of the Bunker Hill Monument association and a few other spectators. The work had to be stopped several times on the structure because of the lack of funds. The approximate cost was around $120,000.

Q. How often should cellars be whitewashed? J. T. L.

A. Cellar walls should be whitewashed once or twice a year. Whitewash is a disinfectant. If the cellar walls admit moisture, it is recommended to wash them with a dilute solution of hydrochloric acid (one part acid and five parts water), and then apply a plaster of oil-mixed mortar.

MIDGETS HEAD CERAMIC BILL

Famous Midgets Act Offered With "Children of Divorce."

Williams' Midgets, offering a high class novelty in song, dance and acrobatics, will appear in conjunction with the screen feature, "Children of Divorce," at the Ceramic theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the novelty act will be six famous midgets and two grown-ups. One of the midgets is considered one of the best Charleston dancers in the country. Another is an expert in hand balancing.

"Children of Divorce" brings Clara Bow and Esther Ralston together for the first time. These two stars, both comparative newcomers on the screen, have in the past few years proved their ability and talent in a number of productions. Miss Bow won fame in "Dancing Mothers" and "Mantrap" while Miss Ralston for her work in "The Blind Goddess" and "The Quarterback" attained equal acclaim.

Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor are the three leading men who head the stars' supporting cast.

Safe Driver Honor Roll

Who are East Liverpool's careful motorists?

Seeking the answer to the question, The Review-Tribune, with the co-operation of the Columbiana County Automobile Club, police department and Ceramic theatre management, will launch a one-week Safe Driving campaign on Monday.

Traffic policemen will check license numbers of motor car operators whose "good behavior" has been noted, and the numbers will be publish. Two tickets to the current attraction at the Ceramic theatre will be given each person whose license tags win a place on the honor roll.

Observations will be made at various street intersections. Traffic patrolmen will be urged to be especially alert at so-called dangerous crossings. Special attention will be given the "behavior" of drivers in the Diamond and on Broadway, Washington, Walnut, Market, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth, Eighth, Lisbon, Jefferson, Monroe and Mulberry streets, St. Clair, Dresden, Bradshaw and Pennsylvania avenues and River road.

The campaign not only will reveal the identity of the man who complies with traffic regulations, but will make known the names of violators of the law, for traffic officers will make arrests when circumstances warrant.

Let's co-operate next week in a drive to curtail the appalling automobile accident toll.

Little Boys Bigger

Doctors have been telling us for several years that the modern girl is taller and healthier than girls of 50 years ago. Physical examination records kept over a long period of years in colleges give particularly striking proof of this. It has generally been attributed to the fact that girls and women in recent years have entered more into sport and outdoor life than they did two or three generations ago.

Now the institute of juvenile research reports that school boys, too, are taller than the school boy 50 years ago. Several thousand school boys were examined. Their average height is found to be three and one-tenth inches ahead of the earlier average.

Since boys always have had considerable outdoor life, a different explanation is sought and readily found. Dr. Horace Gray of Chicago suggests that the extra height has resulted from increased knowledge of vitamins and general hygiene, and from medical progress in the control of infantile diseases that retard growth.

This explanation carries praise for the modern mother as well as the medical profession. Because of her interest in scientific care of her children, she takes pains to learn what is needed for their best development, and then she has the spunk to carry out the prescribed program of proper food, regular est and so on.

Paying For Past Vacations

It is reported that some of the touring agencies are offering European trips for next summer on the installment plan. The traveler pays half the cost of his trip at the start and the other half in ten monthly payments after his return.

It is possible that the agencies will make money on the system and that many of the installment plan tourists will eventually pay in full for their trips. But one wonders how the agencies will get back their tours in case of defaulted payments.

Paying for one's vacation after it is all over, however pleasant memories of it may be, certainly looks like the last word in installment folly. It would be much more practical to make these monthly payments into a Thrift Fund or a savings account for ten months in advance of the trip than to the agency for ten months after it's over.

The country has gone rather wild on this method of buying. If American prosperity, which has every reason to be enduring, is wrecked in the near future, immediate insstallment buying will have contributed a generous share to the catastrophe.

Less Broadcasting

The radio division of the American Engineering Council tells the Federal Radio Commission that more than half of the 733 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States should be eliminated by consolidation or banishment.

That sounds harsh, but is probably true. The democratic ideal of business freedom which encourages unlimited competition in other lines does not hold in the radio field. The "wave band" is limited. It does not do to assign too many stations to one wave-length, or to crowd the wave-lengths too closely together. After a certain point is reached in multiplication of broadcasting stations—and that point was passed long ago—the increase of stations actually decreases the effectiveness and value of broadcasting, to broadcasters and to the public.

There is no question that most of the 6,000,000 or more owners of radio sets would rather have a few good stations in operation than many poor ones.

Come to think of it, when our own North and South were engaged in a civil war, we weren't exactly eager to have outsiders around telling us what to do.

A BORN DIPLOMAT

Here a few months ago the story which I am now about to tell was freely circulated in certain circles where whimsical yarns are appreciated. So far as I know, though, it never found its way into the public prints. It is high time this error of omission was rectified.

In a Southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell-captain, who also was colored, for final examination before assigning him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must re respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate, "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace Hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up and knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. Eo I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an dere's a strange lady settin' in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, SUH!' and backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'suh' part—dat was tact!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Manhattan has a display window life which gives it an artificiality so pleasing to sneerers. It is not more indicative of the real New York than the drug store smart alecs along Main Street mirror the small town spirit.

As a matter of fact the temporary visitor heightens this artificiality. As a rule he flocks to the cafes, theaters and night clubs when the flash and tinsel stick out and rarely sees the dignity of the artistic and social side.

The world of Broadway is chiefly interested in high kicks, quick acting gin, flapper bobs and saxophone whines. That's the New York for out of town's consumption. There is not one visitor in a hundred who seeks a view of the other and finer side.

This is not criticism of the visitor. Only fact. A visit to New York is largely a pleasure spree—a chance to cut away from conventions, stay up all night, sleep half the day, see the girl and leg shows, watch the night club didoes and such.

The peace and beauties of Gotham are not on display. They are off beaten paths. Even mid-town architecture is more often than not hideous. There is no more beautiful spot than Riverside Drive at sunrise with the Hudson rippling at one's feet and the purpling Palisades in the background.

Nor Central Park when a gray dusk is sifting through spreading trees and wisteria bowers and the sun hangs a sullen red in the west. Or the view of the craft in the harbor. The ribbon like roads of Westchester. The breathless vista at Inspiration Point. And so on.

In contrast to Broadway and the few streets of the Roaring Forties, there are scores of peaceful streets where knitting ladies are at windows. There are cathedrals rivaling those of the old world and art treasures that are unrivaled.

A certain New Yorker gave his wife permission to purchase a traveling set for an European journey. When he received the bill he found it so expensive he had to give up the trip. Fifth Avenue displays them from $300 up to $3,500. Train porters refuse to carry them. They feel the risk is too great.

There is no legal redress for night club owners who are given bouncing checks in payment for illicit liquor. They must accept the loss. But they have inaugurated a scheme that may affect a cure. All checks returned "N. S. F." are put on display in a well lighted glass cabinet in the entrance hall.

Cholly Knickerbocker, whose spry ear is eternally cupped for Four Hundred gossip, declares New York hasn't a society leader and no one can be found for the job. We wonder if they have thought of the "Help Wanted" columns.

Abe Martin Says--

Mebbe th' fear o' muck rakin' biographers 'll cause a lot o' ole codgers t' stay in ther class.

Radio announcers are gettin' t' be jest like temporary chairmen—they seem t' fergit who th' audience is waitin' t' hear.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Whippet Derby.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2. — In May, Washington is to be the scene of the first national whippet derby ever held in the United States. Whippet races have been held within the last few years in various sections of the country but this is the first time that there has been a national derby. It is to be held under the auspices of the Whippet Club of America and it is hoped by enthusiasts that it will be the forerunner of an annual event.

Whippets have been called the "poor man's racehorse" and have justified this name in England where whippet racing originated. In this country, however, this sport is largely in the hands of a few wealthy dog fanciers, although this breed is said to have been introduced into the United States by natives of Lancastershire who brought their dogs with them when seeking their fortunes in a new country.

For many years whippet racing has been of vital interest and importance to the mill workers of Lancastershire, England. These people train their dogs and care for them all year that they may be entered in the big annual derby. Even thought the family may be obliged to go on short rations the dogs are given their required amount of food, and the best of quality.

The story is told that one of these mill works who owned a fine whippet had purchased meat for him. The dog ate only half and the rest was put away for the next meal. While the man was away at work the mother, torn by her children's hunger, gave them the rest of the meat. When the father returned from the mill and looked for the food for the dog, he viewed her act as almost sacrilege, asking her in awed tones if she had forgotten that the great day of the derby was very close. Of course this may be understood to a certain extent when it is realized that having a winning dog in the whippet derby is about the only way these people may hope to make any considerable sum of money.

The whippet is really a small variety of greyhound. In conformation it follows closely the lines of its larger brother and except for size the two can hardly be distinguished. Even in color it follows the various shades common to greyhounds—black, white, fawn, red, gray, and brindle, with combinations of such colors with white. The ideal height for males of the breed is 18 1-2 inches at the shoulder and for females 17 1-2 inches. The average and ideal weights for mature individuals are for males 21 pounds and for females 20 pounds.

Origin of Name.

The origin of the name "whippet" is from the Old English "wappet," meaning cur, and "whapping," meaning the yapping of a dog. This breed is said to have originated approximately a hundred years ago in the northern part of England. Rabbit baiting was a favorite sport at that time among the mill hands, colliers, and workmen of Yorkshire, Durham, Northumberland, and Lancastershire and to these men is largely due the developing of the whippet. When it later became unlawful to conduct rabbit-baiting races a straight course, such as is used today, was adopted. In developing the whippet, breeders sought to obtain extreme speed, endurance, and stamina,

George Jean Nathan, the dramatic critic, is said to have the finest collection of overcoats in town. In the assortment of some 50 in his wardrobe are all those from the fawn box-like shot coat with the expansive pearl buttons to one with an Alpine hood. Flo Ziegfeld is said to have 100 hats on hand at all times and Paul Whiteman has 38 different evening shirt sets. Valentino had some seventy cigarette cases. And I note in a man's style column that 24 pairs of shoes are about the right proportion for the perfect wardrobe of a human being not a centipede.

I seem to keep about six months behind or thereabouts with modern slang. An earnest young collegiate was explaining today about his disgust with a companion he called a cookie pusher.

"What is a cookie pusher?" I interrupted.

There was a withering look and "You know a couch spider—a parlor scorpion.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK ON "NARROWS" HIGHWAY

STATE BUREAU TO ACT WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Men on Job to Get Big Shovel in Readiness.

TO SPEED WORK

Dirt Will be Dumped in Yellow Creek District.

Work on the "Narrows" will be resumed in about two or three weeks, depending upon the weather, according to information received from the state highway department which now has two men at work getting the big shovel in readiness.

Present plans call for making the fill at the south approach to the new Pennsylvania overhead bridge with dirt taken from the right of way.

This will admit of hauling future refuse from the grading over the bridge for dumping in the Yellow Creek district and also reduce the haul which has been necessary by several miles.

When the new bridge has been reached it is planned to turn the shovel and cut another slice off the hill to widen the road back as far as the traction company crossing.

The state department hopes to hurry the effort right along so that this piece of road could be surfaced with slag the same as the road through Empire and up to the Pennsy crossing above the Stratton works.

No definite working plans have been made regarding the suggestion to cut an undergrade just above Yellow Creek and build the River road straight through into Wellsville as yet.

During the recent visit of Mr. Wilbur of the federal highway department he expressed himself as satisfied this was the ultimate road site and his opinion in the matter was echoed by state highway officials present. This will do away with two bad turns at present undergrades.

It is apparent that this plan will be adopted if the memorial to congress, passed under the direction of Senator Harry M. Carpenter at the request of Governor Donahey, makes funds available.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 2.—Price movements in the stock market today were practically unchanged from the last two or three sessions. The railroad, steel and high-priced industrials moved upward briskly in the first period under the impetus of an aggressive buying demand, while the whole of the oil group, with a few of the weak specialties, were battered into the lower price ranges under a heavy onslaught of speculative selling.

The week-end business reviews reported considerable unsettlement in important branches of domestic trade, with wholesale buying conservative and for immediate requirements.

The rise in railroad stocks carried a number of the well known issues from 1 to 2½ points above the previous close, but offerings of stocks at the higher prices were quite liberal, and moderate reactions took place. Erie sold in good volume at 50½, the highest price in twenty years, on reports that the management would expend a large sum of money on property improvements.

United States Steel repeated its almost daily performance of hanging up a new high record, the stock advancing fractionally to 170, where a good volume of business was transacted. The independent steel stocks were also firm and the motor shares made further improvement, under the lead of Studebaker and Packard.

Oil stocks were compelled to absorb another huge volume of speculative selling on rumors that further price cutting in mid-continent crude oil would be seen next week as the only effective check against excessive production of oil.

Professional selling of the bulk of industrial and specialty stocks was in comparatively large volume, with prices swaying backward and forward in a narrow radius. Coppers and sugars were inactive but steady and equipment stocks firm.

ing women make the same mistakes that men make." They do, of course, being human, and sometimes influenced by men. Nobody expected that votes for women would bring on the millennium over night. But women voting have made men in office ask themselves, "What do the women want? What do the children need?" That's the important thing about votes for women.

In old whisky days, as soon as women got the vote, district leaders in the great city sent out the order, "Don't get the boys drunk around election time, or their wives and daughters will vote against you.

AN INTERESTING revelation about tiger hunting by rajahs and other great dignitaries in India reads as follows:

"The rajahs like to be photographed with rows of tigers they have killed but do not like to be scratched or bitten. The day before the kill, the haunts of tigers 'marked down' are baited with meat heavily drugged. The tigers eat and can barely drag themselves along, when the beaters drive them out to be shot. Thus the royal sportsman's heroism is made pleasantly safe."

IRREVERENT bolsheviki allege in large type that under the czars the masses were similarly drugged and made docile. In their case the drug was religion, which communism calls "the opium of the people." As a matter of fact, religion is the consolation of the people and their balance wheel. But you can hardly expect bolshevism to realize that.

To those that have half a billion more was given yesterday. Five hundred million dollars in dividends were divided by 500 corporations. Some banks aer calling loans. By and by they will be looking for loans. A sudden check to the real estate bond business has cut down that form of investment by at least 70 per cent. Building has diminished, practically stopped in certain lines. Loans will be scarce and money cheaper. Make a note of it.

Furnishing the Music At Virginia Garden's Beautiful Ball Room

HATTIE

By Samuel Merwin

SYNOPSIS:

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. She and the office boy have been seen holding hands—otherwise there has been no romance in her life. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director.

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. They arrive at Beverly.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

Gran'ma sat outside in the automobile while Hattie and Alice and Emily, at three, presented themselves at the gate of the Earthwide Lot. A crabbed attendant kept them waiting. Then the young man named George appeared and guided them within. Hattie reflected that he must have come West on another train. He semed out here in this ragged desert of little wooden buildings and hurried pre-occupied people like an old friend. But he took for granted their presence more than three thousand miles from home. Evidently all sorts of folks came and went and nobody mattered particularly.

The lot, within, did have a bit here and there of the magic of her day dreams. Fantastically gotten up personages stolled about. On a stand under a canopy a beautiful star was having her white shoes done by a humorous Italian boy. She thought with an inexplicably poignant rush of feeling of Willie Maazzini. She saw another Italian leading a big brown bear. As they walked past a huge building she saw through an open doorway a blaze of lights and built up scenery. Two real Chinese girls walked by, giggling, gay in their yellow and green coats and trousers. A bulldog trotted past with a trained squirrel seated on his back. An immensely tall Westerner in riding chaps and blue shirt, his face painted a horried lavender tint, paused almost at her elbow to light a cirgarette, and she noted the permanent wave in his glossy hair. She wondered if cowboys really had their hair done that way out on the range.

Their guide left Alice and Emily in a court-yard, led Hattie into a building and along a corridor, and opened a door. The door closed behind her. It was a huge room, dimly beautiful, with a great deal of dark-colored wood that was elaborately carved and a lovely colored light sifting in through and arms and pictures of beautiful women scribbled over with writing and each in a carved frame of that same dark wood. A voice called—"Just a minute, dear!"—and she saw the now familiar thick shoulders of Mr. de Brissac bent over a huge flat desk at the farther end of the room. A black whip with a long braided lash hung on the wall over the desk. She turned for the man named George, but found that he hadn't come in with her. She looked again at the pictures; moved nearer a side wall, and discovered that each of these beautiful girls was a famous star. And the scribblings were all of an intimate nature—"To dear Armand"—that sort of thing. There was another huge picture that covered a round table and was itself covered by a disk of heavy glass—the head of a delicately pretty young girl, with no sign of clothing about her rounded shoulders, and, perhaps significantly, with no inscription. She had not before thought of him in connection with woman. The discovery came upon her with considerable force. The feeling returned of an unstable world slipping under her feet. She seemed a helpless drifting bit of life, without purpose or sense of direction, a nothing moving on toward somewhere.

She moved over beneath one of the richly stained windows and stood limply there. This great man who knew so much and whose tremendous personal power was felt the world around was all she had now to tie to. They, the whole family, had cut off everything else. She felt afraid. It was going to be very hard to keep from crying. She heard him push back his chair and walk briskly toward her, but couldn't turn. She was trembling. She felt his firm hands on her shoulders as he turned her, not unkindly. She found herself held tightly in his arms. He was kissing her. It seemed in a way that she ought to resist. Then it seemed that perhaps it would be all right if she compromised by not returning his kisses; as she had with Willie Maazzini. But Willie must never know about this. It occurred to her too that this wonderful man knew everything about girls and women, knew how to make them want to kiss him. She found herself now, for the first time in her life, giving a man something, a very little of herself. It was both wonderful and terrifying. Her face burned hotly. Then the tears came, and as he released her, she dropped, sobbing, into one of those magnificent chairs and dropped her head on her arm.

She heard him saying—"Why you poor little thing, you're all unstrung!" He held her head up and made her sip a little of a fluid that burned her throat so that she gagged and coughed. He was kind now. After a little she stopped crying, and rose. He took her shoulders again and held her off at arms length, studying her face.

"My dear little girl," she said now, with a gentleness of manner that faintly reassured her, "I never meant to upset you like that. You musn't misunderstand. I told you that I mean to star you, fire you, give you both the training and the experience that will make a great artist of you. Don't you understand, child, that I'm planning deliberately to devote my genius to making you famous and rich? It's not a case for crying. I intend that you shall be happy. As a mater of fact, you're not going to see such a lot of me. Within a day or so I shall be plunging into the job of making the biggest picture of my career. You are to help me in that job. I warn you I shall often be brusque. I have to give myself to my work day and night. It's a terrific drive."

It seemed wonderful that he, de Brissac, should be so patiently explaining himself to her.

He went on—"I'm not going to stir you up like that—not very often—because it is my plan to use that delicately virginal face of yours all through this the first of the pictures we are to make together. Do you know why I have taken you up like this? Picked you out of a million girls? Because you have just that delicate quality. Because you're not hard-boiled. Later, as I told you, I shall develop your emotions, bring you out, make a dramatic actress of you. All that in its own good time. Not now. You have great emotional possibilities. The test showed that. But you must understand this one thing—your emotions are mine, mine alone. You are not to let any other man play with them. I mean to build you, little by little. I tell you I'm going to make you."

She said, in her weak whisper—

"Yes, sir."

"You don't have to 'sir' me, dear. Call me Mr. de Brissac in public. When we're alone call me anything you like. Call me Armand."

But she knew she couldn't do that.

Her eyes, with the first sense of furtiveness they had ever known, roved uncertainly from one to another of his pictures.

"How do I know—" She couldn't get the words out.

"Yes? What's that?"

"How do I know you're—not—married?"

PHYSICIANS REPORT HENRY FORD OUT OF DANGER

ARMED GUARDS SURROUND HIS DEARBORN HOME

America's Billionaire Convalescing After Auto Crash.

PLOT IS DENIED

By William K. Hutchinson.

DETROIT, April 2.—The identity of the two men whose car crashed into the small coupe driven by Henry Ford Sunday night is known to the Ford secret police but the occupants of the car will not be prosecuted, it was indicated today by Prosecutor Robert M. Toms.

DETROIT, April 2.—Tightly strapped in splints, Henry Ford lay helpless today in an old-fashioned bed at his Dearborn palace, taking the complete rest necessary for his recovery from injuries received in a motor crash last Sunday night. A cordon of armed guards surrounded the estate.

America's first billionaire was convalescing and his physicians finally reported him out of danger. Great care however, is being exercised to prevent the development of complications.

Officials of the Ford Motor company meanwhile put the quietus on reports that the accident to the motor king was the result of an attempt to assassinate him. They acted at Ford's own direction, the motor king deciding that urgent steps must be taken to end the unexpected publicity that surrounded the crash.

Needs Only Rest.

The million dollar libed suit, which Aaron Sapiro, so-called wheat king, brought against Ford, today stood in adjournment until Monday. The motor king will appear as a witness in the trial but not until he has completely recovered. In the meantime, other witnesses will be called and, on Monday, Sapiro will resume the stand to undergo further cross-examination by Senator A. Reed, chief of Ford's counsel.

Ford probably will be able to leave his Dearborn home within two weeks unless unexpected complications develop. He needs only rest and the aid of nature to recover, according to his physicians.

An announcement, issued on behalf of the doctors by one of the Ford officials, follows:

"Mr. Ford's recovery is so assured that we will issue no more medical bulletins. Mr. Ford is convalescing in a perfectly normal manner, although he still suffers some pain from a sprained back and must lie perfectly still in splints and tape. All Mr. Ford must do to get well is to lie flat on his back and let nature take its course."

Mrs. Ford Reads to Him.

Ford, however, was reported to be very impatient and eager to get out into the open air and back to his desk. With the motor king one of the most restless men in the world, the big problem facing his family and physicians was to keep him quiet. Mrs. Ford spent most of yesterday at his bedside, it was learned, reading to him and the auto king evidenced much interest in the newspaper accounts of his accident.

It was these newspaper accounts incidentally which caused Ford to order the "soft pedal" put upon the reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate him. As a matter of fact, Ford himself originated the reports, according to authentic information. The motor king told his intimate friends that he believed it was a deliberate attempt to murder him when a "hit and run" driver, in a big Studebaker, side-swiped the coupe in which he was driving and knocked him across a sidewalk near his Dearborn estate and down a 15-foot embankment. Ford was particularly convinced of the ulterior motive of the driver by what he believed was an earlier attempt to crash into him just as he was about to cross a bridge over the Rouge river. The actual crash came a few seconds later after he crossed this bridge.

Seek Studebaker Driver.

Ford, who is one of the most experienced motorists in the country and who raced cars with Barney Oldfield years ago, gave orders at once to locate this Studebaker but anticipated no publicity on the subject. He was amazed later to learn that the whole matter had become public property and gave orders that the subject be dropped so far as the public was concerned.

The investigation, started by his secret agents, is continuing however, even though official statements have been issued to the contrary. In fact the Detroit police sent one officer at least to aid in the investigation.

The purpose of the Ford agents was to locate the suspected murder car to satisfy their own curiosity as to who drove into the auto king.

Secret Agents On Job.

A dozen of his secret agents, led by Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford investigators, spent yesterday in the federal building viewing every visitor to the libel suit trial. This action was taken as a precaution so that they will know the regular visitors when Ford goes to appear on the witness stand. Such precautions have not been taken previously within the memory of the oldest attache in the federal building.

A cordon of armed guards was thrown around Ford's Dearborn estate. This was done because Ford has a conviction that publicity on one attempt to assassinate him will provoke others. This was his chief reason for deprecating reports that last Sunday's crash was a designed attempt to attack him. He was so annoyed by the publicity given him this week that investigations have been ordered to learn who has been responsible for the news leaking to the public.

Cambridge Wins Its Annual Boat Race From Oxford Crew

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 2.—Cambridge today won its thirty-eighth annual boat race from Oxford.

Although Oxford took an early lead and was half a length in the van at the two-mile mark the Cambridge oarsmen bent to their task in the last two miles of the race and began pulling up as the boats reached Chiswick and then showed greater strength as they passed Duke's Meadow.

When the boats crossed the finish line at Mortlake the Cambridge crew was two lengths ahead.

VAN SWERINGENS LOSE ONE ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Van Swearingen interests today lost the first round of a fight with minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, who are opposed to the proposed billion dollar railroad merger.

TOLEDO YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD

Police Believe Boy Was Strangled to Death.

TOLEDO, April 2.—While funeral services for Robert E. Wilson, 17, are being held here today, police continued attempts to ascertain how the youth came to his death. Authorities are inclined to the belief that the boy was strangled to death, his throat cut by some sharp instrument and the body then carried to the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad track where it was found.

Sandusky county officials state the boy's neck was broken. Deep cuts were found across the back of the neck and on the hands.

Absence of marks on the body, police said, indicates the boy was not hit by a train as was at first supposed. A pool of blood was also found 50 feet from the body.

HILLTOP MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Orchard Grove Avenue Church Observes "Family Night."

That there will come a time to the procrastinating soul in which he will not be able to enter into a salvation status with God was declared by Rev. Joseph Edie, evangelist at the Orchard Grove revival, last evening. "My message is one of warning," he said. "There is no neutral, half-way ground in serving Jesus Christ."

The inclement night depleted somewhat the attendance of what was intended to be "Family Night." The largest one present developed to be that of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burns which consisted of themselves and their daughters, Misses Mary and Lucy. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Conn presented Mr. Burns with a copy of Edgar A. Guest's poems as a token of the occasion.

The song service, directed by Charles A. Price with Miss Mary Burns as organist, was followed by a duet by Mesdames Conn and Edie, "Listen to the Voice of the Saviour." Mrs. H. F. Burns accompanied them.

The invocation was made by Harry Brokaw, superintendent of the Orchard Grove Sunday school.

The revival, it was anounced, will be concluded on Sunday when Rev. Mr. Conn will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Edie, returning from his Youngstown pastorate, in the evening. Young People's night will be emphasized at the final session of the series of meetings.

That Rev. Mr. Conn may be enabled to be present on Sunday evening Rev. Alfred Walls, a former pastor, will preach at the Anderson Methodist church, Ninth street.

Toledoan Dies of Rabies.

Authorities believe the city is threatened with an epidemic. All dogs found running the streets have been ordered killed.

of reprisals and sanctions. The American government doesn't want to subscribe to the policy up to the point of sanctions. This government would rather deal with each individual problem as it arises, such as was done at Nanking, and not lay down any hard and fast policy in advance which future events might make unwise to follow.

The necessity of the powers maintaining a common front, or at least the semblance of one, in China, is well recognized in Washington. One official, describing the situation, paraphrased Benjamin Franklin's famous assertion of 150 years ago: "We must hang together, or assuredly we will all hang separately." It is for this reason that efforts are being made to minimize the differences between the London and Washington governments, and to get together.

Guerillas Cause Apprehension.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Guerillas and armed bandits are causing some apprehension in Shanghai, while foreign evacuation of the Yangtze ports continues without any serious disorders.

The Nationalists are attempting to disarm the guerillas and the Chinese police are making efforts to cope with the bandits who are staging repeated hold-ups throughout Shanghai.

Meanwhile the matter of reported dissension within the ranks of the Nationalists is the subject for rumor. The repeated reports that Chiang Kai-Shek has been ordered deposed as military commander and that he intends to resist, are still without official confirmation. Efforts to reach Chiang Kai-Shek today for an interview were futile, as the Nationalist commander is completely surrounded by armed guards at all times and comes into public contact but infrequently.

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Eugene Chen, foreign minister in the Cantonese government, in a statement made public today, accused "reactionary and counter revolutionary elements and local ruffians" of responsibility for the foreign outbreak at Nanking.

NO COMPROMISE IN SIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Operators Say First Move is up to Union Chief.

AWAIT PARLEY

Stage Set for Showdown in Pittsburgh District.

CHICAGO, April 2.—No compromise was in sight today as the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field entered its second day.

Operators openly declared the first move for a new conference must come from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"We are willing at all times to talk the situation over with union officials," said Rice Miller, president of the coal operators' association of Illinois. "But we cannot afford to pay the Jacksonville wage scale and survive in competition with non-union fields."

It was the termination of the Jacksonville scale, providing a basic day wage of $7.50 that caused the suspension of mining throughout the field which embraces western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Ohio May Take Lead.

CLEVELAND, April 2.—With the scheduled conference between Ohio United Mine Workers representatives and Ohio operators at Columbus, April 7, this state may assume the lead in attempts to resume coal mining in the unionized central competitive field.

Although Ohio miners have steadfastly maintained they will not work for less than the old Jacksonville wage scale which expired April 1, and operators are insisting on a new competitive rate, it is possible a "middle ground" may be reached and a compromise effected.

Pennsylvania Situation.

PITTSBURGH, April 2.—With the miners and operators in western Pennsylvania, the heart of the nation's bituminous coal producing area, farther apart than ever, the stage was being set today for a showdown in the wage controversy.

At the offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company preparations were made to reopen the company's eight large mines on an open basis as soon as possible after working under a union agreement for years.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P STEWART

NEW MENTIONED TO SUCCEED SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—If Secretary of State Kellogg resigns (the report that he will is as persistent as the persistency with which he does not do it, day after day) what's the matter with Postmaster General New for his job?

HARRY S. NEW

Slow as Kellogg is about quitting, the impression in Washington is that his official days are numbered, just the same.

Everybody seemed to think of New all at once.

HARRY STEWART NEW is as different as individual from Frank Billings Kellogg as it's possible to imagine.

Secretary Kellogg is small and dressy and fidgety.

Postmaster General New is large and sartorially informal and restful, in his manner, as any clam. He's efficient, but he's efficient without any splurge.

New wears a large, black slouch hat, with a floppy brim. In winter he wears a coonskin overcoat. His clothes are good but he drapes 'em carelessly on his rangy frame. He's reminiscent of the west, though he comes from no farther in that direction than Indianny.

NEW'S tremendously popular. Most folks think he's the best postmaster general that ever was.

He was a newspaper man and a politician and finally a United States senator Mut when he came up for re-election, he was licked. As he'd always been a faithful wheelhorse, an appointive post had to be found for him, so he got the postmaster generalship, not because he was considered especially well equipped for it, but because he was entitled to a cabinet portfolio and that one was available.

He slid into his job as if he'd been made-to order for it.

He's run it so smoothly that, during the going-on five years he's held it, it's been almost unnoticeable that there was any such job or any Harry New.

Oh, if he can only take the secretaryship of state and run it the same way!

Haskin's Letter

with keenness, intelligence and spirit. The blood of the greyhound and rrier breed was therefore selected as foundation stock.

So successful have breeders been in producing a dog with speed that the whippet has often been said to be the fastest animal living, although the more cautious say, "it would be impossible to say definitely which is the swiftest animal." There appears to be no dissension, however, on the statement that the whippet can outrun any other dog.

The usual length of the track on which whippet races are held is 200 yards, and the record for this distance, from a standing start, 11 2-5 seconds. When the dog is going at top speed it is figured that he is traveling at the rate of 60 or 65 miles an hour. A human runner racing with a whippet is given a handicap of at least 75 yards, and then always loses. Charlie Paddock, the famous sprinter of the West Coast, has matched his speed against that of a whippet a number of times, but even with the customary handicap has gone down to defeat before these small symbols of speed.

Training for Rating.

The racing training of whippets begins when they are three months or less of age. Before they are able to run well they are trained to chase a cloth waved at them down the track. They are daily trained to "worry the rag," and as they grow a bit older they are run first 10 or 15 yards, and then increased distances as they grow older. It is interesting to note that although this breed of dog is primarily a racing variety, there are individuals which fail to show the racing instinct and positively refuse to learn.

During the last two weeks before a derby is to be held the dogs are sent over a 200-yard course three or four times a day at top speed. The final three or four days they are weighed three times a day and their food carefully measured according to whether they are increasing or losing weight. At this time eggs play an important part in the diet, while their quota of meat is often decreased.

An unusual characteristic of the whippet male, and one which has caused considerable stir among whippet enthusiasts, is the fact that he will not pass the female on the track, thus proving that after all chivalry is not dead—at least not among whippets. There are those who maintain that this extreme courtliness should be trained out of the male, while others believe that his "manners" should be left to him and merely offset by a handicap.

The American champion whippet racer is Nomad Nancy of Oxen, belonging to Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Short Hills, New Jersey. Not only is she a champion herself but she has produced five others. One of the unusual features of the forthcoming national derby is to be a race between Nancy and her five children. Nancy is unusual also in that she is a bench dog as well as a field champion.

The recent flair for whippet racing in the United States is largely due to the enthusiasm and effort of the Damon family. On the Pacific Coast, however, it has been taken up by many of the movie stars and Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among the leading ones who race their own dogs.

Dog events are almost universally popular and it is believed that the National Whippet Derby is to have the support of a large part of official Washington, many members of which are dog owners. Whippet owners all over the country are becoming enthusiastic over the idea, believing that it will be an added impetus to the sport of whippet racing in this country.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, COLLEGE STREET, ORGANIZED FEB. 19, 1888

Mrs. John S. Scott, of this city, is the only survivor of the five persons who were assembled in East Liverpool on January 24, 1888, when a series of meetings was launched with a view toward organization of the First Church of Christ.

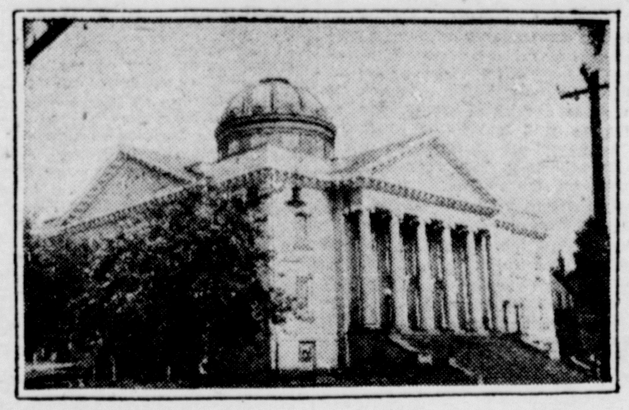
Rev. J. A. Brenenstuhl, then pastor of the Steubenville church, came to this city for the services.

On February 19, 1888 an organization was formed with 22 charter members. Among them were R. J. Meakin, Mrs. Ellen Meakin, J. S. Scott, Margaret Hague, Mary Hague, Thomas Lloyd, Mary E. Lloyd, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Harry H. Dixon, J. C. Nichols, Matthias Adams, Mrs. Anna Adams, Viola Adams, J. N. Baxter, Mrs. E. S. Baxter, R. M. Poland, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, Mrs. Retta Werner, Mrs. Sarah Copeland, George Kiddy, Mrs. E. J. Kiddy, Henrietta Richardson, Maggie Richardson, A. M. Jackson, Edith M. Nichols, Lela Kessel, R. L. Wallace and Adelia May.

Of these charter members only six are with the church today.

The first elders of the church were Thomas Lloyd and Matthias Adams; first deacons, J. M. Baxter, R. J. Meakin, H. H. Dixon and J. C. Nichols.

The meetings during the early history of the church were held in Ikirt's hall. J. C. Stivers, Father Teagarden, Ira C. Mitchell, N. L. Atwood, Thomas E. Cramblett and others supplied occasional preaching. Of these J. C. B. Stivers rendered the most extended service, preaching for the church here once a month, being supported by the church in co-operation with the district missionary society. Mr. Stivers was then pastor of the New Cumberland church.



During the fall of 1889 a charter was procured with Stockdale Jackman, H. H. Dixon, J. S. Scott, Thomas Lloyd and W. H. Vodrey as incorporators. These men were later elected as trustees. The name of the church as given in the charter is "Church of Christ." The name Christian church is only a grammatical equivalent.

The great desire of the promoters of this movement, known as the "Current Reformation," has always been to bring about union among Christian peoples. To this end those fundamental and universal teachings and practices have always been advocated which are designed to promote unity rather than division.

From January, 1889, meetings were held semi-monthly and many were added to the membership. Prayer meeting was held each week, and a largely attended Sunday school was maintained.

Rev. B. C. Black was the first pastor. Following him was the pastorate of Rev. C. W. Huffer who remained with the church for about six years. Rev. O. S. Reed, Rev. Walter Mansell and J. W. Gorrell, respectively, were also pastors of the church.

With the growth of the church came the need for a permanent house of worship. The congregation, after having been notified to vacate Ikirt's hall and having made fruitless efforts to secure a place of meeting, concluded that with the help of God, such a house would be erected. Josiah Thompson donated the lot on the corner of East 4th and Elm street, Dec. 8, 1889, the congregation dedicated its first house of worship. Prof. J. M. Tribble of Bethany conducted the exercises. Updike and Haws, then famous as evangelists, followed with a series of meetings which were very successful, 163 being added to the church membership.

During the pastorates of Revs. Black, Huffer and Reed the church grew and prospered. These three laid

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

611. WHY WILL NO "LION" (SATAN — SEE PETER 5:8) BE THERE?

Answer: Because he is to be bound for a thousand years, the time during which the highway of holiness is open. See Revelation 20:1-3; Matthew 12:29.

612. DID DANIEL SEE THE KINGDOMS OF THIS WORLD AS FOUR BEASTS?

Answer: See Daniel seventh chapter

613. WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THOSE KINGDOMS WHEN THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST AND THE SAINTS IS ESTABLISHED?

Answer: They shall pass away—be no more; for "there was given him (Christ) dominion and glory and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him."—Daniel 7:13, 14, 27.

614. WHAT IS MEANT, THEREFORE, BY THE EXPRESSION: "NO RAVENOUS BEAST SHALL GO UP THEREON"?

Answer: It means: "The Kingdoms of this world (will) become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ" (Revelation 11:15) and, for that reason, there will be no ravenous beasts (beastly governments ready to tear each other to pieces at the slightest provocation); for the kingdom of Christ will be a kingdom of peace.—See Isaiah 2:4.

615. WHAT IS MEANT BY, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE"—ON THE HIGHWAY OF HOLINESS."—ISAIAH 35:9.

Answer: It means that those who will walk up on the highway of holiness (the fully consecrated) will be redeemed or bought back from the bondage of sin and death by Jesus Christ, their nearest and dearest friend. The Hebrew word here translated redeemed is GAAL and means the nearest of kin EMPOWERED as such to buy back his relative's lost estate. See Strong's concordance.

616. WHO ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" (V.10)?

Answer: The Man Christ Jesus gave himself a ransom for all to be testified (to all) in due time." I Tim. 2:5,6.

617. FROM WHERE ARE "THE RANSOMED OF THE LORD" TO "RETURN"?

Answer: First some of those on the broad way to destruction—death (Matthew 7:13), shall be delivered from going down to the pit (the grave. See Job 33:19-28). Afterwards, "all that are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth." (John 5:28,29) Even the little children "shall come again from the land of the enemy"—death.'—Jeremiah 31:15-17; see also I Corinthians 15:21-26.

BE IN CHURCH SUNDAY

'PETER BECOMES JESUS' DISCIPLE' IS SUNDAY SC HOOL LESSON

William T. Ellis Tells of Two Contrasting Pictures in Mind of Traveler.

By William T. Ellis.

Two contrasting pictures hang in the gallery of this traveler's memory. One is of a swart fisherman, with seamed face and long hair and beard, his loose cotton garment tucked into his girdle, standing on the shore of the Lake of Galilee, casting or throwing a big circular net, exactly as described in the story of Peter's call. It is arduous work, calling for skill and patience and great physical hardihood. The man might be the Fisherman Apostle come to life again on the very scene where Peter toiled. How the Land illuminates the Book!

The other picture is far from Galilee, in the "Eternal City" of Rome. I am standing beneath the dome of the greatest church in the world, which bears the name of this same fisherman. It is crowded with pilgrims from every corner of the earth. A black bronze statue of Saint Peter stands at one side, and a continuous procession of the devout pass it and reverently kiss the toe, which has been almost worn away by the lips of the fervent faithful. As I behold the spectacle, memory reverts to the primitive life about the Lake of Galilee. Peter, the fisherman, has come a long way. Viewed merely as a study in "success" is there any other contrast in the world so wonderful as this one?

What made Simon Peter, the rough swinger of nets and handler of slippery fish, over into Peter, the apostle and saint and imperial figure in whose honor countless cathedrals have been reared and whose name is above that of kings and emperors? It was only the addition of Jesus to his personality. The fisherman by the lake was Peter minus; the world figure of the apostle was Peter plus. If Jesus had not called Peter in His fellowship, he would have remained an unknown toiler on the waters to the end of his obscure and uneventful days. Our very fist look at Simon Peter returns the tremendous and timely truth that the greatest character-transforming force in the world—mightier than any college or social training—is simply association with Jesus Christ. To follow Him is to find life in beauty and in bigness.

When a Soul Wakes Up.

All sorts of spectacular events were occurring around the Lake of Galilee at this time—the erection of new buildings at Capernaum and Bethsaida; the opening of new marble structures to house the hot baths on the western shore; and the ceaseless comings and goings of Roman dignitaries. This procession of "public" events would have got the headlines in the press of the day, had there been newspapers. No notice whatever have been taken of the insignificant fact that a few rough fishermen had become followers of a new religious Teacher whose home was by the Lake.

Looking back across the centuries, with truer perspective, we perceive clearly that nothing else in the whole history of that day, not only in Galilee but also throughout the entire known world, was so important as the decision of this little group of plain men to accept the leadership of Jesus. History knows nothing of the beautiful buildings or of the local potentates who were the talk of the towns and of the time; but the impress of Peter and John and their brothers upon the world has been revolutionary.

All of the really big things that happen in the world take place inside of somebody's head. Destiny depends upon decision. Human choices are the most eventful experiences in the life of mankind. All of the greatest news of our day is entirely missed by the newspapers, because it goes on, unseen and unknown, within the inner life of individual men and women—and mostly young men and women. When a soul like Peter's wakes up to the call of Christ, vast new consequences portend for the world. The day that he answered the voice of the Master, and left the nets, Peter set out on the road to Rome and to universal influence. In that choice was a whole education.

Introducing a Great Man.

Suppose we pause here for a little glimpse of this man Peter's life, and for a preview of his career. Up until the time of our Lesson, he was known only as a fisherman, a toiler at a hard trade. His vigorous, fearless and impetuous personality had made him a leader among his fellows; but the whole crowd were relatively unimportant. Peter's home was the mean house of a peasant. He was married, and his mother-in-law lived with him. One of his first acts as a disciple of Jesus was to take the Master to his home to heal his mother-in-law, who was ill—for blessing comes to the entire household when one member decides to go whole-heartedly along with Christ.

This rough fisherman was no parlor ornament. His language was rough, and even profane. He had a quick temper, but a loyal heart. His impulsiveness led him into many blunders, but the gift of discerning and self-immolating friendship was his. Certain qualities of self-reliance and initiative made him a leader in any group of which he was a member. Andrew called a bigger man than himself when he introduced his fiery, fearless, fighting friendly brother to Jesus. A "practical man" was Peter, ever quick to do something about it. No theorizer he: when all the hopes of the Brotherhood seemed buried in a new grave, it was Peter who proposed that they return to their fishing. Sometimes I dream of the possibility of a great conference of plain, practical, Christian men, mostly workers with their hands, to face frankly the present problems of religion and life, which the preachers sem to have muddled. We forget so easily the lesson of the apostlate, that the principal equipment of the founders of our faith was not formal education, but a personal experience of Christ.

Later, Peter took a pen in his calloused, gnarled fist; but he handled a net more easily. He did better when he had Mark for an amanuensis; for he supplied the material for the second Gospel, which was the first written in point of time. In the Apostolic church Peter was foremost in the council of the brethren. Eventually, he seems to have reached Rome, some time after Paul's imprisonment and death there. No record is to be found in the Bible of Peter's presence in Rome; but the early church fathers are unanimous in recording his sojourn and martyrdom there. Recently, I visited one of the catacombs in Rome where it is believed that the bodies of Paul and Peter rested together, before they were entombed in the respective churches that bear their names. All this matters little; the real Peter lives in the hearts of myriads of Christians who are peculiarly drawn to him by his humanness and frailty and his real love for Christ.

A Man Who Made Mistakes.

All sorts of classifications have been made of mankind; one that is as good as any is the persons who have initiative and the persons who has it not. One man with initiative—a self-starter—who has been allured by the winsomeness of the Saviour, is a better asset to a community, and to the kingdom of heaven, than whole rows of expensive and endowed institutions. Why are good folk so often dull and drab and conventionalized? Peter is a splash of color in Christian history. He had personality and push. He did things, without waiting for some organization to pass a resolution that they should be done. All the virtues and roughness of the pioneers made their home beneath his fisherman's cloak. Of all the qualities to be sough in youth, none is more priceless than initiative. To unleash a Christian Peter upon the world is a greater work than to build a cathedral.

Undoubtedly, Peter made mistakes—and how the puny, parroting, powerless little critics magnified them. The world is made up of two groups—one very small and one very large—persons who do things, and the other persons who talk about the persons who do them. Always the second company eventually become followers of the first. Better a blundering doer than an uncriticised idler. There is no other mistake equal to the making of no mistakes, because making nothing lse. Doubtless Peter's friends and family—but scarcely his mother-in-law—found fault with him for quitting his fishing in order to become a fisher of men. All his life he listened to criticism—and never heeded it.

One of the priceless bequests of Peter to the world is the lesson that "a man may be down, but never out." He embodies the good news of a second chance, and of a third chance. He taught the lesson of beginning again; which someone has put into verse:

"There's a wonderful place for the whole human race,
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where the acts of the past, in forgetfulness cast,
Rise no more, for God's pardon we gain.
And a Saviour we find, who will always be kind,
As the King of our hearts He shall reign,
And though sin-sick and sad, we shall all be made glad,
In the Land of Beginning Again."

With the completion of a new railroad line now under construction in Egypt, the running time between Cairo and Assuan will be reduced four hours.

"ATTAINING HAPPINESS," SERMON BY REV. L. E. LEE, WELLSVILLE

By Rev. L. E. Lee.

Every rational individual wants to be successful and happy. To be successful and happy certain conditions must be met or brought about in the nature of the men and women. Real and enduring happiness is not accomplished by chance. Order is the first law of heaven.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound.
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

When Jesus said "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added" he was expressing the fact that certaing things must be accomplished in the nature of men and women if they are to be happy. He was saying that happiness does not come by following the leadings of the world but that it is attained by consciously seeking to build our lives according to God's purposes for us. Let us see what is necessary to attain happiness.

Righteousness comes before happiness. The man who knows that in the sight of God and man he is unrighteous is not happy. He can never be happy as long as he is in this condition. The dishonest man is not happy nor can he be. Men who have violated the purity and cleanness of their moral life cannot be happy. All forms of sin bring in a greater or less degree unhappiness.

Spiritual adjustment comes before righteousness. God stands for all that is righteous in life. Jesus Christ has revealed God's ideals of righteousness in a way that man can understand. The man whose purposes and ideals of life are not the purposes and ideals that Jesus taught can not hope for happiness in the real sense. He lacks spiritual adjustment. He is out of adjustment with life as God purposed it should be.

Obedience comes before spiritual adjustment. The man who has refused to obey God and Christ cannot be in harmony with life at its best.

Revc. L. E. Lee.

He is not spiritually adjusted; unrighteous because of his disobedience. Jesus has asked that men confess him as God's son; that they stand before the world definitely committed to his service. He has asked that they live as He taught men should live. If any man has refused to do this or neglected to do it, he cannot be happy. Obedience must come.

Faith and love come before obedience. Man must believe that Jesus is what he claims to be, God's Son. Seeing the motive of live in the heart God which impelled Him to send Jesus into the world, we must obey. Seeing Jesus in His life driven on and sustained by an overwhelming love for humanity, we must surely love Him and obey Him. Looking about us in life and seeing this love still burning in the hearts of thousands upon thousands of His people, urging them to unselfish service in His name we must surely believe in His power. Surely we will we must believe in Him, love Him and obey Him. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness and all these things shall be added."

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OBSERVES TWENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

The Second Presbyterian church of East Liverpool was organized on March 27, 1890, by a committee of Steubenville Presbytery, consisting of Rev. A. B. Cooper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. N. K. Crowe and Elders John Campbell and Matthew Love. It was the outgrowth of a mission, begun just two years before, and which had been carried on under the supervision of the session of the mother church, of which W. B. McCord was superintendent and Dr. William M. Calhoon, assistant. Eighty members of the First church entered the new organization.

The first ruling elders were Robert Baird and Dr. Calhoon. John L. Noah and Noah Orr were ordained as deacons. Frank Allabaugh, William Allison, S. R. Dixon, M. C. Hollinger, James M. Pugh and John M. Smith were trustees. A constitution and by-laws, and "Plan of Benevolence" were adopted by the congregation.

The following ministers have served the congregation: Hugh A. Cooper, A. D. McCullough, N. M. Crowe, L. B. Lewellyn, H. G. Gaunt, W. W. McEwan, John M. Diehl, and the present pastor, Frederic A. Dean, who was installed Oct. 6, 1921.

The house is located in Virginia avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, East End. The congregation worshiped in a frame building situated on the site of the present one until 1908, when a modern and commodious edifice of pressed brick was erected. The building is well equipped with class, primary and social rooms in the basement. The auditorium with the Sunday school annex will seat 600 or 700 people. In 1921 there was erected on a lot, west of the church, a brick manse. The congregation also owns the two vacant lots adjoining the church on the east.

The present officers are: Session: I. S. Beadmore; clerk, W. A. Horger; C. A. Goodballet, John W. Johnson, C. M. McCoy, John M. Smith, James C. McGraw, J. J. Persohn, H. D. Brookman; trustees, C. A. Goodballet, chairman, J. W. Johnson, George F. Mulligan, J. J. Persohn, Jas. C. McGrew, Geo. P. Persohn, Phil Thompson, Marion M. Horger, A. C. Calhoun. Deacons: William Hill, Roy Manypenny, Lundy Price. Jesse C. Terrence is financial secretary and treasurer, while A. C. Calhoun is congregational secretary.

The church, its previous pastors and the present one, with the session and people, "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." In this day of terrific assault upon all of the historic doctrines of Christianity, and when we are witnessing the tragic loss of faith on every hand, this church stands firm and fearless for the "Word of God, the whole Word of God, and nothing but the Word of God," Dr. Dean, the present pastor points out.

First Church of Christ

well the foundation of a permanent work that was destined to have a vital part in the future religious and moral life of this community. In January, 1897, the house of worship was burned down. A grave problem presented itself as to a future site for a church building. It was decided to purchase the lot now occupied by the Broadway filling station of the Standard Oil company.

The church owes much to George Welsh, who recently died, and who paid the first $10 payment on that lot. It was purchased for $10,000. Other men whose judgment in this transaction was worth while were C. C. Thompson, R. J. Meakin and John Scott.

In a building on this lot the congregation worshipped here for about 15 years. A parsonage was built upon the site of the former church building which is used as such to this day.

Walter Mansell followed O. S. Reed as pastor, then came J. W. Gorrell, who remained with the church a little more than four years. Supply ministers were secured following the pastorate of Mr. Gorrell. C. N. Filson, now of Cleveland, supplied for three months and under his active leadership the debt on the parsonage was paid.

Rev. E. P. Wise was called to the pulpit January 1, 1906. Under his efficient leadership, wise planning and persistent labors the new house of worship was erected and dedicated. Rev. Wise was here for nearly 10 years. He was a preacher of rare ability.

Following the ministry of Rev. E. P. Wise came John Mullen. Mr. Mullen was a preacher of high merit and conviction. Much of the church debt was liquidated and the church organganized for advanced missionary activity.

Rev. B. R. Johnson was called in November, 1919, to the church as pastor. Under his ministry the entire debt has been paid, the membership increased until it is now one of the largest in the county. The Bible school averages about 500 the year round. The school is one of the best organized in the state. The missionary giving of the church approximates $4,000 a year and the congregation faces a bright and hopeful future.

The complete edition of the Bible printed in Braille type fills thirty-eight volumes and weighs 175 pounds.

Special Sermon Will Be Given by Pastor Of Christian Church

"Is Protestantism Making Good" will be the subject of a sermon tomorrow evening at the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett. The sermon will be based on the following questionnaire:

Are you a consistent Church member?

Why did you ever join the church of which you are a member?

In your opinion is the church rendering a real service in Lisbon?

Do you believe in a future life? If so give reasons.

Do you believe in future punishment for the wicked? Or is your belief in a second chance? Or in purgatory?

Do you believe in Christian Union? Are there too many Protestant churches?

Are Protestants as consistently loyal as Catholics?

Do Protestants put their church first, or do their clubs, lodges and pleasures come first?

Wherein is Catholicism superior to Protestantism?

Wherein is Protestantism superior to Catholicism?

Should the Protestants have "the confessional?"

Can Protestants do anything to strengthen the home and marriage vows?

Should our children be taught morals and religion in the public school?

Jim Thorpe's Indian Five To Clash With Elks Tonight

Famous All Around Athlete to Perform With Redskins Here

Game is Final Appearance of Ex-Haskell Stars on Court This Year; Hang up Record of 48 Wins Out of 56 Games in Season's Tour.

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by officials of the Elks basketball club for the appearance here tonight of the World Famous Indians, featuring Jim Thorpe, probably the greatest all around athlete in history. The Indians will clash with the Elks on the high school court, the game beginning at 9 o'clock.

The Indians are making a tour of the country, meeting only the fastest teams in the various cities they visit.

On the present tour they have met Davis and Elkins college, Salem college, West Virginia Business college at Clarksburg, Waynesburg college and other collegiate aggregations known in this district.

The redskins do not play the usual brand of ball exhibited by so-called professional teams traveling about the country but adhere to the college style of play, which most of them learned while attending Haskell college, at Lawrence, Kan. It is a much faster game, but the Indians, noted for their speed, take to it like ducks to water.

Tribes represented by the players on the team include the Sac and Fox, Cheyenne, Arrapho, Delaware, Caddo and Cherokee.

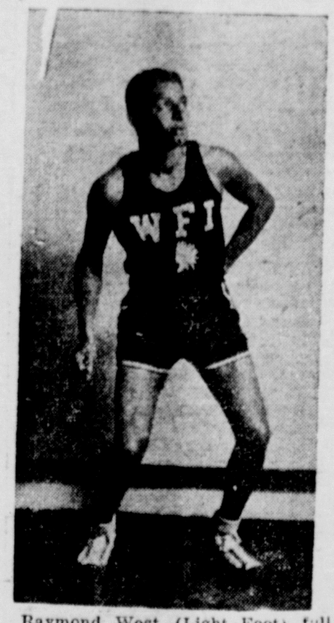
On this season's trip they have won 48 games and lost eight, hanging up a consecutive winning streak of 16. They have toured five states including Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The Elks, according to Coach Powell, will have their complete lineup in action against the visitors tonight.

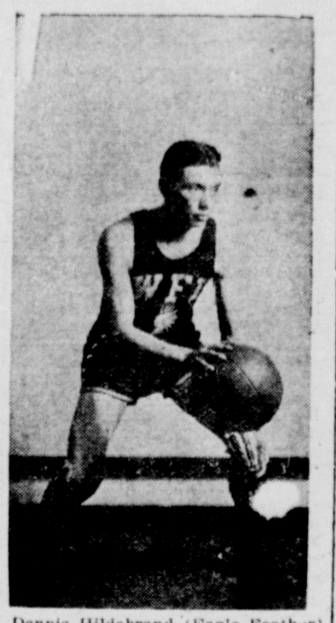
The Peacocks and the R. G. Brian Clothiers will battle in the preliminary, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three Stars With Indian Quint Tonight

Jim Thorpe (Bright Path) is probably the world's greatest all around athlete and the leader of the World Famous Indians who will try to scalp the Elks tonight at the high school auditorium.



Raymond West (Light Foot) full blooded Cheyenne from Oklahoma, and captain of the Haskell college team last year. And listen, girls, West is the living image of the late Valentino. He's called the Indian Sheik.



Dennis Hildebrand (Eagle Feather) is a member of the Cherokee tribe of North Carolina. He captained the Haskenn University basketball teams during the season of 1925-26.

Uzcudun Given Edge Over New Zealander

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 2.—If the various state boxing commissions will be so good as to send the referee in there with a white apron and a slightly inane countenance, it may be that I would be able to name a man who might go far in the heavyweight division. If they insisted that the lower rope be a brass rail, the ring floor a carpet of sawdust, with a stray cuspidor here and there to fall over or into, and a frosted mirror at one end, depicting a lady whose privacy has been ignored, I might go so far as to name a man who could be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The probable winner, under these favorable auspices is almost a stand out, in fact. He is Paolina Uzcudun, the well known human being, who won from Tom Heeney of New Zealand, in bar room rounds at Madison Square Garden last night.

As a source of entertainment, Paolino proved a pleasant surprise, for he is as aggressive as a soap salesman, and can soak them up like a bath towel. Unfortunately, it is getting so that they won't let you do anything in bar rooms nowadays except drink: so Paolino seems to be committed to the ring. Once in there, he is a sap for every punch in the show case and it is a debatable point whether or not he can't be hit with the back of your knee. That, in fact, is the only one Heeney didn't try last night.

My Meet Dempsey.

They are talking about tossing this smirking, cheerful soul in with Dempsey and I guess that will be all for the best. Jack is supposed to need encouragement and maybe Paolino needs the money, so why am I to knock down the doll-house in cold blood? But, strictly in a spirit of helpfulness, I will make one suggestion. He may meet clever light heavyweights like Delaney, McTigue and Tommy Loughran on the street some day, but let the matter go no further.

Some of the addicts, as a matter of fact, were quite incensed over the decision last night and left the premises in high dudgeon, which differs from a low dudgeon in only a few unimportant details. Both are things that you leave in when irritated.

However, the writer noted that quite a few scores credited Heeney with the first round, although Paolino ended it with a clean knockdown. Up to that point Heeney had done most of the hitting but it was just singles and doubles and, as far as I am concerned, it takes a home-run to clean the bases. Anyhow, I gave Paolino that round and also the fourth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

Heney, in brief, was well out in front up to the sixth round, but he caved under the body beatings and roughing and Paolino, strong and ever aggressive, came on to win in the late rounds.

Heeney is Floored.

It was quite a fight, once you forgot to remember that quite a few American heavyweights can beat either or both and probably will. Heeney started off with a rush and, slipping the other's wild left hooks, countered with heavy reights to the jaw. He accepted one on the goatee with only three seconds of the round left, however, staggered back, thought better of it and then decided he had been right in the first place.

In brief, the gentleman sat down after careful deliberation. He was up without a count, apparently unhurt, but the bell stopped them before the boys could get real intimate again. Heeney took the second and third rounds by steping inside that flailing left and countering with rights and Paolino's jaw, as all first class heavyweights can and will do. Near the end of the third, Heeney ripped a hard right to the body and brought it up to the jaw, but the basque laughed both off with evident sincerity.

Lafayettes Capture First Series Scrap

THE Elks last night dropped a tought decision to the Duquesne Lafayettes, 34 to 33, in a rapid fire clash at the high school.

It was the second straight game that the Antlers have lost in the last week or so by one point. And in one game before those two they lost by a two-point margin.

The defeat was hard to take as a result of the fact that the local passers led their Pittsburgh foes throughout the entire game on one occasion by almost a dozen points, only to finish behind by a single tally.

Minnick's field goal in the last minute of play spilled the game.

Tony Paulsey, Campbell star, worked at center for the Antlers in last night's melee and turned in a neat exhibition. In view of the fact that it was Tony's first game with the locals and that the team's mode of playing was more or less strange to him, his work as a whole was fine, and the same can be said for the rest of the club.

The Lafayettes have played together during the entire season, without a change, and the way they shot that ball around the court showed it.

Nate Lippe collected seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points and individual honors of the game. On the Elks' squad, Paulsey was next with three buckets and three fouls for nine points.

Minnick broke loose in the second half, after being bottled up tightly in the opening periods and made five field goals. He was the reason the locals lost the decision. The rest of the Lafayette five collected just six field goals.

HORNSBY TO PLAY ASSERTS M'GRAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2. — John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today reiterated his assertion that Rogers Hornsby will be in the New York lineup when the season opens even if he is unable to dispose of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. It is believed that Commissioner Landis will be asked to settle the matter.

MAY ARBITRATE IN STOCK DEAL

Heydler Suggests Plan to Settle Hornsby Problem.

NEW YORK, April 2.—President John Heydler of the National League has suggested that the disposal of the stock owned by Rogers Hornsby in the St. Louis Cardinals be effected by arbitration. Following the assertion of Manager John McGraw of the Giants that he would take the matter to court in case Hornsby could not dispose of the stock and Heydler attempted to prevent him from playing with the New York team, Heydler said that a compromise between Hornsby and Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, is necessary "for the good of baseball."

In his statement Heydler declared that "there is little or no chance of Honrsby getting $105 a share for his stock." Breadon has offered Hornsby $60 a share for the stock.

REACH FINALS IN CAGE MEET

Huron, S. D., Quint Appears to Have Edge on Foes.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Teams representing Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi and South Dakota will clash today in the semi-finals of the national interscholastic basketball tournament under way at the University of Chicago.

South Dakota, represented by a team from Huron, appears to have an edge on the other states in the struggle for the national championship. The Huron huskies, who have beaten some of the strongest fives at the meet, clash with Batesville, Ark., in the first semi-final this afternoon.

In the second half of the semi-windup, Morton high of Cicero, Ill., will meet Florence, Miss.

The winners of these two affairs will fight it out tonight for the national title. The losers in the semi-final matches will play for third place.

Huron blasted its way to the semi-windup by swamping Pocatelli, Idaho, 33 to 16. Batesville went under the wire by trouncing Grand Forks, N. D., 31 to 21.

Morton high, of Cicero, qualified by the narrow margin of one point over the popular Vienna, Ga., quintet. The score was 27 to 26. Florence Miss surprised by eliminating Norfolk, Va., the last of the easterners, 18 to 14 "Florence, Miss.," may sound effeminate, but the Virginians are convinced there is nothing in a name.

Morton is favored to win over Florence, however, and if Huron defeats Batesville, Illinois and South Dakota will battle for the title. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon and the finals tonight.

Oasis Is Made to Order In Filming "Beau Geste"

Many Difficulties Beset Vast Crew of Builders in Erecting Fort for French Legion Picture.

Many were the difficulties that beset the vast crew of carpenters, masons and other artisans when they journeyed into the Arizona desert, six weeks in advance of Director Herbert Brenon and his cast of actors, to erect the fort and background for the filming of "Beau Geste," Major P. C. Wren's famous romantic-action tale of the French Foreign Legion, coming to the Ceramic theatre on April 7 for a three-day run.

The script called for a fort. This they found no different than any other assignment requiring hard work and a cast supply of material, but it also called for a typical desert oasis with the usual water hole. They found no such thing as this on the Arizona desert but there are few more resourceful individuals than the boss location men of the movie makers and they immediately went about making an oasis of their own.

A hole of considerable proportions was dug in the sand, lined with tin and filled with water. Plam trees of the smaller variety are a part of the every day scenic equipment to be found in Hollywood studios but to make a realistic oasis, Director Brenon directed his men to secure the real articles. Making these trees stand upright in the shifting desert sands proved one of the most difficult tasks of preparing the location. It was finally found necessary to build extensions of heavy logs onto the roots of the trees and sink them into cement bases, fifteen feet under the ground. The result, a perfect oasis, in appearance, justified the trouble and expense.

That "Kruschen Feeling"

Grandpa says:

"It's the little daily dose that does it."

To keep feeling cheerful and fine all the time, take two tablets of Kruschen Salts in your cup of coffee or tea every morning—tasteless that way—or if you prefer, take them in a glass of hot water.

They keep the internal eliminating organs in splendid condition all the time.

Biggest selling popular remedy in Great Britain and Germany. They're good.

Supreme Court Again Suspends Appellate Ruling.

WRIT IS SOUGHT

Slayer's Attorney Seeks Order for Conference.

COLUMBUS, April 2.—The conference of E. L. Mills, Canton attorney, with his client, Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, was again postponed today, as a result of the decision of the Ohio supreme court late yesterday afternoon.

Mills is seeking a court order directing Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio state penitentiary, where McDermott is serving a life sentence, to permit the lawyer to confer with McDermott, who has an appeal pending, in private at the prison. Warden Thomas has refused on the ground that after a prisoner is convicted and sent to his institution, the matter of conferences with attorneys or other persons is wholly within the jurisdiction of the warden.

The court of appeals here agreed with Mills' contention, and ordered the warden to permit the private conference between Mills and McDermott, but under agreement of counsel, serving of the order was delayed until yesterday, pending a motion for an appeal to the supreme court. The latter tribunal, after hearing arguments yesterday, decided to hear an application for a writ of error, and issued an order temporarily suspending the service of the court of appeals' order on Warden Thomas, pending a final decision.

DOPLER GIVEN COURT VERDICTS

J. A. Dopler has been given a judgment in common pleas against Mrs. B. R. Larkins and others for $114.50. The amount and priority of leins are to be determined by a future order of the court. The court found that by a former decree there was an amount owing the plaintiff by the defendant.

Judgment described in the petition in the case of Dopler against B. A. Schmupp and others has been found by the court to be a lein on the real estate of the defendants described in the original petition. An order of sale has been issued in both cases.

There IS a Difference In GASOLINE

One woman will bake a loaf of bread that is better than the bread baked by other women. One refiner will make a gasoline that is better. Here's why—

Refining gasoline from crude oil is like skimming cream from milk. Skim the top from the milk and you have pure cream. Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk—below this, milk only.

In refining gasoline from crude oil we "skim" the top by distillation process. That's Super-Flash Gasoline.

If we "dipped" farther, like one would dip farther in the milk bottle, we would get gasoline and coal oil.

"Super-Flash" is truly the "cream grade." It starts easily and its force is smooth and elastic.

No knock, less carbon, smoother running, greater power. There is a difference.
